The 'If' No Longer In Nixon Campaign

Off-The-Platform Pledge To End The Vietnam War

By LOUIS CASSELS

WITH NIXON CAMPAIGN (UPI) — When he is elected president—in his mind there is no longer any "if" about it—Richard M. Nixon says he will devote all of his formidable energy to ending the war in Vietnam.

He believes it can be done in less than a year, perhaps in five or six months. But he will make no campaign promises to that effect because he knows that if the new president is publicly committed to stopping the war by a certain date, the enemy can exact concessions in the peace negotiations merely by stalling for time. (See other political stories, page 24.)

Nixon's off-the-platform views about Vietnam, the current election campaign and several other topics were communicated to this reporter during a long and relaxed conversation aboard his campaign plane, the Tricia, as he made a jet-age barnstorming tour of the Deep South.

The Republican presidential candidate has no magic formula, no secret plan, for bringing the war to an honorable end. He intends to employ whatever diplomatic strategy seems most likely to yield results in the curcumstances prevailing at the time.

His reluctance to talk now about such specific measures as a bombing halt, while doubtless prompted in part by political prudence, also reflects his conviction that circumstances may change so greatly before the new administration takes over next January, that it is foolish to try to anticipate now exactly what approach should be taken then.

Nixon will give top priority to ending the war because he is satisfied that there can be no real progress toward solution of this country's urgent domestic and international problems until its costly divisive involvement in Vietnam is honorably liquidated.

But in private conversation, as in public speeches, he bears down hard on the word "honorably."

"We simply cannot pull out of Vietnam," he says, however tempting that easy out may appear at times. So his urgent de-

SCHOOLROOM TRIAL—West Marin School children watch a real-live trial in their multi-purpose room. Clerk Stella Philipscheck (upper left) draws names of jurors as Judge David R. Baty (upper center) presides over the trial of a Petaluma motorcyclist accused of two traffic violations. The trial was held Wednesday in the school because the Northwwest Marin Justice Court is too small to accommodate a jury.

RARE WEST MARIN EVENT

Children Watch Wheels Of Justice

By MARY LEYDECKER

Jury trials in West Marin are rare and cherished events — and a sadder but wiser Petaluma motorcyclist can now testify that when justice is meted out in sleepy Point Reyes Station, proceedings scarcely resemble life in the big city.

At stake was not a man's life — or even his freedom — rather 22-year-old Daniel Hlebakos had asked for a jury to determine whether he was guilty of two traffic violations.

The last previous jury trial in Northwest Marin Justice Court, which handles mainly cases of people accused of digging too many clams or shooting deer out of season, was about a year and a half ago.

Since the justice court, over which Judge David R. Baty presides, is not large enough to hold a jury, another location has to be found for such trials.

For the trial Wednesday, West Marin School District Supt. Howard F. Brose volunteered the West Marin School multi-purpose room, which has been used before for this purpose.

"I decided the taxpayers should get something for the three or four hundred dollars it costs to have a jury trial," Brose said. "What better chance for the youngsters to have a first-hand civics lesson."

So for the weeks preceding the trial, the sixth, seventh and eighth graders at the school studied trials, practicing on mock cases involving charges like gum-chewing.

"It didn't go very well, though, because the kids hadn't actually seen a trial," said teacher Myron Conway.

Wednesday the stage was set for the real event.

By 10 a.m. the multi-purpose room had been turned into a courtroom, with 12 chairs for the jury, a judge's bench under the basketball hoop and tables for the opposing attorneys. At the last minute Superintendent Brose entered the room with a sponge in hand, announcing that the judge's bench looked sticky.

Housewives, many of them mothers of children in the school, and roughly clad men who had been summoned for jury duty began to arrive. Judge Baty was there, and Constable Michael McLean, known for the bloodhounds he raises, was ready to act as both bailiff and witness for the prosecution.

More police cars drove up to the school — a highway patrolan and several sheriff's deputies appeared. Deputy District Attorney Ernest C. Zunino was on hand to prosecute the case, and the defendant had in his corner, Petaluma attorney Guy Lounibos.

Young Hlebakos, looking very slicked up in a blue blazer and white turtleneck shirt, glanced nervously about.

At that point several dozen youngsters marched in quietly, taking places on folding chairs. Hlebakos gave

Trimmed Foreign Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today a foreign aid appropriation bill totaling $1.932 billion, a record low amount that is almost $1 billion below President Johnson's request.

A 44-13 vote after only a short debate sent the bill to conference to resolve differences with a House-approved version.

The Senate bill is $317 million above the measure passed by the House last month and was the last of the year's regular appropriations measures to clear the Senate.

WASHINGTON — A congressional probe of the anti-war protest at the Democratic National Convention will be halted until December, its chairman said today.

Peace demonstrators and their attorneys today staged a walkout from the House Un-American Activities subcommittee hearing at the start of the third day in a protest against the ouster of one of the lawyers.

The chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., told a newsman that the hearings would be recessed at the end of the day and would not resume until about Dec. 1 because of the panel's busy schedule. Congress is expected to adjourn next week.

The subcommittee has yet to question Yippie leader Jerry Rubin, pacifist David Dellinger who led the 1967 march on the Pentagon and three other protest leaders under subpoena.

The walkout followed efforts by Abbie Hoffman's lawyer to get him released. Hoffman, a leader of the so-called Youth International Party, was arrested Thursday, while waiting to appear at the hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, under the new flag desecration law because police thought his shirt was made from an American flag.

Hoffman's attorney, Gerald Leffcourt, interrupted testimony at today's session of the hearings to protest that police on Capitol Hill had refused to release Hoffman in spite of a release order by a judge.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., committee chairman, tried to gavel Leffcourt into silence and finally told police to escort him from the hearing room.

As he was led away, another

Olympics On; Mexico City Riots Ebb

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Students burned trolley cars near an Olympic field and armored cars kept their guns trained on apartment buildings where snipers had holed up, but most of the Mexican capital was quiet last night.

Despite the eruption of the student rebellion into a shooting battle with army troops Wednesday night, the Olympic games still were set to open a week from Saturday.

"As guests of Mexico, we have full confidence that the Mexican people. . .will join the participants and spectators in celebrating the games, a veritable oasis in a troubled world," said Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, after an emergency meeting of the committee.

A count of casualties at hospitals and police stations showed at least 27 persons killed in Wednesday night's fighting and some Mexico City newspapers reported death tolls as high as 40. There was no official estimate of the number wounded, but it appeared to be in the hundreds. Various sources reported between 1,000 and 1,500 arrested.

The government has reported 20 deaths. Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, secretary of defense, said one of the dead was

'DON'T FILL OUR BAY'

Marin Conservationists Hold Key To Big Project

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A $25 million high-rise project proposed in Richardson Bay yesterday ran into strong opposition by the Marin Conservation League and others in a hearing before the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Voting on Sausalito Associates' application to fill almost 17 acres was set for 2 p.m. Oct. 18 in the State Building here, and yesterday's hearing indicated the developer will have a hard time winning the necessary 13 votes.

FIRST ROUND

The project had won master plan approval from the Marin County Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors without a peep of protest from conservationists.

"Don't fill our bay," pleaded Mary B. Summers, a director of the conservation league, "but if you do, find us another name for it."

Mrs. Summers , former Marin County planning director and author of the original 1960 master plan for Richardson Bay, argued that the ''essential goals" in the bay are maximum preservation of open water and maximum public recreational facilities.

But BCDC approval of the fill application, she warned, will mean the public "will be left not with a bay but with a aseries of water courses and water holes, but we want our bay."

She conceded Richardson Bay "is not very attractive now, but you don't need to fill ip up and cover it up in order to get rid of the mess."

CONVENTION CENTER

Mrs. Summers also told the commission that the proposed project's convention center, restaurant and motel complex do not meet the commission's own requirement that fill be limited to "bay-oriented commercial-recreation and water-related" purposes. Also, she noted, "other master plans encourage this sort of development around the Civic Center."

She also argued that the BCDC's master plan for the bay stipulates that "a substantial portion of such (fill) projects must be built on existing land," but that only 2.2 acres of Sausalito Associates' plan would be on existing bay fill.

The fill not only would restrict public access to the bay, but would "obstruct the water views at this strategic point along the entrance to Marin County and the Redwood Empire," said Mrs. Summers, terming Richardson Bay "our gem."

TIDELAND ISSUE

She also noted that the developer's plan shows open water on tideland owned by

Sommerhalder's Life Now In Jury's Hands

By STEPHEN COOK

The life of Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, convicted of a Marin double murder and accused of a third killing, was in the hands of 12 Marin County men and women today.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner brought the seven-week trial to a close this afternoon and gave the case to the seven men and five women, who must decide if the 25-year-old killer is to die by cyanide gas at San Quentin or serve a life term in the prison.

Sommerhalder, leader of Sonoma County's Grim Reapers motorcycle gang, was convicted by the same jury two weeks ago of killing Curtis and Shirley Ackley, owners of a Terra Linda barbershop, Jan. 12.

Ackley, 28, was bound and blindfolded. He died of four bullets, fired into his brain through a point behind his left ear. Mrs. Ackley, 34, was shot through the shoulder and the head. She was strangled. After death, she was stabbed twice in the back and raped.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales told the jury this morning "this is the most sadistic crime you'll ever see" and asked that they order Sommerhalder's death.

"If John Sommerhalder doesn't deserve the death penalty, then no one ever will," Bales said in his closing argument.

Public Defender Jerome C. Durham argued that no man has the right to take the life of a fellow human being.

"If you sentence John to death, each and every one of you should go down there to the gas chamber at San Quentin and watch him die," Durham said.

Dietrich Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Marlene Dietrich returned to Broadway last night to repeat the one-woman song show she presented last year. First nighters gave her a tumultuous reception at final curtain.

The show carries only her name as its title. It begins with the start of her career as a young actress in the film "Blue Angel," a vintage movie which dates Miss Dietrich somewhere in her 60s. A reference work says she was born in Berlin, German, in 1901.

Son Causes Scare

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jill Ireland and her 4-year-old son Valentine became separated yesterday while inspecting their new home-to-be. Her search, casual at first, developed into frantic calls to police and firemen when she noticed a ceiling-high safe was closed. She was sure it was open moments before.

Turned out that the safe, when opened, was empty. And Valentine? He'd wandered down to the corner and when a school bus stopped, he got aboard, figuring this was a good time for an inspection trip of the school he will be going to in a few years. Police found him there, unruffled and smilling.

Royal Pair Visits

NEW YORK (AP) — Traveling in separate planes — a precaution to insure a surviving monarch — Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco arrived in New York Thursday night for a brief stay.

The prince and his blonde former movie star princess flew in from Mexico where they toured Mayan ruins after visiting HemisFair in San Antonio, Tex.

Adlai's Estate

An inventory filed yesterday in Surrogate's Court showed tax claims against the estate amounting to $470,000. The chief beneficiaries were three sons, Adlai 3rd, Borden and John, each of whom receive $312,900. Their father died in London July 14, 1965, at age 65.

Planes Deploy To Posts For Apollo Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The first of eight huge tracking aircraft that will be on station around the world in support of the upcoming flight of Apollo 7 lifted off today on the first leg of its mission.

"I don't think there are words that adequately portray the importance of what you're doing," Maj. Gen. David M. Jones, commander of the Air Force's Eastern Test Range, told the aircraft crews before the first flight departed.

The other seven planes will begin their missions tomorrow.

Most of the planes will operate from Australia to serve as airborne tracking stations supplementing land and ship stations in support of the 11-day orbital voyage set to start Oct. 11.

The four-engine jets will provide two-way voice relay between the astronauts and the Apollo control center in Houston and will receive and record telemetry data broadcast from the spaceship.

"Our mission is to become invisible," Jones told the crewmen. "If we do our job properly, no one will know we're there. But if we're not there, the mission won't succeed."

An unconditional clearance to begin the countdown on Apollo 7 was given yesterday. It marked the first time in nearly two years that America has geared for a manned space flight.

Apollo 7 astronauts Walter Schirra, Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham received the "go" for an Oct. 11 launch after a day-long top-level review yesterday of all preparations for the opening round in man's drive to the moon.

"Never have so many been in such good shape and so ready to fly," said Lt. Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, the Apollo program director, at the conclusion of the moonport meeting.

The session, called a flight readiness review, was the last major hurdle before the start of the long countdown on the first manned Apollo spaceship and its Saturn 1B rocket Sunday.

Injuries Minor

Kenneth Charles Walby, 18, of Sacramento, was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday for a cut forehead and right ear after his car hit gravel and slid off Sunny Oak Drive, Santa Venetia, at 11:15 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

Senate Blocks Cut, Votes Pentagon Its Full Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate, beating back all attempts to trim the largest appropriations bill in U.S. history, has voted to give the Pentagon $71.9 billion to run the Vietnam War and provide for the nation's defense over the coming year.

The measure, containing funds for deployment of a controversial and limited anti-ballistic missile system to protect against nuclear attack from Communist China, must now be reconciled in conference with a slightly larger $72.2 billion bill passed by the House.

The Senate approved the measure by a vote of 55 to 2—only Democratic Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska and Stephen Young of Ohio were opposed—after overwhelmingly rejecting a series of cutting amendments proposed by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Brentano's Inc., a nationwide bookselling chain, announced Thursday it had purchased the two Paul Elder & Co. stores in San Francisco.

No price was made public. The stores were founded by Paul Elder Sr. in 1898. His son said only that "My wife Eloise and I have been working too hard, too long."

Brentano's also said it had bought Campbell's Book Store in Los Angeles.

Russ Send Ships Past Bosporus

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A large Soviet destroyer equipped with missile launchers passed through the Bosporus from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean today. A 20-ton floating dock followed.

There now are two heavy destroyers of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. The first passed through here Sept. 20.

Istanbul port authorities said the floating dock was towed by two ocean tugs and escorted by an auxiliary ship.

Reliable sources say the Russians now have six conventional and one nuclear submarine in the Mediterranean. Other Soviet naval units in the Mediterranean now are reported to include three escort ships, three fast escort ships, 31 supply vessels and an undetermined number of minesweepers, minelayers and patrol boats.

Symphony Opens Drive For Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Symphony, faced with a $2.2 million budget and expecting the largest deficit in its history, is campaigning for funds.

The drive opened yesterday although the season doesn't begin until next month.

The symphony bills itself as a statewide orchestra. Fourteen of its 167 concerts are given in communities outside San Francisco. Officials said 50 per cent of the symphony's support comes from residents of other communities.

A Third Heart?

CHICAGO (AP)—The world's longest-living heart transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, may eventually get another heart, his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, told newsmen.

Barnard, the South African who pioneered transplantation, said yesterday he expected that Blaiberg's heart given him last January eventually would be rejected by his body and that he would get a new heart when it is. "We cannot prevent the process of rejection, we can only slow it down," Barnard said.

Barnard said Blaiberg was in good health.

STANDING OVATION

Fortas To Critics: 'I Will Persevere'

NEW YORK (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas says he will "persevere" in the fight for civil liberties and says "fundamental human rights" guaranteed in the 14th amendment are under attack.

"Be careful on this issue of 'law and order,' a great phrase to which strange meanings are being attached," Fortas said last night at a New York University Law School conference on the 100th anniversary of the 14th Amendment.

It was the 58-year-old justice's first public appearance since he withdrew Wednesday as President Johnson's nominee for U.S. chief justice. He took the step after the Senate failed to cut off a filibuster against his nomination.

Fortas got a standing ovation of several minutes when he entered the filled, 500-seat auditorium and brought the audience to its feet several times during his speech.

He was preceded at the lectern by Arthur J. Goldberg whom Fortas succeeded on the Supreme Court in 1965 when Goldberg became U.S. ambassador to the United Nations a post he has since resigned.

Noting Fortas' presence, Goldberg said he did not want to act "like an ostrich with my head in the sand."

"I want to express, here and now," he said, "my very profound regret at the wrongful action of the United States Senate."

He said his wife, Dorothy, had called Fortas Wednesday night to offer sympathy and had reminded him of a Benjamin Franklin quotation which said, in essence, "One must persevere through insult and injury .... Time will do you justice."

Ignoring his 26-page prepared speech, Fortas said, "I hope that this nation will proceed to the fulfillment of our constitutional values. I fear that we are again in a national crisis where we who believe in this nation ... where we who believe in the 14th Amendment, will be put to it to defend it.

"Mr. Justice, tell Dorothy, as I could not after I got her wonderful call yesterday, so far as I am concerned, I shall persevere."

College Board Opposes Watson Amendment

Marin Junior College District trustees last night called for preparation of a resolution opposing Proposition 9, (the Watson Amendment) supporting Proposition 1-A and citing the need for overall reform of the tax structure in California.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy said passage of Proposition 9 would cause fiscal turmoil and would be a threat to local participation in school operation.

Under the Watson amendment property tax levies would be limited to 1 per cent of market value and the use of property tax revenues to support schools and welfare would be phased out over a five-year period.

The amendment would eliminating a source of revenue to support education without providing for alternative sources, and could result in higher sales and income taxes and work "a real hardship on those in lower income brackets," Mrs. Deedy said.

Proposition 1-A, the alternative tax reform measure, provides for more orderly change and should be supported, Mrs. Deedy said.

She suggested that the board also call for a reform of the tax structure which would adequately support education without eliminating local control.

The board approved sponsorship of a debate on Proposition 9, to be conducted at Olney Hall on the Kentfield campus at 8:15 p.m. on Oct. 24.

Acting College President Louis H. Herkenhoff said both sides of the issue would be presented, and the college will sponsor the session as part of its community service program.

Donald K. Felt, an attorney, of Mill Valley, and Charles W. Gray, an employee relations director, of San Rafael, were sworn in as new trustees at the opening of last night's session.

Marin Junior College District Board Also:

Hospital Blast Kills Workman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— An explosion in the boiler room of Children's Hospital killed one employee last night and shattered the hospital's gas and water mains. None of the patients was injured.

The victim was tentatively identified as Donald Autrey, 30, who apparently was working on one of the main boilers when a gas leak exploded.

The blast rocked the Richmond District and shattered windows in the east wing of the hospital. Some patients were moved for security reasons as flakes from the ceiling showered down on them.

Novato Told New Campus Due By 1972

Theodore C. Wellman, president of the Marin Junior College District board, told the Novato Chamber of Commerce yesterday that, despite a projected shortage in capital funds, the North Marin campups of the College of Marin probably will open in 1972, on schedule.

Wellman said the district expects to have obtained $15.5 to $16 million when a 35-cent override tax expires in 1972, but that the estimated cost of capital improvements at the Kentfield and North Marin campus is $27.4 million.

Wellman, addressing chamber members Wednesday, was asked by Joseph Gargilulo, a former college trustee, why a Novatan had not been selected to fill one of the vacancies on the board. Wellman said no one from North Marin applied.

Trustees Set Workshop On Student Demands For Roles

Marin Junior College District trustees, faced with student demand for a greater role in planning, will hold an open discussion session with students, faculty members and citizens Tuesday.

Trustees last night called for what they termed a workshop session at 8 p.m. at Rooms G1 and G2 in the physical education building.

Two weeks ago the Students For Academic Freedom demanded that the district cease construction of a $522,800 football field and track and begin construction of a new library.

At that time Michael McGinn, a member of SAF, also demanded an open meeting "within a week" at which the board would hear from students, faculty and community and improve communication between the board and the community.

Board Presdient Theodore C. Wellman said last night the board welcomes student involvement and all viewpoints will be considered.

However, he warned that the board "does not propose to be hurried into making any premature decisions which the entire community might later regret."

Acting President Louis H. Herkenhoff suggested that the focal point of the discussion be the relationships of students to the rest of the academic community and the relationships of the students, faculty, administration and board to the larger community.

Student participation in college operation and planning could be covered during the discussions, he said.

The question of the athletic field and the library undoubtedly will come up, said Trustee Robert E. Oliver, who urged students to get all pertinent information in advance of the session.

Wellman said the board is interested "in communication and more understanding," and the workshop session, "fits the goal." He said he didn't feel that regular board meetings, with long business agendas, should be used for prolonged discussion.

Wellman said it was not practical or advisable for the board to make immediate response to suggestions when they are presented for the first time.

He noted that another method for exchange of ideas between trustees and students is the recently inaugurated "dialogue" sessions with the Associated Students and trustees.

Herkenhoff said the result of Tuesday's session "might be further meetings" and some of the ideas advanced could be reflected in administrative recommendations to the board and "in board decisions."

Tiburon Fire Protection District Commission has Kelly J. Wheller as president.

Student Violence Hits Brazil City

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A student was reported killed in the second straight day of disorders yesterday in Sao Paulo. Dozens were injured and police arrested 40 persons.

Mounted police battled students in an antigovernment demonstration timed to coincide with the visit of President Arthur da Costa e Silva who was here for meetings with political, military and industrial leaders.

The students set fire to a car in a downtown plaza, threw fire bombs, set off fireworks and overturned several cars.

Harlan Hall Doomed But Name Stays

Harlan Hall, landmark on the College of Marin's Kentfield campus, will be demolished next summer, but the Harlan name will remain.

Grand Jury Target Back In Marin On Dope Charge

San Rafael police last night picked up James Dewey Bell, 33, at San Francisco City Prison and booked him into Marin County Jail on a warrant charging him with possessing a dangerous drug.

The warrant stemmed from a search of Bell's San Rafael house Monday in which police said they found more than a pound of methamphetamine and almost 1,000 Benzadrine pills.

Bell posted $2,500 bail in San Francisco, but has not posted the $12,500 bail set here on the Marin charge. He was accused in San Francisco of selling half a pound of methamphetamine to a federal narcotics agent Monday.

Bell also was indicted in February by the Marin Grand Jury for sales of methamphetamine, and narcotics agents believe him to be one of the major Bay Area narcotics dealers.

Bell was to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court on the new possession charge. He is also to appear Thursday before the U.S. commissioner in San Francisco for the alleged sale there, and is to go on trial the week of Oct. 14 in Marin Superior Court on the February charge.

attorney, William Kunstler, objected and said all the attorneys would leave until Leffcourt was allowed back into the room. At least five attorneys walked out along with eight of the veterans of the Chicago demonstrations who have been subpoenaed to testify.

Prior to the walkout Kunstler tried to put into the hearing record a report that his client, Jerry Rubin, another Yippie leader, had been threatened.

Ichord ruled him out of order, bringing Rubin to his feet, shouting: "Last night Nazis tear-gassed my room and threatened to get me today."

Rubin sat down after Ichord threatened to have him ejected.

Rubin told reporters that when he returned to his hotel room last night, there was a strong odor of tear gas in his room.

He said a card bearing the name of the "National Socialist White Party," bearing a swastika, was tacked to his door.

He said police were called and while they were there he received a telephone call which one of the officers listened to in which someone named "Julius" said "we're going to get you."

Kappas Seeking A Fill Permit

George Kappas wants to dump 1,000 cubic yards of fill to raise levees at his Kappas Yacht Harbor so that they will be at least a foot above the highest anticipated tides.

His application for a fill permit has been submitted to the Richardson Bay Fill Committee, composed of Public Works Director Donald R. Frost, County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney.

The committee will recommend to the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday that the fill be permitted, but the maximum width of the fill be limited to 24 feet. Kappas' request calls for fill of varying width to a maximum of 50 feet.

Mrs. Buchignani Granted Divorce

a soldier. He said the high rate of casualties among civilians was the result of their "confusion."

No injuries were reported in yesterday's incidents. Students burned three streetcars in front of the Aztec Stadium where Olympic soccer games will be played, and fled before police made any arrests. Hit-and-run gunmen fired apparently random sprays of bullets in various sections of the city.

Besides armored cars parked in front of the Plaza of Three Cultures, where students were rallying when the Wednesday shooting broke out, there were other signs of continued unease.

The Mexican Olympic organizing committee placed a police guard inside its office. The Olympic teams of several nations ordered curfews for their athletes. Soldiers stood guard at some Olympic sites. And a costly space exploration exhibit, set up in connection with the games, was moved from the University of Mexico to an Olympic committee building. A supervisor at the university said officials had heard of threats to destroy the exhibit.

Battery Charge Follows Quarrel

William R. Sadler, 47, of 600 Arthur Street, Novato, was booked into county jail early today by police on an assault and battery complaint by a friend of his wife who said he had knocked her to the floor during an argument at home.

Betty Ann Gass, 30, of 1001 San Jose Boulevard, Novato, suffered a sprained right arm in the argument, police said. Officers were called to the Sadler home at 4:30 a.m.

Sadler was held on $440 bail, and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. today.

Manager's Post Created For Cotati

Cotati City Council last night created the position of city manager and appointed to the post Gordon C. Howe, the city's clerk-administrator.

Howe, former city manager of Seaside and Saratoga, had recently been a building inspector with the Sonoma School District and was hired last month at a salary of $833 per month, which remains unchanged.

Councilmen also approved an agreement with the Cotati Elementary School District in which the city will assume costs for increasing the water line to the new Thomas Page School on Richardson Lane from four to eight inches.

Also approved an ordinance which will double all business license taxes effective Jan. 1, 1969., and the authorization of a facsimile stamp for Mayor Morris J. Houser and Deputy Treasurer Edward Lewitter.

A request from Kenneth Garner for waiver of curbs, gutters and sidewalks on his East Sierra Avenue property was continued until the Oct. 17 meeting pending a study by the city engineer. Garner said the narrowness of the street and its height in relation to the properties cause a drainage problem making improvements difficult.

Letter Bodes Investigation At College

A letter on page 2 of the College of Marin Times which appeared today promised to result in another investigation of campus liberties.

The letter, over which the name of Gerald F. Schoenstein, appeared in the "Readers' Rap" letters column of the college newspaper.

It referred to an appearance by a candidate for student office. It said:

"Tuesday you listened to a candidate for sophomore representative tell you that he was going to kill some of you in a civil war. Nobody objected. He told you that if he was elected he would not represent you. Nobody objected. He called you . . . (two unprintable expressions appear in print here in the college paper) . . . You applauded".

It then repeats the same expressions, raising the question of whether what the speaker called the students is true.

Robert E. Rogers, vice president of the Marin Junior College District Board, on learning of the letter said, "I will certainly ask the administration what steps they feel are appropriate to be taken."

He indicated responsibility must lie with the administrative staff both for the speech to which the letter referred and for the general control of the campus newspaper.

Finance Panel Studies Programs

The Reed School District's citizens committee on fiances and programs Wednesday night reviewed the first and second grade programs at Belvedere and Tiburon schools and the third grade program at Reed School. Reed principal Jack Usilton reported today.

The committee, which is the entire district, presently gathering data for its study, asked staff to prepare a written description of the current school program, Usilton said.

Prior to the start of the meeting, the committee toured Tiburon School.

The third-sixth grade program at Reed School and the seventh and eight grade program at Del Mar School will be discussed at the committee's next meeting 8 p.m. Wednesday at Granada School.

NIXON

sire to end the war is balanced by a determination to hold out for a viable peace settlement that can avert the need of a new American intervention with a few years.

Nixon was relaxed and amidable throughout our talk in his private compartment in the forward section of the chartered United Airlines 727. For a man in the middle of a gruelling election campaign, he seemed remarkably rested and free of tension.

This poise is something he's worked hard to achieve—it's part of the "new Nixon"—but it also stems from his confidence that he has this election won. He is so certain of victory that he doesn't talk like a candidate, even in private. He talks like a president-elect.

He hasn't forgotten 1948, when Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey, way out in front in all of the polls, managed to "snatch defeat from the jaws of victory." But Nixon assures you that there is no "Dewey syndrome" in his 1968 campaign. Nothing is being taken for granted, he insists. He is going to pour on the coal, campaigning as hard as an underdog, right up to Nov. 5. And he's glad to see Republican workers taking the same keep-slugging attitude in all of the swing states.

Having been himself written off as a political corpse on several occasions, Nixon is not about to proclaim Hubert H. Humphrey "dead" so far as this campaign is concerned. He expects to see the Democratic candidate gain several percentage points in the drift back to the party ticket. But in Nixon's seasoned political judgment, it would take a "big event" — something comparable to a peace settlement in Vietnam—to give Humphrey any chance at all of winning.

Third party candidate George Wallace is causing Nixon concern. He doesn't think Wallace has a chance of winning the presidency, but he worries about the impact that Wallace's campaign will have, after the election, on the new administration's chances of reuniting the nation.

Runoff Due For College Class Seat

College of Marin student elections for the posts of freshmen and sophomore representatives ended yesterday with three persons elected but with a runoff required for the position of freshmen men's representative.

That post saw candidate David Hyams lead with 214 votes, followed by Paul Thomson, 121 votes, and Oherrau Marshall, 107. Because Hyams failed to gain a 50 per cent majority, the runoff will be between him and Thomson.

Date of the election will be scheduled later by David Brown, parlimentarian, associated students' officials said.

Marti Musgrave was elected freshmen women's representative with 289 votes. She was opposed by Susan Davidson, who received 132 votes.

Christopher J. Musser tallied 182 votes to win a majority for the sophomore men's post. Raymond A. Lawler received 41 votes and Edward Schimberg, 53.

The three new officers brings the total members on the student's executive council to 13. Following the runoff election, the final complement will be 14. The three-day election in the student center started Tuesday. Officer term is for the current fall semester.

TRIAL

merhalder to pay, Durham said.

The prosecutor told the jury that Sommerhalder led his 20-year-old codefendant, Kenneth Allen Preston, to murder.

Sommerhalder probably did all the killing the night of Jan. 12, then ordered Preston, a junior college dropout who reportedly never was in trouble before in his life, to stab the dead woman and participate in her rape, Bales said.

"This man wanted all witnesses involved. Ken Preston had to put a knife in the back of a dead woman so he would be involved," Bales said.

Preston, whose separate trial began in Marin Superior Court last May, was sentenced to death and is now on San Quentin's Death Row.

Both Preston and Sommerhalder deny killing the Ackleys, according to psychiatrists who interviewed each after their convictions. Preston was also a Grim Reaper.

Both juries heard psychiatrists testify that the young killers are sociopaths — men without conscience, who take what they want, when they want it, without thought to the consequences.

Only one out of the three psychiatrists who testified at each trial thought either of the killers was a good prospect for rehabilitation.

Sommerhalder, an ex-convict, is also accused of killing junior college student Charles Kaufmann, 19, in Santa Rosa Oct. 7, 1967.

Preston, who was along at the time of that killing, pleaded guilty in Santa Rosa to kidnaping Kaufmann's 18-year-old date.

San Marin High Is Due Finish By Thanksgving

San Marin High School in Novato should be completed so that the students can move into it during the Thanksgiving vacation, contractor Royce Hall of Napa advised.

Supt. James G. Bunker at a noon meeting yesterday said completion will end split sessions for Novato and San Marin high schools. Novato High has been using the Novato campus from 7 a.m. to 12:10 p.m., with six 40-minute periods each day. San Marin High has been using the same campus from 12:10 p.m. until 4:45 p.m.

When the schools are separated, each will start at 8 a.m. and have six 50-minute periods and a lunch period with school closing at 2:10 p.m., according to Paul Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

Bunker said that he will give Hall's report to the board at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the administration building.

Originally, San Marin High was to have been completed in time for the opening of school last month.

U.N. Club Will Represent India

Sonoma State College's model United Nations Club will represent India at this year's far western conference meeting in Fresno.

Donna Ryan, club chairman, said her group received its first choice of nations to represent for the fifth straight year. She said schools are judged on past performance before being awarded the roles of major nations. Dr. William Nighswonger of the political science department is the group's advisor.

ANOTHER SHOT DOWN

Copter, Cargo Plane Collide, Killing 24

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces killed 150 enemy troops in a new outbreak of heavy fighting near the Cambodian border, along the jungled approaches to Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

Enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter ferrying ammunition to the embattled South Vietnamese mercenaries in the area. Four Americans were killed and two wounded.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that 24 Americans were killed in the collision of a big Army CH47 Chinook helicopter and an Air Force Caribou cargo plane 11 miles northwest of Hue on the coast. It was one of the worst air collisions of the war. There were no survivors.

The fighting along the Cambodian border, 60 miles northwest of Saigon was triggered at daybreak yesterday when about 400 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars were lifted into the area by American helicopters. They immediately ran into an enemy force of about 800 to 1,000 men.

Two and one-half hours later, another 400 South Vietnamese mercenaries were committed to the fight.

The battle raged throughout the day.

Preliminary reports from military spokesmen said the mercenaries also seized 10 machine guns, 25 assault rifles, and other assorted weapons and ammunition.

Government casualties were put at 15 dead and 44 wounded.

The American helicopter was brought down by machine-gun fire as it was landing. A U.S. Special Forces captain and the crew chief were killed in the flaming wreckage. The pilot and a gunner were killed by enemy riflemen as they crawled away from the wreckage after pulling out the wounded helicopter commander. The commander, a first lieutenant, and a Special Forces master sergeant, survived with minor wounds.

The new outbreak of fighting broke a week-long lull in ground action along the Cambodian border where the enemy lost 700 men during the last week of September in suicidal attacks on Green Beret camps screening infiltration routes. The enemy troops were believed to be from the Viet Cong 9th Division which has bases inside Cambodia.

In the aerial collision far to the north, headquarters said the Air Force Caribou had just taken off from Camp Evans, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division. Thirteen men were killed aboard the Caribou, including four crewmen. Eleven others were killed on the helicopter, including four crewmen.

The collision was the second worst this year. Last June 25, twelve Americans, 16 Thailand servicemen and a South Vietnamese soldier were killed when two Army helicopters collided 16 miles east-southeast of Saigon. The resulting explosion knocking down a third helicopter.

A U.S. military source said the cause of the latest aerial collision was under investigation but that "the initial indication was that it was pilot error."

The loss of the helicopter shot down and the one destroyed in the aerial collision raised to 11 the number of American aircraft downed since the first of this week.

Fair-Marin Nomination Session Set

Representatives of Fair-Marin will meet in the planning commission chambers at Civic Center at 8 p.m. Wednesday to nominate four more candidates for its board of directors.

The special meeting was called by secretary Lotte McWatters, who is now the ranking officer of the organization. President Fred F. Enemark resigned from the organization in August, and Harold Stockstad resigned from the vice presidency last Tuesday when the county supervisors asked him for a full list of 14 nominees for the board of directors.

On Sept. 16 Fair-Marin nominated 11, including supervisor Peter H. Behr, but this was cut to 10 after Behr was ruled ineligible because he is a supervisor.

County supervisors insisted that 14 nominees should be presented.

Another Slaying In Haight Flat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—More violence marred the scene in the Haight-Ashbury Thursday night when a young man was shotgunned to death in his flat.

The victim was tentatively identified as Stanley Delahanty Jr., 19.

The long-haired bearded victim was found dead in his upper apartment. He died of shotgun wounds in the stomach, police reported.

Officers said they had the name of a suspect but said he was not yet in custody.

Bayside Acres Given Sewer Annex Pledge

San Rafael Sanitation District directors agreed yesterday that the Bayside Acres area is welcome to join the district if homeowners wish to annex.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, reported he has been invited to speak at a meeting of the Bayside Acres Homeowners Association on a date to be set.

He said the annexation question was expected to be brought up and he asked for board policy on such an annexation.

Directors agreed that if homeowners in the area want to annex, district facilities would be available to them, but residents would have pay for their own lines to connect.

On a proposal for a joint study with the Ross Valley Sanitary District for a long range plan for treatment and disposal facilities, Rawles said the Ross Valley district has expressed interest.

On the chance that it could be a three-way study, he and Ralph Noah, manager of the Ross Valley district, are going to meet with representatives of San Quentin to see if they would join in the planning, Rawles reported.

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board also:

SEPTIC TANK — Denied a request by Joseph Gereghty for a septic tank on a lot on Brodea Way, and restated the policy against permitting new septic tanks in the district.

FEE WAIVER — Granted Art Madsen Jr. of 162 Alpine Street waiver of the $125 connection fee to hook up a line from his photographic darkroom.

MEETING DATE — Scheduled its next session for Oct. 23, and changed its regular meeting date to the first and third Wednesdays of each month, instead of Thursdays.

FLOOD WARNING

Disastrous general flooding is inevitable unless the senseless construction in the Corte Madera Creek bed at the Stadium Way Bridge, Kentfield (off McAllister) is halted and deferred until after the winter rains.

Presently there are 2 earth dams across the creek as well as other major obstructions to the natural flow of impending rainwater in this critical flood area.

Property owners in Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo should investigate for themselves immediately.

'LOOK IN MIRROR'

Honesty Held Key To Healing Racism

By DAVID DIETZ

A white teacher and a black student may express it in a different way, but the message on racial divisions is identical.

The message, according to Mrs. Helaine S. Dawson, an adult educator in the San Francisco public schools, is that whites must be "honest, sincere and committed" if the races are to find common bond.

The message, as delivered by 20-year-old Horace White of Marin City, is that "you should go home and look at yourselves in the mirror and say, 'What can I do to help my black brothers and sisters in the ghetto'."

Mrs. Dawson, a red-haired, effervescent former social worker, and White, spirited and demanding, spoke last night at a Marin conference on humans rights at Olney Hall of the College of Marin.

Mrs. Dawson was guest speaker, but Whtie arose later from the audience and said he wanted to say what was on his mind.

Calling for educational reforms to involve disinterested students, Mrs. Dawson addressed her remarks both to educators and members of the predominantly white audience.

"We have to admit there is a white racist society in this country," she said, adding that the principles of white, middle class America have guided education to the detriment of black people.

In schools, she said, "We follow the text — no matter what the student's needs or what the problem is in the classroom. What is missing is a little listening. It has to be both ways.

"The whole concept of education must change. Education should mean the development of individual differences and the uniqueness of individuals. It should not be putting a student in a box and coming up with a carbon copy of a white, middle class person."

Mrs. Dawson, who formerly taught a class of troubled Hunters Point youth and wrote a book, "On the Outskirts of Hope," about her experiences, added:

"I learn a great deal from my students. People think the authoritarian approach in schools is good; that the teacher is the authority. I don't worry about that. If young people in school are turned on, disciplinary problems go by the board."

Later, describing early conduct in her Hunters Point class, she said: "I don't criticize four letter words because that's the language of the street."

Mrs. Dawson said she was successful in gaining the attention and respect of the 50 students and linked it to her approach that the "relationship between the student and teacher should come first."

"Learning," she said, "is exchange and motivation."

White said he found little desire for action from white people to solve racial ills.

"I've been going to meetings of the Juvenile Justice Commission each month and they asked me, 'What can we do?' So I stood there for two and a half hours and told them," White said. "When I came back the next time, they asked me, 'What can we do:'"

Referring to a suggestion raised at the conference to set up a small secretarial school in Marin City, White said:

"There is not need to come into Marin City. You have the College of Marin right here. There are classrooms. We have our own transportation system to bring the people here.

"If you want to do something, come up here and teach for free. Or provide transportation for some of the people from Marin City."

Mrs. Stewart N. Boxer of Greenbrae, coordinator of the conference, attended by representatives of numerous groups working in human rights, asked White to advise on creation of the special school at the college. He agreed.

NASA Still Seeks Lunar Landing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space agency officials say they still hope to have an American on the moon next year, despite congressional spending cuts.

Paine said the agency plans to stage a test flight of a moon ship by March at the latest.

Three Suspects Deny Marijuana Charges

Three men pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges they possessed marijuana Sept. 26 in Corte Madera.

William Edward Haskell, 22, of Corte Madera, Robin L. Morris, 21, of Santa Cruz, and George Nolan Ponder, 26, of San Francisco, were ordered to appear for preliminary hearing at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 20.

"We only let the more mature kids come in the morning," teacher Conway said later.

At last it was time — and Judge Baty explained that Hlebakos was charged with two violations of the vehicle code — driving on the wrong side of a double line and driving at an unsafe speed.

What he didn't say was that young Hlebakos, who works as a truck driver for his father's wholesale produce firm, has had so many previous traffic violations, according to arresting officers, that he is in danger of losing his license or facing a big jump in insurance payments.

As the trial got underway, Clerk Stella Philipscheck called out the names of the jurors chosen. It soon became apparent when Zunino and Lounibos began to examine jurors, that getting a jury was not going to be an easy task.

Most of the people questioned knew the three officers who were to testify, Constable McLean, Deputy Weldon Travis and Highway Patrolman Irwin Cantieri, who grew up in West Marin. Another batch of people either knew Lounibos, his father or his brother, and one woman was a shirttail relation of the defense attorney.

The rest of the jurors challenged by Lounibos were related to various kinds of law officers.

When the original panel of jurors had been exhausted, and a 12th juror was still needed, Judge Baty ordered Constable McLean and Deputy Travis to go find some more people.

The children were excused to go out on the playground, while the law officers went searching. "I got two," the first one back said, having rounded up prospective jurors in the local store. "Well, I found four," the other triumphantly claimed.

A woman clad in jeans and a sweatshirt, who had no relatives or friends involved in the case, was finally approved as the 12th juror. By this time it was the lunch hour.

After bag lunches and more time on the playground for the children, and a foray into Point Reyes's two eating places for the defense, prosecution and press, proceedings resumed.

For the afternoon session, about 100 children filed in. As the law officers began to testify about a fracas at Clay's Farmhouse down the road in Olema followed by six motorcyclists roaring through Point Reyes Station on the wrong side of the highway, the wiggling of the youngsters abruptly stopped.

The chase down the Point Reyes-Petaluma Road by the lawmen after the six motorcyclists was described, and it came out that Deputy Gary Bartolotti, not present at the trial, had turned the wrong way, thinking they had gone to Marshall.

Constable McLean and Deputy Travis told how McLean clocked Hlebakos at 75 miles per hour on the winding road, finally stopping him and four other cyclists, with one getting away.

By the time the law officers had been cross-examined, the 3 p.m. school dismissal bell rang loudly and firmly. A hasty exit by the children to catch school buses was made, but about 30 of them returned after calling home to see if they could stay until the end.

Those remained heard Hlebakos testify that he had not driven on the wrong side of the road. "Hitting a car headon on a motorcycle would be kind of hurting," he said.

He also claimed he had only driven 55 miles per hour, an estimate backed up by a fellow cyclist, William Tomrose of Novato, who volunteered the information that he had no speedometer on his cycle.

The sun was sinking rapidly and the last youngsters left were yawning when Judge Baty sent the jury to decide the case. After an hour and a half deliberation, a verdict of guilty on both counts was reached.

Anti-climactic was the sentence — $15 fine for each count.

Yesterday the children spent most of their time in their own juries of 12 youngsters each, seven juries in all. By 10:30 a.m. three of the juries had agreed with their adult counterpart — guilty on both counts. Later, another came to the same conclusion. However, two juries would have convicted Hlebakos only on the count of speeding but not crossing the double line.

One jury was hung.

After all was said and done, everyone had learned a lot — maybe even young Mr. Hlebakos.

Marin Conservationists Hold Key To Bay Project

other persons. "What assurance have we that the areas shown as open water will not also be filled?" she asked.

"Potential public enjoyment and use of Richardson Bay," she concluded, "should not be sacrificed in the name of encouraging private commercial development."

HOUSEBOATER TALKS

Also opposing the plan was Candra Vogel, who said she lives aboard a houseboat in the bay and that the plan "drastically affects the houseboat community."

Another opponent, Dee Cameron of Mill Valley said she was "thoroughly appalled by this monstrosity you want to put in my front yard." How can an 850-room, 16-story hotel be water-related, she asked.

The state Fish and Game Department also questioned the plan's effect on fish and wildlife in the bay.

Speaking for Sausalito Associates was the firm's attorney, Albert Bianchi of San Rafael. Terming present conditions in the Richardson Bay "an aesthetic atrocity," he said his client's plan "will go a long way toward correcting this."

The site "is particularly apropos" for a convention center because it is close to San Francisco, he said.

'EXCITING THING'

Robert Bennighof, who drew Sausalito Associates' plan, said the two high-rise hotels would be "a visual accent on the bay and would, of course, be a very exciting thing."

The general partners in Sausalito Associates are Frank Hanses and William M. Nelson of Tiburon and Tom E. Nowell of Mill Valley.

Letters to the commission, favoring the plan, were received from the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

KAPPAS OPPOSES

George Kappas, who holds leases to adjacent tideland properties, wrote that he opposed the plan because it would cut off access to some of his property and make other parts of his property a lagoon.

Unusually sharp questioning by commissioners followed the closing of the public hearing, and their staff was asked to report Oct. 18 on how the plan relates to other proposed development in the bay, how much mud will have to be disposed of when Saucelito Canal is dredged, and how Kappas' objections affect the plan.

WHAT ASSURANCE?

Sonoma County Supervisor Leigh S. Shoemaker warned that if the project "is going to be like the pile of broken down boats, autos and houseboats we have there now, then it ought to be flushed. What assurance do we have that we won't get the same thing?" he asked.

Marin Supervisor Pete H. Behr, who voted for the project as a supervisor, did not speak yesterday. As the only Marin supervisor on the commission, his vote could determine whether the fill application is approved because several commissioners from other counties will look to him on how to vote.

ONE SHORT

Only 12 commissioners were present yesterday, one short of the necessary 13 to get a fill permit. If 13 or more are present Oct. 18, the vote will have to be almost unanimous for Sausalito Associates to get its fill permit.

The Marin supervisors, at the urging of Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, voted Sept. 10 to endorse 11 acres of fill as well as 17 acres, leaving the choice to the BCDC. Commission chairman Melvin B. Lane of Menlo Park, however, said that only the 17-acre plan was before the commission.

The plan envisions an 850-room hotel about 16 stories high, a 130-room motel up to about 10 stories, a "boatel-motel facility" with shops up to four stories high, restaurant, gas station, shoreline parkway, eight-acre lagoon and "transportation center" for boats and helicopters.

Sirhan Trial Delay Will Be Argued

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan B. Sirhan's defense attorney today was given an Oct. 14 court date to argue for postponement to January of Sirhan's trial on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Attorney Russell E. Parsons told Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer that the original Nov. 1 trial date would almost certainly mean that the jury would have to be locked up each night during the holiday season, through Christmas.

Judge Schauer instructed Parsons to argue the motion before Judge Herbert V. Walker, whom he formally announced as the Sirhan trial judge. Walker, a 68-year-old courtroom veteran, was present as an observer today in the brief hearing inside a specially-guarded makeshift courtroom in the Hall of Justice near Sirhan's jail cell.

Walker also will hear two other defense motions Oct. 14. One would suppress certain unspecified evidence that Parsons said was seized in Sirhan's home in Pasadena following Kennedy's fatal shooting June 5. The other seeks access to statements and other evidence the state has collected from a variety of prospective witnesses in the trial.

In giving notice today that he would seek to delay the trial, Parsons explained that the U.S. Supreme Court has suggested sequestering jurors "during major trials," and that this should be the case in the Sirhan trial. He pointed out that the Nov. 1 trial date would mean locking up jurors nightly probably between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Meanwhile in San Francisco, the California Supreme Court yesterday denied an attempt to lift the court-imposed news curb on the Sirhan case. District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, who will prosecute the Jordanian for murder, filed a petition Sept. 30 claiming that the news ban was an abridgement of the First Amendment guarantees of freedom of speech and press.

Woman Cyclist Injured In Crash

Frances Simpson, 26, of 600 Northern Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was treated overnight Wednesday at Marin General Hospital for a possible concussion suffered Wednesday afternoon when the motorcycle she was riding hit a car on Miller Avenue, according to Mill Valley police.

Police said she was driving out of Kiser Brothers Honda at 465 Miller Avenue at 5:10 p.m. and ran into a car driven by Fern V. Starr, 51, of 770 Panoramic Highway.

A DRIFTER USES A RUG FOR BED ROLL

George Pace drove his truck into the Sunny Hills Bargain Box at 607 Irwin Street, San Rafael, today and heard a yelp when the vehicle approached a pile of rugs.

There, rolled up inside a rug, like a disheveled Cleopatra, was an unidentified drifter. He said he had slept the night there while en route to San Francisco.

Couple Booked In Drug Probe

A Fairfax couple was booked into county jail last night by Fairfax police on suspicion of possession of marijuana and of narcotics paraphernalia.

Denis Lee Kelly, 26, and his wife, Cheryl, 27, of 683 Cascade Drive, were released on $625 bail each, and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. today.

Police reported that a search of the Kellys' home turned up a substance believed to be marijuana. The search followed issuance of a search warrant, following a tip to Fairfax police from the Contra Costa County sheriff.

200-Bed Hospital, Church Permits Sought In County

A use permit application for a medical center in Santa Venetia will come before Marin County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill Monday at 8:30 a.m. in the planning commission chambers at the civic Center.

L. B. M. Investment Co. of Orinda wants to build a general hospital of 101 beds and an extended care facility of 99 beds on North San Pedro Road about 200 feet south of Oxford Drive.

At 1:30 in the afternoon, the Valley Baptist Church will ask for a use permit to build a church on 5.3 acres of land at 13 Ranch Road, Los Ranchitos. Parking and recreation areas are planned on the church site.

Phil Ernst seeks a use permit for stabling 45 horses at 139 Wood Lane, about a quarter-mile south of Fairfax city limits. It is a portion of a 540-acre parcel fronting on the south end of Wood Lane.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of San Francisco wants to add another garden crypt mausoleum at Mount Olivet Cemetery on Los Ranchitos Road.

Because of the heavy schedule, the hearings before the zoning administrator will continue into Tuesday. Tuesday morning, Sierra National Bank will ask for a use permit to continue using a trailer as a temporary bank at 934 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, at the corner of Terrace Avenue. The bank has already moved from its former site at 917 Drake to the new location, where it plans to build a new bank.

Tuesday afternoon, Joseph Alber will ask for permission to operate a drive-in restaurant at 1040 Redwood Highway, north of Alto intersection on the east side of the highway.

A housing project of 40 units for the elderly is planned in Novato at the corner of Carmel Drive and Fourth Street. Smith and Haley Construction Co. of Berkeley will ask for a use permit for the Turn-key project. The developers would build the structure and then turn the key over to the Marin Housing Authority.

Suffers Cut

Mrs. Phyllis Lamb, 65, of 9 Roque Moraes Drive, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital last night for a scalp cut suffered when she fell against a table in her home, the hospital reported.

Citizens Protest Chopping Trees

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association board last night accused the county public works program of cutting down "perfectly sound" 50-year-old trees along Butterfield Road in a program supposedly aimed at getting rid of diseased trees.

Vice President Frank Berto said that he was appointed to talk to county public works officials about the matter.

The association also planned to ask the county to cover ditches along Deer Hollow Road, after residents of the area complained that heavy traffic is hazardous to school children in the area. It was felt by the residents that covering the ditches would allow a walking space along the narrow road.

The board learned that the Sleepy Hollow stables is for sale for $200,000 and since the association does not have the money to buy it, decided to ask the county to consider acquiring the property for a park.

Auto Stereo Stolen

A stereo tape player and tapes valued at a total of $120 were stolen last night from the car of Gerald C. Little of 87 Merrydale Road, Apt. 4, Santa Venetia, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Bar Owners, Citizens Criticize Cotati Police

Charges of harassment by Cotati's three-man police force were brought before city council last night by irate tavern owners.

Glenn Nylander, owner of the Sea Horse, 7665 Old Redwood Highway, and Robert J. Woodley, owner of Bob's Sportsmen, 8714 Old Redwood Highway, told councilmen of what they considered unprovoked attacks against their taverns and the ineffectiveness of Chief John Curtis and Officers Orlindo Locarnini and Harry Pitts.

Chief Curtis was not present last night and today declined comment on the charges.

Mayor Morris J. Houser promised a thorough investigation.

City Mgr. Gordon C. Howe requested specific information on the alleged incidents and said a closed hearing to bring charges against the officers would be scheduled if the situation warrants it.

Nylander said, "I'm sick — sick — sick of being harassed and want you to know about it. The businessmen in the community are very unsatisified with local law enforcement and feel they got better service through the sheriff's department."

He said yesterday he closed his bar at 1:55 a.m. and was cleaning up at 2:30 a.m. when there was a knock on the door. Fearful who it might be, Nylander said he took a club with him to anser the knock. He said it was Officer Locarnini who wanted to know what he was doing and, using abusive language, ordered him to drop the club. "I want you to know I don't like the methods and administration of Chief John Curtis and his men," the tavern owner said.

He also spoke of an incident several months ago when a patrol car blocked his driveway and refused for no apparent reason to allow him to leave his home. Councilman John Groom said he was aware of that incident and said the officer was "definitely out of bounds." He said the officer was on temporary status at the time and is no longer on the force, but added "That doesn't make it all right."

Nylander said patrol cars make a habit of parking in front of taverns just to hurt business.

Tavern owner Woodley said he could bring no specific charges of harassment, but spoke of the ineffectiveness of the force in preserving the law. He said robberies and burglaries often go unchecked for days at a time. "We tavern owners are running legitimate businesses and deserve better protection than we're now getting," he said.

Albert W. Wells of 2091 Curtis Drive charged that police had harassed his 10-year-old son and were uncooperative when he attempted an investigation. He said an officer yanked his son off his bicycle and accused him of looting cars at Sonoma State College parking lots.

"When my boy came home in tears, I tried to investigate, but the officer refused to speak to me," Wells said. "I took his name and badge number and left a message with Chief Curtis to contact me. It was five days later he finally got around to calling my home and told my wife he didn't have the time to be bothered with such incidents."

Councilmen noted the boy had been stopped outside the city limits and well beyond the policeman's jurisdiction. "I'll ask the officers to stop going out of the city limits except on emergency mutual aid with Rohnert Park police," Howe said.

The city manager also said he had asked policemen to stop going to Santa Rosa on their coffee breaks on the midnight shift. Howe said they did that because there are no all night restaurants in Cotati, and noted flashlights, books and other articles have been stolen from the car while parked at Santa Rosa restaurants.

These men are supposed to be on call, but are in Santa Rosa drinking coffee," Howe said. "What are we supposed to do — call Henny Penney's restaurant when there's an emergency?"

'Cry California' Editor Will Talk

William Bronson, author of "How to Kill a Golden State" and editor of the magazine, "Cry California," will speak at 8 p.m. Oct. 16 to the Conservation Council of Marin at the Marin Rod and Gun Club, Point San Quentin.

He will be questioned by a panel of Marinites, including Harvey Bragdon, Mill Valley planning director, Dr. Martin Griffin, chairman of the board of Audubon Canyon Ranch, and Paul C. Zucker, Marin County planning director.

Only 20 of the more than 3,000 islands that make up the Bahamas are inhabited.

Police Links Approved For South Sonoma

Southern Sonoma law enforcement officers will be joining a county-wide network teletype connection next year with the Department of Justice in Sacramento, made possible last week by action of the county board of supervisors.

Leigh S. Shoemaker, supervisor for the Second District including Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati, said the county has agreed to pay two thirds of the cost with local agencies picking up the other third on a population basis.

Rohnert Park Safety Director Bradley Koch said, "This new system will really be helpful — to say the least. We're 40 years behind in network setups and will finally be catching up." The teletype network will link county law enforcement agencies as well as provide access to state and national wires. It is scheduled to begin operation July 1, 1969.

Cotati Police Chief John Curtis said such an arrangment will be of immeasurable help to small police forces such as his. Petaluma police have the only teletype connection in southern Sonoma County.

Marin Women

MRS. OLIVER LILLIE says her fuchsia plants are taking a back seat to the more popular succulents at her nursery in San Rafael. With more than 800 succulent varieties, Lila enjoys every minute of her "farming" on the ⅓ acre she has covered with plants. Succulents need 'considered neglect' she explained while showing her propagation houses, nylon shade material covering some and the protection from rain at certain times of the year given her "babies." Located just off Highway 101, Lila believes her nursery has one of the best succulent collections in the United States.

Succulents Grow In San Rafael

By GRACE HENDERSON

Lila Lillie fancied flowers long before the flower children ever thought of wearing posies in their hair. But there is some similarity in that both are the results of trends. The flower children are a result of modern society and Mrs. Oliver Lillies's fuchsia and succulent nursery the outgrowth of need.

First the fuchsias were popular and there was a huge demand which continues, but they are now taking a back seat to the succulent plants with Lila. As for the succulents, the endeavor has grown from a small beginning to a hillside of over 800 varietes. Her well-tanned features reflect her life in the out-of-doors.

In viewing the nursery, an interested person or customer soon finds himself caught up in the ability of its owner to identify each plant by its true name and with her enthusiasm for her "people," as she affectionately refers to them.

Imports are obtained through an outlet from Africa, with plants brought from Mexico by friends.

One plant from Africa is the Split Rock or Lithrop. This little succulent grows about one inch in diameter and resembles a pebble of the desert. It conceals itself by adopting the pastel colors of stones surrounding it. Lila has a pot of the interesting little "people."

Succulents, also known as xerophytes, are drought lovers but are accustomed to the rainy seasons too. To acclimate the plants for Marin growing, Lila keeps them covered except when being allowed to catch raindrops at regulated times. The proportion of water in the tissue of these plants is about 95 per cent of the total weight. This makes up the juicy, milk-like substance found inside the leaves.

How prolific succulents are is pointed out in names and varieties. The Kalan Choe has several names: "Little People," "Maternity Plant" and "Mother of Millions." All tell the story of its reproductions. In case something happens to the root system there are even air roots above the ground from which the plant draws nourishment. To reproduce, the plant sends out baby plants along its leaf edges. When ready to grow by themselves, they drop to the ground and take root and are "thick as hair on a dog's back," to use an old phrase.

Another maternity plant is the White Squill or "Pregnant Onion," named for the unusual method by which it sends out "babies." Miniature bulbs are produced just beneath the outer layer of "skin" or tissue of the mother plant. When ready to become a White Squill themselves, they burst the covering and drop down to root in the ground. A prolific plant, the "Pregnant Onion" produces epicek, used by early Romans as a remedy for poison.

An interesting fact was brought out in discussing odd or freak plants, those with twisted leaves and uneven growth. Lila explained these are caused by a chromosome mixup and of special interest to all except persons in the medical profession. To physicians, the twisted shapes represent abnormalities which are of concern to them, she said.

Lila propagates plants from her African and Mexican stock as well as breeding hybrids. "Plant families are named for the flowers they bear rather than on their physical resemblance," the woman who has worked in the business seriously the past 10 years explained.

The symmetrical rosettes, often in clumps, known as Echeveria (hens and chickens) produced a hybrid for Lila which she named Mary Belle after her mother, Mrs. Mary Belle Williams. The plant took five years from seed to maturity. She described Mrs. Williams as being head gardener.

Mrs. Williams has her own cactus collection which she tends regularly and includes many of the colorful little "red caps." These are straight, spiny little plants topped with a bright red bloom, giving the impression of a busy railway station.

Succulents come in a variety of colors, sizes and shapes. They range from the tiny little Split Rocks to the four foot houseplants, the Euphorbias. Both Pink Sensation and the red blossomed counterpart drop their leaves as they mature, leaving a thorny stem pattern as they grow to their mature height of four feet. Marin's avid succulent fan has about 50 varieties of Euphorbias.

Baskets of Senecia Rowleyanas from Africa hang here and there at the nursery, showing definitely why they are coined "Little Peas." The trailing vines are a fine stem on which the kernels or peas are attached, similar to peas in a pod. The plant gives a lacy appearance in contrast to the heavy Agaves.

A 16x20 foot building houses echeverias and other succulent which bloom profusely in the spring. Their building is heated during the winter months and is shade controlled all year. All framework has been constructed to give the best protection to the succulents.

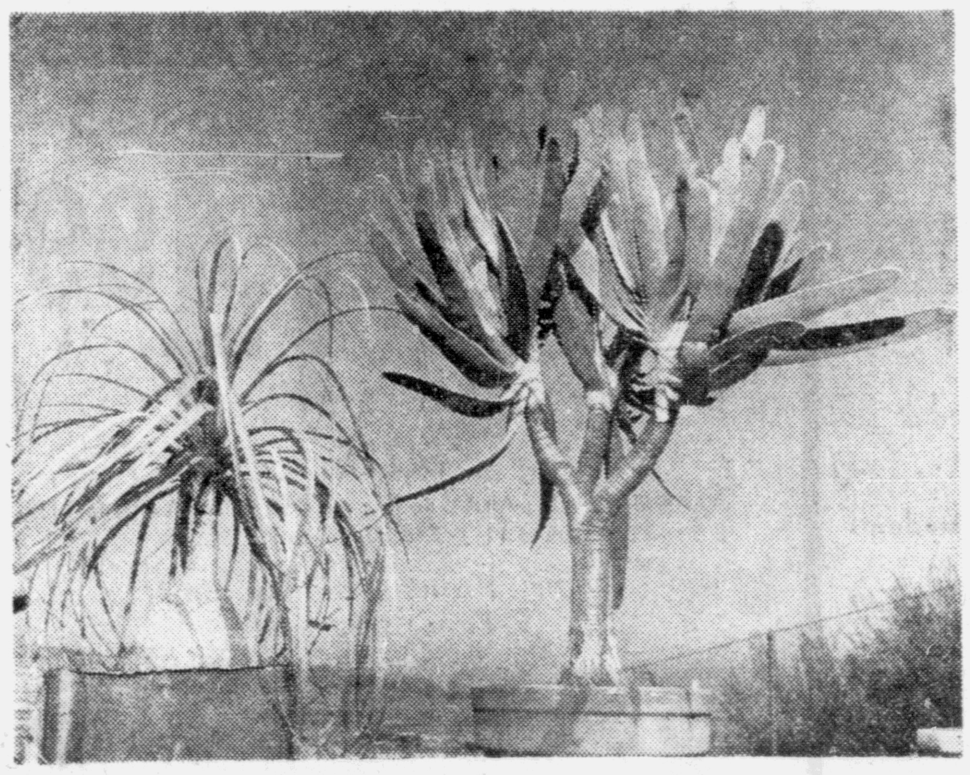
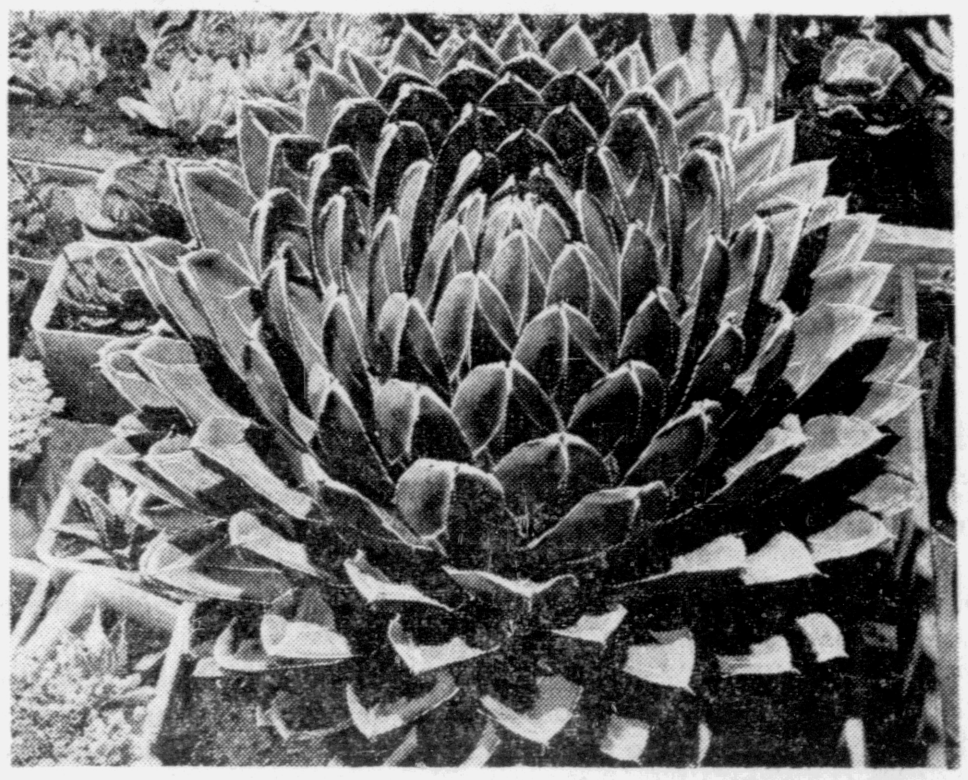
AGAVE STRICTA, a 12-year-old plant, is about 20 inches in diameter and is made up of rounded stems having extremely sharp pointed tips. This is a lighter colored species than the Victoria-Regina. All succulents retain moisture which accounts for 95 per cent of their total weight being of water, or a milky, sticky substance.



THE MARIN landscape forms the background for two of Lila's succulents, the Beaucarnia recurvata, left, 18 inches in height and the Aloe plicatillis, 2 feet tall. Both are about 10 years old and mature. Most, but not all, succulents live in desert or semi-desert regions where plants must absorb quickly the scant rainfall when it occurs. The plants have developed water storage tissue in their thickened and fleshy stems. They also have adapted to the extremes in temperature and have a high insulation quality. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)



AGAVE VICTORIA-Regina, one of the more colorful of all succulents is a prize plant in Lila's collection and was a popular camera subject at the Marin Art and Garden Fair this summer. It is 18 years old and about 24 inches in diameter. Each stem, 7 or 8 inches long, is marked with white line contrasts on a dark green background. After about 25 years it will send up a bloom stock 10-20 feet tall. "It literally gives its heart to future generations" is the way Lila describes the cycle. After flowering, the plant dies, sometimes producing off-sets around the base.

THE TEEN-AGER'S QUEST

'Black Youth The Pacesetters'

Third in a series on the symposium "Uses of Freedom: The Teen-Ager's Quest" held by the University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

The lack of power for both youth and blacks provide a similar impetus for today's protest movements. This view of Dr. Fredric Solomon, who has been studying the psychological development of youth in political protest activities since 1960, differs from that of Dr. Kenneth Keniston of Yale who attributed it to privileged upbringing in families where children had the chance to question and make judgments, and from Dr. Edward E. Sampson's theory of two separate revolutionary movements for white elite youth and black "have nots."

"The real pacesetters have been black youth," asserted Dr. Solomon, who is assistant professor of neurology and psychiatry at Howard University College of Medicine, a predominately black institution.

He said that the trend toward draft resistance began with the early civil rights protestors and has been influenced by them.

"Long before the Vietnam escalation the civil rights sit-ins began to open the log jam of protest for human rights," Dr. Solomon said.

The blacks have led the way in many areas, he stated, citing the fact that the white protestors have no heroes just as the black civil rights leaders had said back in 1960, "We look to ourselves, to each other." He added that blacks first tested the militant non-violence versus violent methods, began working with the less fortunate first; began the anti-administration and curriculum protest at Howard first which then spread to Columbia.

Dr. Solomon disputed Dr. Keniston's theory about protest growing from the white elite in permissive homes. "Permissiveness can be a factor," he conceded, "but it doesn't help to understand black youth, the real pacesetters of protest. In black homes the child is expected to be seen and not heard. They are not affluent. Boys are expected to carry out what their parents want them to. Yet it is actually black youth in the forefront of protest."

In studying the protest movements, Dr. Solomon found that abuse of power is the central issue of protest "from the high school principal to the Pentagon, and most prevalent in the attitude of police," he said.

Blacks in the North feel unprotected by the police, and now white youths' views closely resemble the views of young Negroes, he pointed out. In confrontations at Columbia University and in Chicago the whites experienced the raw brutality of the police and drew farther from the sources of protection and closer to the blacks, Dr. Solomon said.

The blacks recognized the whites' kinship, saying "they've been through it too now," he remarked, adding that there may be a trend toward more brotherhood and community in the demonstrations. And in the Chicago demonstrations, the candlelight parade the day after the confrontation with police saw some of the "establishment" delegates joining the outside fringe groups in a common cause as well.

"Much of the ferment and protest combined in this demonstration and adults realized that the youth had been doing a lot of pro-social acting-out — doing society's work for it," Dr. Solomon stated.

Generally youth has little more than "nuisance power" and is still awaiting adults, who have the power, to take responsibility, he said.

He ended with a quote from the Chicago confrontation:

" 'Is there anything I can do to help?' a delegate asked a girl McCarthy supporter as the violence was underway.

" 'Change things,' she said."

DR. WILLIAM H. GRIER, assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine and co-author with Dr. Price Cobbs of the widely acclaimed book, "Black Rage," agreed that youngsters and minorities who are not a part of the main society can therefore see the underside of it.

"This may be why the white kids, too, 'drop out'," Dr. Grier said. "Surely they must see something if so many feel this way," he commented noting the tendency by black youngsters toward delinquency and an anti-intellectual posture as their way of dropping out.

He said that blacks have the conviction that the policeman is the enemy and is corruptible — a "hired gun" who functions in the employ of that person powerful enough to employ him, a view that carries over the idea of old that the sheriff was enlisted by the powerful baron to protect his property from the serfs.

"They see that the policemen is there essentially to protect the property of the powerful. The black kid early perceives that society views him as an outlaw and as stupid (inferior). This predetermined role may cause him easily to develop strong anti-intellectual feelings.

"And there are similarities between black people and young people today because the establishment views them as posing the same kind of threat," Dr. Grier said.

Drop-Outs Give Views On School, Authority

"Why do young intelligent people increasingly reject our most hallowed institutions?" moderator Alex P. Mercure, state program director of the House Education Livelihood Program in New Mexico, asked a panel of eight drop-outs and former drop-outs.

The colleges were protested against first and now it's spreading to the high school level, he said.

"It's something new to have organized protest in schools asking them to be better effective."

His question drew varying responses from the youngsters, who ranged in age from junior high school to university level:

—"The big problem is that 'there's no one there' for teenagers to talk to. I dropped out of school and would never go back. I take a correspondence course now. Otherwise you just go through 12 years of school when you're told what to do."

—"There's too much teaching out of a book and you can't think on your own. A U.S. history class I had was good because it was open end and the teacher urged us to go hear speakers. . . . If teachers would talk from their own experience it would be more in-class."

THE ATMOSPHERE of jail and youth guidance center increases hostility, several panelists said:

—"You hate being in there and maybe some of the things you do aren't worth it. They can crush you or lock you in jail the rest of your life. You just want to get out," said one older teen-age girl.

They agreed that there is need to develop alternatives to the rigidity of the Youth Authority and juvenile halls.

—"I think people drop out of sheer boredom. They want some kind of excitement and get into trouble. You should start doing things to keep busy until you know what you want."

—"Yeah, so you start on the drug scene and that gets you twice as messed up," remarked another.

—"In school the competition bothered me. . . . I had to worry about how I'd be graded. . . I couldn't just learn. A correspondence course eliminates all the running around to classes and all the rigamarole."

—"Parents think they know you and have great hopes and you can't live up to them. And communication breaks off when you can't. You're afraid of what they think. But you're not as afraid of what another older person or a teacher would think. Kids and the parents have got to come together. They aren't yet or we wouldn't be in juvenile hall."

Young people have to compromise with the adult world. They have to get together with adults so that youngsters can have some say in the authority over them. Young people need the courage to stand up and say they need help. It's up to youth to make the move to bridge the gap, he said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Overall Response To Letters Catalogued For Public By Helen

DEAR HELEN:

You mentioned which letters brought the greatest teen reaction. Please tell us which brought the biggest overall response from your readers, in recent months. — CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS:

Three letters, written over the summer months, were standouts for response. And—surprise, surprise—not one of them had anything to do with sex!

The working wife-Social Security benefits controversy brought the biggest reaction. Representative Edward Patten writes me that he has received many thousands of letters in support of his H.R. Bill 17532, and they are still coming. (The bill would update Social Security to recognize married women, and provide the payment of benefits to a married couple based on their combined earnings, if this would produce a higher benefit. It would not raise taxes appreciably.)

Next on the reaction tally came answers to the question, "Why shouldn't 18-year-olds get the vote?" More than nine-tenths of adults as well as teens insisted they should, and gave excellent reasons why.

Third? Poltergeists. You'd be shook at how many people believe in those pesky ghosts. Here's another example:

DEAR HELEN:

I have read the different opinions on poltergeists. Want to add I once owned a poltergeist-infested house in Hanford, Calif.

These ghosts would announce their intention of roaming through the house by light tapping on the back bedroom door. Then there would be footsteps. Their favorite trick was to jump hard on your feet after you were asleep. Even guests experienced this.

I never saw these "things," but our small daughter reported one morning that she'd seen company in the front room the night before—a woman in a rocking chair, and two men walking around. I let her think they were friends, so she wouldn't be frightened.

I was glad to move out. I guess the poltergeists stayed, as we were never bothered again. — L.P.

. . . . . Anyone for E.S.P.? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Animal Lover" mentioned how sad it is that animals are born to be destroyed, and urged people to have their pets spayed. You said some towns are offering this service very cheap, as a preventive measure.

May I suggest that anyone who wants to know more about this service may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Friends Of Animals, Inc., 17 West 60th Street, New York, N.Y. This organization will refer him to a representative in his area. I am a representative in my town and we help many people, who otherwise could not afford it, to get their animals spayed. — D.M.D.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Vanessa Redgrave Jumps On The Rag Trade Bandwagon

By NADEANE WALKER

LONDON (AP) — Actress Vanessa Redgrave is the latest star to jump on the rag trade bandwagon. She's backing a new boutique, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop.

As might be expected from the unconventional Miss Redgrave, who still leads peace demonstrations on occasion, the boutique she's backing is something quite out of the ordinary — in fact, the only conventional thing about it is it's name.

Along with pure Forties-era clothes, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop is selling eight-foot-long foam rubber bananas, antique trimmings and highly futuristic furniture. The shop is drawing nightly crowds just to look at the window, which features an ever-changing pattern of rainbow-hued neon. Every customer who steps over the threshold trips off a new sequence of lighting effects. They say an American has already tried, unsuccessfully, to buy the window.

INSIDE THE shop on three floor levels, colored slides of the clothes are projected continuously onto the white walls. It comes as no surprise that one of the directors, Adrian Hughes, 26, is an ex-movie producer, who wants to run the shop like a film.

The other three directors are an pretty blonde photographer, Annette Green, 27, and two girl designers from the Royal College of Art, Zandra Rhodes, 29, and Sylvia Ayton, 30.

The quartet got together with the star during the filming of the Redgrave movie, "Isadora." Hughes was assistant director of the film, and Annette was sent to make pictures of the star. She was wearing an outfit designed by Zandra and Sylvia. Vanessa expressed admiration, and the boutique idea blossomed.

Fulham Road used to be anything but a chic address, but the premises found for the shop is only a few blocks off the King's Road, Chelsea, where the swinging scene flourishes.

"WE DIDN'T have much money," Adrian Hughes explains, "but Vanessa bought some shares and guaranteed our lease. Best of all, she wears our clothes, and used some of them in the film, 'A Quiet Place in the Country.' "

The boutique team reciprocated by designing lipstick-scrawl prints that proclaim, "We Love You, Vanessa," and by naming their star suit "Jolie," after Miss Redgrave's youngest daughter.

Those giant bananas, incidentally, are not as you might think, children's toys or pure freak decor. "They're original works of art, in a limited edition of 100, by Neville Green," says Hughes. They cost 65 pounds (156 dollars) and the shop has so far sold two: one to a fashion photographer and the other to a television producer.

THE CLOTHES come cheaper — from about five pounds ($12) for a blouse, up to 30 pounds ($72) for a leather suit with hand-painted puffed sleeves. Nearly all the dresses and trousers are in floppy satin, crepe or chiffon, with the ruffles, pin-tucks, peplums and off-shoulder effects dear to the Forties.

Zandra's and Sylvia's most original garment is something they call dungarees — A sort of fancy dress version of workmen's overalls, made up in satin or crepe, with ruffles, yet. Their decollete see-through blouses are said to sell to male pop stars as well as dolly girls.

A friend of Adrian Hughes supplies Victorian and Edwardian buckles, buttons, belts and bags on a commission basis. "They go great with the clothes," Hughes comments.

Foreign tourists make up an important part of the Fulham Road Clothes Shop's clientele, according to Hughes. "Particularly Americans," he says. "They're much more ready to accept something new. They're really knocked out when they come in here."

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

'Alice' Prompts Phone Call

By MOLLY MARIN

Would you believe two stoves named Alice? After the story about the Dutch Flat enterprises of Mrs. John Wiley and Mrs. William Brooke appeared in the Women's Section of the I-J Monday, Connie Wiley received a number of phone calls. The most unusual was from a man who also had a stove named Alice in his summer home in Santa Cruz. His Alice had disappeared and he asked Connie, who stocks the antique store in Dutch Flat, to watch for it in her treasure hunting excursions. The Wileys, who acquired their wood stove from the old Dutch Flat Hotel, use it in their Belvedere patio.

A BUFFET supper on Saturday celebrated the 16th birthday of Crickett Waldeck. The party for 25 of Crickett's friends was given at the family home in Mill Valley by the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Waldeck.

MR. AND Mrs. Fred Hurvich, who recently moved from New York to Mill Valley, have a baby daughter. Elizabeth Rose, born Sept. 26 at French Hospital in San Francisco, is the couple's first child.

THE THOMAS M. Murphys of Ross have invited friends for cocktails Saturday evening at their new home in Ross. Co-hosts will be the Murphy's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Parsons of San Francisco, and the Murphy's son, C. Jay Murphy, a student at the University of Santa Clara Law School.

A harpist will entertain the 150 guests during the party by the pool.

MARIN CATHOLIC High School alumni are invited to the school's homecoming dance Saturday evening from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The dance will be held in the gymnasium, and bids are available at the door.

THE STANLEY KOSTAS of San Rafael are home from a six week's tour of Europe, where they visited friends in Paris. Mr. Kosta enjoyed returning to Germany, where he served in World War II.

The couple went on to Yugoslavia, which they found in a state of tension with young men being mobilized and sent to the borders, and then to Italy, which the Kostas said was "like going from a funeral to a wedding." After tours through Spain and Portugal, they ended their continental trip.

MR. AND Mrs. James H. McCreedy of Larkspur celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They spent the day together at the Center Medical Hospital in Ross, where Mrs. McCreedy is convalescing.

The McCreedys, now both 84 years old, were married in Nelson, Neb., on Oct. 1, 1908 and spent many years farming there. They moved to Denver, prior to moving to California in 1940 and had a delicatessen and restaurant there for 12 years.

During the war he worked for shipyards, including Marinship in Sausalito. In 1943 they moved to Larkspur and, until he retired when he was in his 70's, he was a vacuum cleaner salesman.

They have three children, Mrs. Donald Ward of Novato, Willis B. McCreedy of San Francisco and James J. McCreedy of Pacifica, and six grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The McCreedys are avid gardeners. Mr. McCreedy enjoys working in his greenhouse, starting all his own plants for the vegetable garden, and until Mrs. McCreedy was hospitalized she baked all her own bread and canned fruit and jelly.

They have attended the Christian Church in San Rafael since coming to Marin.

Indian Styles

American Indian styles are, of course, a "natural" for the leather look, but there also are Argentine gaucho outfits with boleros and gaucho pants made of or trimmed with sleek leather or suede.

Should Baby Wear Shoes?

Children usually start to walk at 12 to 16 months.

Until the baby is actually walking, both indoors and outdoors, there is no need for him to wear shoes.

Once the child is on his feet, he should do some of his walking in shoes and, if it can be done with safety, some of it barefoot. He should wear good sturdy shoes when he walks on hard, flat surfaces.

On the other hand, he can strengthen the muscles and ligaments of his feet by barefoot activity.

With the onset of walking, minor deviations which are observed in the appearance of the legs of many babies tend to disappear. These slight abnormalities, often a cause of great concern to mothers, are most commonly caused by an irregular twisting of the shin bone — called tibial torsion. If there is excessive twist to this bone, the baby's toes will turn in. If there is not enough twist, the foot will turn out. Frequently one foot will turn inward and its mate will turn outward.

It should be kept in mind that these visible distortions in the leg are not inevitably outgrown, and they should be checked by the baby's doctor.

Succulents Are Her 'Babies'

Many plants are adaptable to bonsia work including the crassulas. The Exheveria Coccinea is shaped by "talking to them with my hands," says Lila explaining the plants will grow into different shapes just by being worked with, bending the limbs or stems in the direction they are to grow.

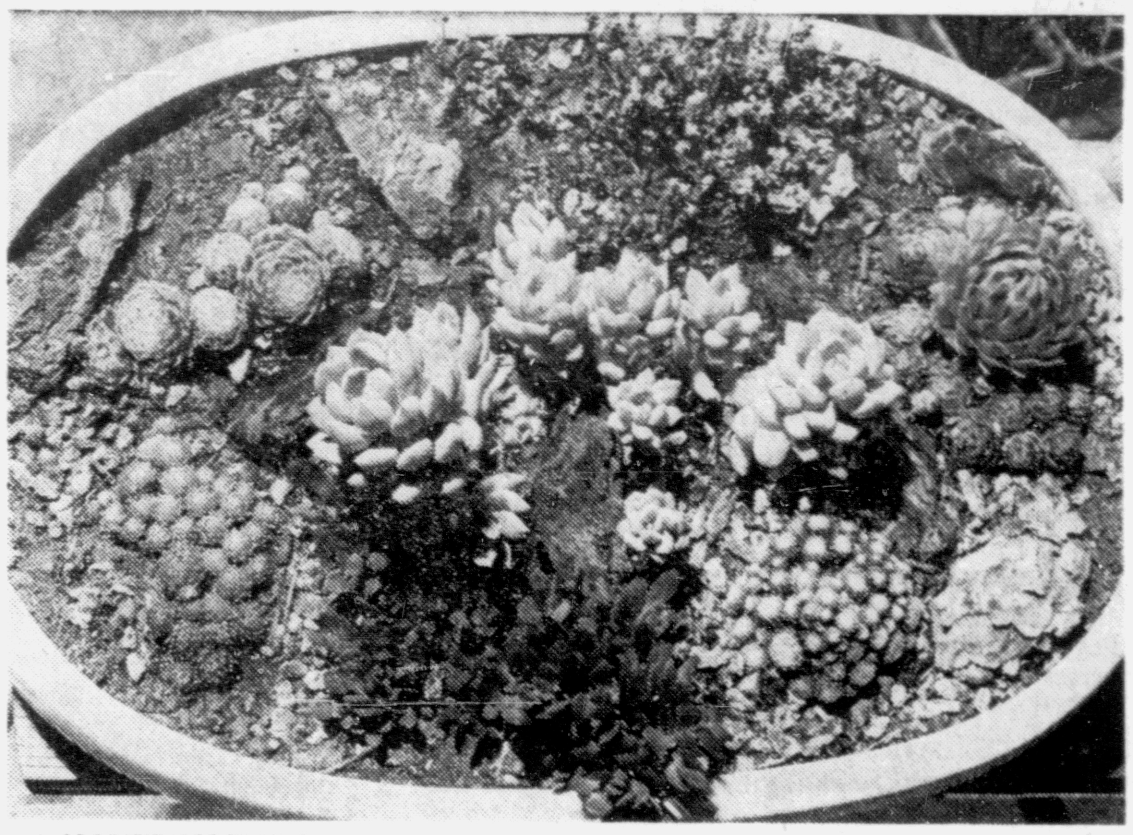
One of the newest hybrids, Eeonium Arboreum, Zwartskop, will be available next spring and is expected to measure 12 inches across when mature.

Lila is a member of the California Horticulture Society, the Cactus and Succulent Society of America and is past president of the Marin County branch of the American Fuchsia Society. She shows annually at the Marin Art and Garden Center and the California Spring Garden Show in Oakland.

This summer she received the top prize, for the second consecutive year, as Best in the Show at the Marin venture. She also received the new Sylvia Award given by commercial florists for design in plant material. This is the first year this award was offered.

Lila and Oliver have lived on Altena Street 21 years and she received her nursery license in 1956. Her commercial activities are accompanied by helping her husband with the bookkeeping for their trucking business. She also lectures before clubs and meetings.

The Lillies have a daughter, Mrs. Lila Marie Sandage, in Florida and have four grandchildren who Lila says would be taught about succulents and nursery work if they were closer to her.



A NOVELTY ITEM in the succulent garden of Lila Lillie is the 10x18 inch dish garden which may be taken indoors for use as decoration or kept outside. All plants are selected for their proportion to the size of the dish for a miniature garden, and a variety of design and texture is included. The word, succulent, comes from the Latin noun, usccus, meaning juice or sap and refers to a morphological condition which was developed in some plants in response to situations.

Beauty Parlor Business Grows In Soviet Union

MINSK (AP) — The one building in Minsk where you will not see Lenin's picture staring down at you is the Parlor of Beauty. The Soviet hero would probably feel a little ill-at-ease beside pictures of the latest Russian coiffures.

This new building, which is typical of large beauty parlors now being constructed throughout the Soviet Union, was built as a result of a special statement by the Byelorrussian government two years ago that more parlors of beauty should be built.

If the Byelorrussian women, who pride themselves on being the fairest in all the Soviet Union, were offended by the hint, it does not show. They flock to the parlor to have their traditionally long hair bobbed.

It is not unusual for the parlor, which requires no advance appointment, to produce 200 manicures and more than 300 new hairdos in a day.

In a country where 75 per cent of the doctors are women, it is only fitting that the director of this parlor and numerous others is a man.

"After all, men are the best judges of a woman's beauty," says Joseph Korpelin, himself a former hairdresser.

What he judges to be an attractive woman is a "blonde with nice features of the face, slender with black eyes and eye makeup if it suits her. The best beauty is natural beauty," he says, "but there are some things which if they are not up to the mark, it is our job to improve upon."

A quick look around the beauty parlor reveals that a number of Soviet women agree with him that blondes are most attractive. The women are having their hair dyed blonde or red.

The hair-teasing craze that came to America six years ago and stayed has also arrived in the Soviet Union. Most of the women who visit the beauty parlor come out with teased hair.

Most of the equipment seems to be up to Western standards, although in many of the older and smaller parlors hair dryers and apparatus for giving permanents is more old-fashioned.

The Parlor of Beauty, in addition to employing hairdressers and manicurists, has two doctors who specialize in pedicures. The Russian women who suffer from poorly fitting shoes can have their badly calloused and swollen feet worked on by the pedicurist for from 90 cents to $2, depending on the amount of work required.

Prices for a hairdo vary from 80 cents for an everyday hair style and about $1.25 for an evening hair design. The most popular hairdo for evening is an upsweep of clustered curls. The Greek Shepherd, displaying a short bob in back and bangs in front, is the latest rage in short hairdos.

Old-Time Fair Set For Northgate

More than 15,000 persons are expected to attend Marin County's 69th Annual Sunny Hills Grape Festival tomorrow at Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, beginning at 10 a.m.

All proceeds from the one-day benefit the Sunny Hills Children's Service in San Anselmo.

More than 1,500 Bay Area volunteers participate in staffing the festival, including members of 39 guilds of Sunny Hills and representatives of the Girl Scouts, Dominican College and other community organizations.

Thousands of hand-crafted wares, including toys, decorative accessories, knitwear, children's clothes, kitchen and bath accessories and home-made gourmet foods such as brandied fruits, pickles, nut breads and pies will be on sale from 60 decorated booths.

Pony rides and games for children will be operated from a "Gay Way," by the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary. Works contributed by Bay Area artists will be sold at a special art booth.

The Sunny Hills Grape Festival continues until 5 p.m. Mrs. Warren Lauer of San Rafael is chairman of the festival.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Many a buff of old-time movies has especially vivid memories of the World War I aviation pictures in which Neuports, Sopwiths, Fokkers and the other aircraft filled the skies and performed acrobatics that left the audience gasping. The daredevils who piloted those planes that performed the stunts were a special breed. Many did not survive. But one who did is a Marin County resident today, and in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine he recalls that colorful era in filmmaking.

In this computerized age, some of the old handicrafts still retain their appeal. And in some cases, that popularity is growing. One such field, a Fairfax woman believes, is sewing. And as a result, she has started an unusual school for this day and age — a sewing school. One of the feature stories in tomorrow's issue of the I-J weekend supplement reports on that school. And why today's women still take up needle and thread.

Golfer Seeks $225,000 After Tiff

A Foster City man filed a $225,000 damage suit yesterday against a San Rafael man and the San Geronimo National Golf Course in the aftermath of a scuffle at the golf course Sept. 26.

Vincent Rovetti, 35, is asking $150,000 damages from Mike C. O'Donnell, 59, of 135 H Street, and $75,000 from the golf club.

Rovetti charged that O'Donnell attacked him at the 10th tee "with his fists and instruments of a deadly nature," causing permanent injury and breaking his glasses.

He charged the golf club should have protected him from O'Donnell, who he said is a club member, and charged the club was negligent in failing to help Rovetti call a doctor or lawmen.

According to a report from the sheriff's office, Rovetti was playing the 18th hole at 4 p.m. when he asked O'Donnell, on the 10th tee, if he could shoot across the tee. He reportedly made a poor shot, words were exchanged, and a scuffle followed. Rovetti told deputies O'Donnell hit him in the eye. O'Donnell told deputies Rovetti swung and he beat him to the punch.

Sukarno's Wife Under Arrest

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The second wife of former President Sukarno has been arrested on charges of playing a key role in the ex-dictator's alleged clandestine political activity, reliable sources said today.

They said the wife, Hartini, was picked up last week by security officers from her mansion in Bogor, 40 miles south of here.

She is now being detained in "a house in the capital, tightly guarded by plainclothes security officers, and undergoing continuous questioning by a team of intelligence men," they added.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Detroit Revitalizes The Fans' Interest

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers showed in yesterday's NBC-TV telecast of the World Series how to revitalize fan interest in baseball.

In contrast to the season-long diet of low-scoring punchless games, the American League champions walloped baseballs all over the lot. They can hit, as everybody knew, and their three home runs — which helped square the series with St. Louis at a game apiece—were a big kick to the impartial viewer, not to mention Detroit fans.

The 1968 baseball classic is shaping up as a fine video attraction. Bob Gibson, the spirit of St. Louis, turned in a corking pitching performance in the opener. And Detroit showed plenty of spunk in bouncing back in Thursday's contest.

What was really remarkable about yesterday's game was that Detroit succeeded in doing to the polished, classy St. Louis team—the world champions—what few teams have been able to do: they made them look bad. And that is the one thing baseball aficionados don't expect of St. Louis.

As awkward, clumsy and heavyhanded Detroit looked in Wednesday's opener, that is how St. Louis appeared yesterday. Now the series moves to Detroit, with day games scheduled there for tomorrow, Sunday and Monday.

As often happens in the World Series, an unsung hero earns the spotlight. And for televiewers yesterday, there was no doubt that the sleeper of the baseball showdown was the Tiger pitcher, Mickey Lolich, a well-regarded, cherub-faced athlete who not only hurled exceptionally, but also hit the first home run of his career.

All of the Tigers seemed to be at the top of their game, but to longtime baseball fans there was a particular satisfaction in watching the veteran outfield great, Al Kaline, go about his work beautifully and effortlessly. It is his first series, and to watch on television as he gracefully made a difficult catch and then picked up his share of hits was, alone, worth tuning in for.

Strike Man-Hour Losses Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strikes so far this year have cost 32.1 million man-days of lost production, highest figure in nine years, the Labor Department reports.

Working time lost in strikes the first eight months of this year amounted to a little more than one-fourth of one per cent of the nation's total estimated working time, also the highest figure since 1959.

However, the number of workers involved in strikes, a total of 1,880,000, was less than the number involved the first eight months of last year, when the figure was 2,040,000.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Great White Hope' Is Powerful Theater

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Great White Hope" is great theater.

It opened last night at the Alvin Theater and anyone with the slightest shred of interest in seeing what Broadway can do at its very best, is advised to put this one on the must-see list.

The play reduced to bare outline mightn't seem to possess wide potential appeal. But as written by Howard Sackler and performed by an absolutely electrifying cast, this story of the first Negro heavyweight fight champion of the world bursts with emotional ferocity and dramatic substance.

The action transpires before and during World War I, when the ring rise of Jack Jefferson —in real life, Jack Johnson—unleashed a relentless drive to find a white man to win back the golden belt and restore the era's concept of racial propriety.

Crudities and cruelties are not minced, but 1968 contemporary relevance is muted in a manner that intensifies the theatrical achievement.

The list of specific credits must begin with James Earl Jones, a champion who comes on swaggering and with a rigid grin of masking benevolence, goes through years of brutal harassment at home and abroad, and goes down to blood-spattered defeat in his finest hour.

At his side in a crescendo of scenes that start sweet and end with crushing poignancy is Jane Alexander, as the white girl whose romance with Jefferson brought down the cumulative connivance of the sporting world and government.

Among others in the outsized cast that has been paced by director Edwin Sherin with precision and fire, are George Mathews, a brutal promoter; Antonio Fargas, a forerunner of Black Panther extremism; Marlene Warfield, a baleful black nemesis, and Max Wright, an epitome of prejudice on the other side of the ocean.

"The Great White Hope" is great.

What other critics said:

Clive Barnes, the New York Times: "The play has an epic scope and range to it .. It is still too long, and sprawlingly constructed. But this hardly matters at all in the face of (its) tempestuous merits."

Richard Watts Jr., the New York Post: ". . . a drama of considerable power, and I suspect it's actually a better play than it seemed in a production that is much too loud . . . A little restraint and less noise would have helped . . . immensely."

James Davis, the New York Daily News: ". . . a big, robust drama boasting a bravura performance by James Earl Jones . . . All in all, we thought it a highly theatrical and hugely rewarding evening."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from California and National PTA magazines and the "Film Report" of the Film Estimate board. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael or Mill Valley libraries.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bandolero" — Well made, well cast, violent westetrn has background of fne desert scenery.

"Hombre" — Eastern Arizona 1880, young man reared by Apaches . . . succeeds in leading group that fights off robbers and bandits . . . story of greed and prejudice . . . characters well chosen . . . strong script.

"A Matter of Innocence" — A drab young woman accompanies her wealthy aunt on a trip to Singapore. When the aunt dies suddenly, the niece stays on for a few days and "lives it up." The film starts out on a high note but soon lapses into tasteless, unethical junk. A long funeral sequence treated as comedy is offensive.

"Odd Couple" — Beautifully acted and directed humorous character study of two divorced men sharing an apartment.

"With Six You Get Eggroll" — Doris Day again plays the role of widow with children. This time her family consists of three boys and an enormous sheep dog. She marries a widower who has a daughter and a poodle. The plot situations are amusing but the ethics are confused.

BORDERLINE
(Some say adults only)

"The Graduate" — This satirical comedy is subject to various interpretations. Young man from college becomes involved in a torrid affair . . . scenes of night club entertainer distasteful.

"Kona Coast" — Fishing-boat skipper Richard Boone searches for the murderer of his half-caste daughter. The girl was a drug addict, and her father's prime suspect is a playboy dope smuggler. Father's boat is burned, his best friend dies trying to help him, he himself is nearly killed, but justice is finally served. The tough hard-hitting melodrama varies its wild parties and violence with a rekindled romance and scenes of local customs and relaxation.

"Pretty Poison" — Released on probation from reformatory, a young man finds a job in a small New England town where he meets and falls in love with an innocent looking girl. Murder and intrigue are prominent throughout the story. Anthony Perkins as the young man with psychological problems, treated as a criminal and punished for murders he did not commit, and Tuesday Weld as the girl, sweet and innocent-looking, who is a psychopathic killer, are both believable. Color photography of Winslow, Mass., is good.

"Rachel, Rachel" — Heavy-handed study of a repressed spinster trying to break out of her barren, frustrating existence.

"Scalphunters" — Western adventure-comedy based on bounty-hunting for Indian scalps. Sometimes telling development of racial theme marred by equating violence with manhood.

"Secret Life of an American Wife" — Satirical farce about sex life of 34 years old mother before and after marriage. Nudity, risque dialogue and adultery are casually presented.

Second Divorce Suit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Actress Gloria DeHaven filed suit yesterday for a second divorce from Dick Fincher, Miami car dealer and Democratic state senator. Miss DeHaven charged extreme cruelty.

An exhibit of sculpture and woodcarving by G. Bjork-Ohlson of Mill Valley is now on display at the Glad Hand Restaurant, Sausalito, through Nov. 3.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Fall Finds Changes Aplenty In Marin Restaurants Scene

Apparently things have been happening at Marin restaurants while I was away on vacation.

First of all, I find that Inn Marin, Strawberry Town and Country Village has Ron Henning, former co-owner at Di Pietro's in San Rafael, as general manager for owner Alan Johnstone. And Ron has brought in Don Caseldine as chef. Since both have been very successful in their respective fields, the portent for Inn Marin is good.

There are completely new lunch and dinner menus, with steak dinners running from $2.95 to $5.50; a la carte 50 cents less. Lunches feature Don's terrific sandwiches from 85 cents up to about $1.95. The dining room is closed Mondays, but the bar is open then.

Breakfast shows with dancing are held Saturday and Sunday in the wee hours from 2:30 to 5:30 a.m. Complete breakfast with dancing is $3. Dinner dancing on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights will begin Oct. 17, with the Eastman Trio offering the kind of music that appeals to all age groups. Ron had this group at Di Peitro's and it always was enthusiastically received.

Fashion shows will be coming back and a piano or organ bar is planned for the lounge.

AS I ANTICIPATED, the Executive Lounge in the Kaehler-Farrar Building at Fourth and C streets, San Rafael opened while I was gone. Friday the 13th was the day significantly picked last month by Don Bernard for this event. From all indications it was not ill advised.

Lunches are served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, but the way they have taken hold you will do well to arrive before noon, or wait until after 1 to be sure of a table without a wait.

Dinners are served from 6 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. Broiler items, steaks and such are featured. Salads and other items also are available on the lunch. Don has encouraged me to add that for a limited time if you mention that you saw it on this page, wine will be included with the regular dinner.

Paul Jurvig is chef. He was chef for 15 years at Marin General Hospital.

FRED CHERRY, of course, opened his Cafe Bon Vin in San Anselmo early in September. Now he has made each course in his regular 10 course banquets available a la carte. Apparently, going the full route overwhelms some Marin appetites. There is also a "petite dinner" at $5.50.

His menu is being changed monthly. For October the official banquet is something a French chateau owner might serve after the grape harvest is finished. It is called La Vendange. For November a "French Thanksgiving" is planned.

Besides all this, classes in wine appreciation have started; a "jug of the month club" is in operation, and game gastronomy is being offered. Hunters may bring in venison, elk and ducks, and fishermen their catches to be prepared by chef Benny Veideland with all the extras.

Wines are the thing here and Fred's forte. Only a devoted enophile could corral all the splendid vintages he has available — some of them at modest cost. Stocks are changed as new selections are discovered.

SABELLA'S has finished remodeling its Captain's Room with an antique crystal chandelier of a ship and Australian red shades to go with the red fleur-de-lis wallpaper. New decor makes it an interesting place for bridal showers, ladies' luncheons and other groups of up to 30 persons.

I FIND that Franchini's Chateau is still serving its sumptuous chuckwagon or family-style Sunday breakfast — whichever designation appeals to you. Eggs any style, are combined lavishly with ham, bacon or sausage and all the trimmings for $2.25; youngsters $1.25. There are other menu selections, of course.

MY OWN PEREGRINATIONS in the last few weeks have been mostly north of Marin. I have been fortunate in discovering and rediscovering some delightful food locations in Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

For example, it has been years since I last visited Occidental, and while here last month it was my pleasure to take in the old Panizzera family-owned Union Hotel. Various family members are active in this operation and one of them, Dan Mahoney, appears to be the manager.

Italian restaurants at Occidental and that general area seem to have changed their menus slightly since the old days, and the three regular entrees at the Union are chicken, duck and steak. But the large homemade ravioli and extras are generously applied .The odds are that you'll just have to give in and settle for taking some of your entree home with you.

The Union's dining room is open seven days a week from 1 to 9 p.m. Dinners are from $2.90 to $4.50.

ONE OF MY FAVORITES still, is the Mark West Lodge on the road from Santa Rosa to Calistoga. Take the Fulton turn-off from Highway 101 above Santa Rosa and travel on Mark West Road for about seven miles.

This venerable old landmark has been standing for something like 135 years. It has been luring many visitors for the last five or six years with its French cuisine and beautiful dining room. Proprietor Rene Pavel, is Czechoslovakian and trained in the old European ways.

You don't hurry here, but linger comfortably over a menu beautifully prepared by the chef. Karl, by the way, has been a Santa Venetia resident for several years. He used to be at the World Trade Club and has spent some time at Marin restaurants, including, I believe, Sally's in Sausalito.

Mark West Lodge is well worth the hour's ride from Marin and will be open daily except Wednesdays, from 5 to 10 p.m., before closing down for December, January and February.

THE NORTH COUNTIES above Marin are at their best this time of the year — particularly if you get over to the coast. October is comparatively free of fog and there's the tang and briskness of fall in the air.

You may not know it, but Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert, who own Gregory's in Corte Madera, have 13 acres on the Mendocino coast near a little hamlet called Albion. This is about seven miles south of the town of Mendocino.

They have built a lovely home here and eventually intend to construct another restaurant on the bluff overlooking the ocean, huge rocks and cavorting sea lions. We visited them, and I must say that after their success in Corte Madera, they should do equally well at Albion.

But until another Gregory's appears in that area, you might stop off at Little River Inn, four or five miles to the north. It's a picturesque old structure built in 1853 and is said to have been serving the public continuously since then. Present proprietors are Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hervilla — she is the granddaughter of the inn's founder Silas Coombs.

This is abalone country and we did well by ordering accordingly. I have never tasted finer specimens — nor served any better.

THERE ARE other north county places I'd like to talk about — but space doesn't permit today. More about them next week.

INCIDENTALLY, Paul Galas, former chef at Mark West, now has his own place in Santa Rosa in partnership with Tony Serva. It is called the Hilltopper, located at 3901 Montgomery Drive.

I was unable to visit there this trip, but fully intend to take it in at a future date. If you are in the Montgomery Village area, be sure to call, as I understand it has become very popular.

Plumbers' Union Helps Scholars

Scholarships totaling $3,750 have been awarded to boys in Marin and Sonoma counties by the United Association of Plumbing and Piping Journeymen, Union Local 38.

Marin winners were Douglas Sederberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sederberg of Ross, and Bruce D. Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Lamb of Novato.

In Sonoma the award went to Daniel R. Springer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Springer of Rohnert Park.

Fire Disaster Film Set In Corte Madera

The film will be shown by Capt. Edward J. Parnell of the Tiburon Fire Department as part of Fire Prevention Week.

Candidates Differ On Kappas Solution

Widely differing solutions to the county's long-standing dispute with Kappas Yacht Harbor in Richardson Bay were offered last night by the two runoff candidates for Marin County supervisor in the Third District.

The candidates, Donald J. O'Leary and Michael Wornum, made their suggestions in response to questions during a candidates' night sponsored at Tamalpais Valley School by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club.

It was their second joint appearance in the day, having appeared in the morning on KTIM's "Sounding Board" program.

"There's got to be room for compromise," insisted O'Leary, suggesting that Saucalito Canal's alignment perhaps should be shifted further into the middle of the bay.

O'Leary, asserting the alignment was shifted shoreward in 1964 by "political pressure" on the supervisors, said "as a result Kappas has not been able to build the kind of marina he's capable of."

Wornum, commenting that "all the words that have been talked to Kappas would stretch half way around the world," insisted that the only continued legal action by the county would solve the problem. He added that the county had been "deficient" for not having pressed legal action earlier.

"For 10 years, Kappas cynically filled county rights-of-way in the bay," declared Wornum, adding "he's making a lot of money on this, too."

Wornum also objected to O'Leary's comment that "political pressure" had realigned the canal. The alignment was changed to reduce pressure to fill the bay, he said.

In his opening statement, Wornum called for passage of a county-wide master plan. "Without such a plan, conservation of our irreplaceable environment is jeopardized, as conservation is too late when the bulldozers are gouging the hills or the dump trucks have commenced filling."

O'Leary suggested addition of a monorail on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to link Marin commuters to the Bay Area Rapid Transit District system in Richmond. "No one will complain about beauty," he said of the effect of a monorail on the bridge.

Unless Marin develops its own employment base, O'Leary predicted, the high-income property taxpayers essential to the county's tax base will move to the East Bay where they will be able to use BARTD to get to San Francisco.

New development in Marin "doesn't have to change Southern Marin a bit," said O'Leary, adding he was convinced that Hamilton Air Force Base someday will replace San Francisco International Airport as the major Bay Area airport.

He and Wornum also differed on how to get some commercial development into Marin City, with Wornum arguing it must be initiated by the community, and O'Leary stating the county must help decide what should be done to get such development started.

Hearings Set On Water Hikes For Inverness

A request by the Inverness Water Co. for almost double present rates will be the subject of a public hearing by the California Public Utilities Commission at 10 a.m. Oct. 28 at the Inverness Yacht Club.

The Citizens Utilities Co. of Stamford, Conn., a holding company operating the Inverness company, applied for the rate increases last year. PUC action was delayed until the firm furnished its records to the commission staff for study.

Examiner Carol T. Coffey will preside at the hearings which are scheduled to continue on subsequent days until testimony is completed.

The firm is asking a boost from $4.65 to $8.90 for the first 200 cubic feet, from 60 cents to $1.15 for each additional 100 cubic feet up to 600, and from 50 to 95 cents for each additional 100 cubic feet up to 1,000, all in the monthly rate schedule.

New Shooting Flares In Korea Truce Zone

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean army troops shot and killed one of an unknown number of North Korean infiltrators in a brief predawn engagement today south of the demilitarized zone, the counterespionage command reported.

The South Koreans suffered no casualties, the command said.

Auto Theft Denied

William Carl Smith, 19, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a car Sept. 20 in San Rafael. Preliminary hearing was set for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 27.

Wine Fumes Kill Three In Big Vat

A 63-year-old Tomales man was asphyxiated yesterday along with his two would-be rescuers in an 8,400-gallon empty wine vat near Sebastopol.

John C. Nelson had climbed down inside the 13-foot-deep, 13-foot-wide vat to clean out residue, according to Sonoma County Coroner Andrew Johansen, who said that the ventilator fans had apparently not been turned on.

A second worker, Jose Lopez, saw Nelson fall, scrambled back the ladder and yelled for help. Everett Stafford, 34, of Graton, Sonoma County, jumped down into the vat to try to rescue Nelson and quickly lost consciousness.

Then William Martini, 26, son of Elmo Martini, one of the winery owners, leaped into the vat to help, and he, too, lost consciousness.

Winery manager Frank Vanuuci turned on fans to drive out the fumes, but Nelson, Stafford and Martini were dead before they could be rescued.

The cornoer said that this was Nelson's fourth season working at the winery.

Nelson, whose home was on Dillon's Beach Road, was a native of Illinois.

He is survived by his wife, Eathel; three sons, Christopher Nelson of Valley Ford; John and Philip Nelson of Tomales; four daughters, Sandra Welch of Sebastopol, Mary Nelson of Tomales, Sue Powell of Georgia and Mildred Huntley of Illinois; a brother, Jess Nelson of Santa Rosa and several brothers in Illinois.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. at the O'Leary Funeral Home in Sebastopol.

Immunization Clinic Slated For Cotati

A family immunization clinic for the Cotati-Rohnert Park-Penngrove area is scheduled for today from 4 to 7 p.m. and again on Dec. 6 at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

Provided by the Sonoma Public Health Service, immunizations will be given against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, poliomyelitis and measles. Tuberculin skin tests will also be available.

Cleaver's 10 Lectures Get Faculty Nod

BERKELEY (AP) — A resolution criticizing the University of California regents and asking that Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver be allowed to lecture on the Berkeley campus has won overwhelming support of the U.C. Academic Senate.

By a 668 to 114 vote, with 21 abstentions, the senate adopted last night a six-part resolution in favor of proceeding with plans to hold the Social Analysis 139X course "on or off campus" with Cleaver giving his proposed 10 lectures on racism.

The resolution directs "the committee on courses to take all steps to encourage course and credit status for that program."

The regents voted to limit the militant Negro, an ex-convict, to one lecture in a class for credit.

After the resolution was introduced, U.C. President Charles Hitch warned the faculty group that confrontation with the regents might "destroy the university as we have known it."

Chancellor Roger Heyns of the Berkeley campus said he had reserved a room for a "student - sponsored noncredit program of instruction" that under present rules could permit Cleaver to lecture as many times as he wishes.

Meanwhile, the state Court of Appeal ruled that Cleaver, 33, must stand trial Dec. 2 on a charge of assault with intent to kill, stemming from an April shootout between Black Panthers and Oakland police.

The court ruled in a brief order without expressing an opinion.

Earlier yesterday, Cleaver addressed a rally of 5,000 from the Sproul Hall steps and shouted four-letter obscenities.

"I'm going to have to come here and deliver 30 to 40 lectures and tell them," Cleaver said. "There are more people in this country than there are pigs."

He applied the term "pigs" to police, Gov. Ronald Reagan and U.S. Senate candidate Max Rafferty.

Proposition 3 Passage Urged

Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., president of Sonoma State College, has called for passage proposition 3 on the Nov. 5 ballot, asserting that $3 million in construction at the college hangs in the balance.

Dr. Ambrose said funds for an art building and a speech and drama building are provided in the statewide $100 million construction program funded by bonds authorized in the proposition.

The college president said his institution's present enrollment of 2,954 students was not anticipated until the fall of 1969. "We just can't handle a large student load with present facilities," he said.

Nobody else builds a car under $2000. with all these features.

Bird Sanctuary Closed Till Spring

The National Audubon Society's Richardson Bay Sanctuary will be closed to the public Oct. 12 due to fall flights of migratory waterfowl, the society reported.

It will reopen next spring when most of the waterfowl have moved out, a society spokesman said.

During the closing, the sanctuary will be patrolled as usual by Fred Ross, Audubon warden and resident manager of the sanctuary.

Manager Helps In Capture Of Bank Robbery Suspect

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A bank robber disappeared into a Market Street theater yesterday with bank manager Raymond A. Marks in hot pursuit.

When the lights were turned on, Marks and police found only the robber's slacks, red plaid shirt and what they called a "crazy wig."

They were in an empty seat next to a young woman who had $1,500 in her purse, police said.

That was the amount taken about noon yesterday from the Market-Jones office of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank, Marks said.

Police said the girl, Jene Nolasco, 19, San Francisco, told them the clothing belonged to her husband, Percy, 24.

Minutes later her husband was arrested by FBI agents about two blocks from the bank and both were booked on suspicion of robbery.

Marks says robberies make him mad.

"It's not just the money," he said. "It's the time . . . The employees' time.

"The time they have to spend going down to the Hall of Justice for showups, the time they spend answering questions.

"That's why I get mad, and that's why I chase them, even though I know it's crazy."

Bechtel Worker Wins First Prize For Art

Olav Coln of San Rafael won first place in an art festival for Bechtel Corp. employees in San Francisco with his oil painting "Sand Spit."

Claudia Schlueter, also of San Rafael, won third place with her oil, "Summer Day." Forty-four employees entered 121 art works in the competition.

Mass Starvation Seen In Africa

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Millions will starve to death, a missionary surgeon warns, unless worldwide public pressure can end the 14-month war between Nigeria and Biafra, its breakaway province.

Dr. Sherman A. Nagel Jr., 53, a Seventh-day Adventist who operated a 60-bed hospital in Biafra until Sept. 17, told reporters yesterday:

"My appeal is that some way, somehow, public pressure will be so strong on both sides that a cease fire will come, because without that, millions more will starve to death."

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

BONES BENEATH THE PHONE LINES

Scientists Race To Dig Camp Site

Archaeologists working in Novato have two weeks to find life patterns of a local Indian civilization estimated to be 2,000 years old.

The archaeologists, professionals and students from San Francisco State College, are racing construction crews at the site of expansion of a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. substation at the edge of the Ignacio Shopping Center.

Robert E. Schenck, curator of the anthropology museum at San Francisco State, said concrete will be poured in the area in which they are digging in two weeks.

Schenck said he hoped this would be enough time to uncover sufficient evidence of the life characteristics of the Miwok Indians, who inhabited much of Marin County centuries ago.

Human and animal bones, arrowheads and ceremonial stones have been uncovered thus far, Schenck said, but isolated discoveries mean little unless relationships can be established.

"We want more than just artifacts," he said. "We want to find out how they lived, where they came from and what they hunted.

"We want to find out what kinds of birds and animals were here 2,000 years ago. From samples of shellfish, we can find out what kind they liked. We want to dig it all up and find out what it means."

Schenck said discovery of the presence of Indian mounds at the substation was made about 10 days ago.

The archaeology crew, now consisting of five diggers, attempted to halt construction by invoking the county ordinance prohibiting destruction of Indian mounds, but discovered the site was 50 feet inside the city limits, Schenck said, and Novato offers no such protection to historic or archeologically important finds.

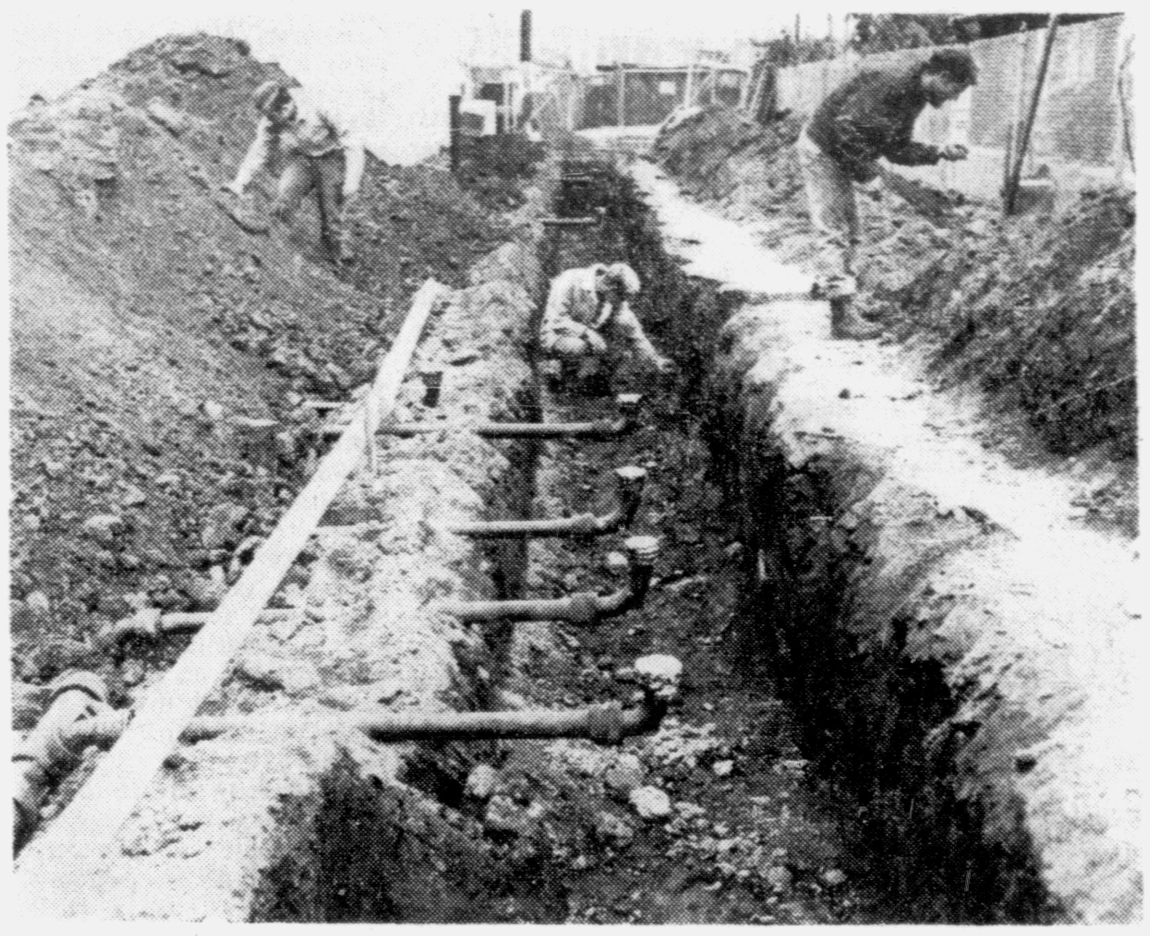
The telephone company later agreed to permit digging on the site away from construction crews.

"It was a moral victory for ourselves," Schenck said. He expressed disappointment, however, that discovery of the artifacts had not been made before large areas had been excavated by construction workers.

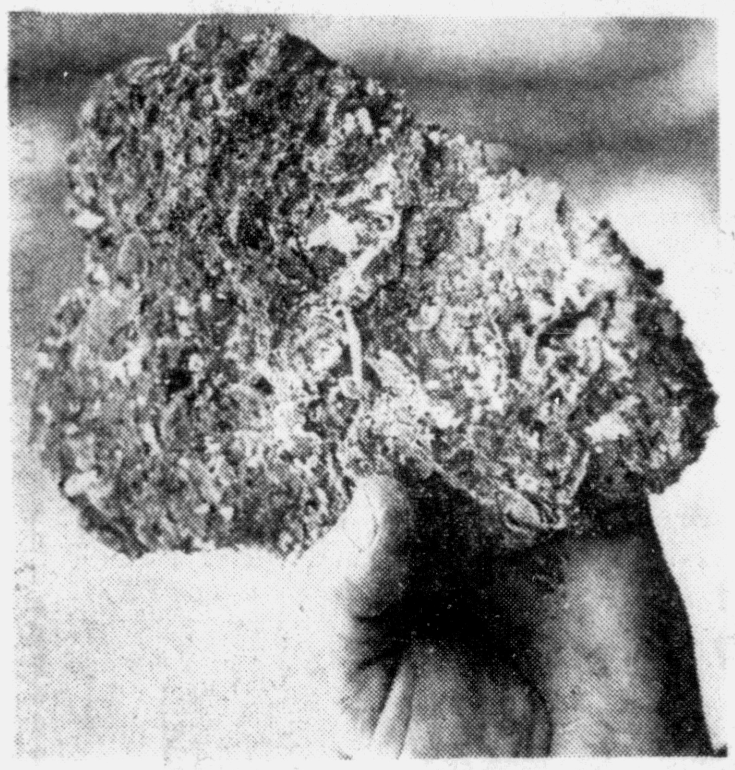
Schenck said telephone officials had agreed to notify San Francisco State in advance of future work of this type in the Bay Area.

He reported that three systematic test diggings would be conducted behind the test station in search of clues to the life of Miwoks.

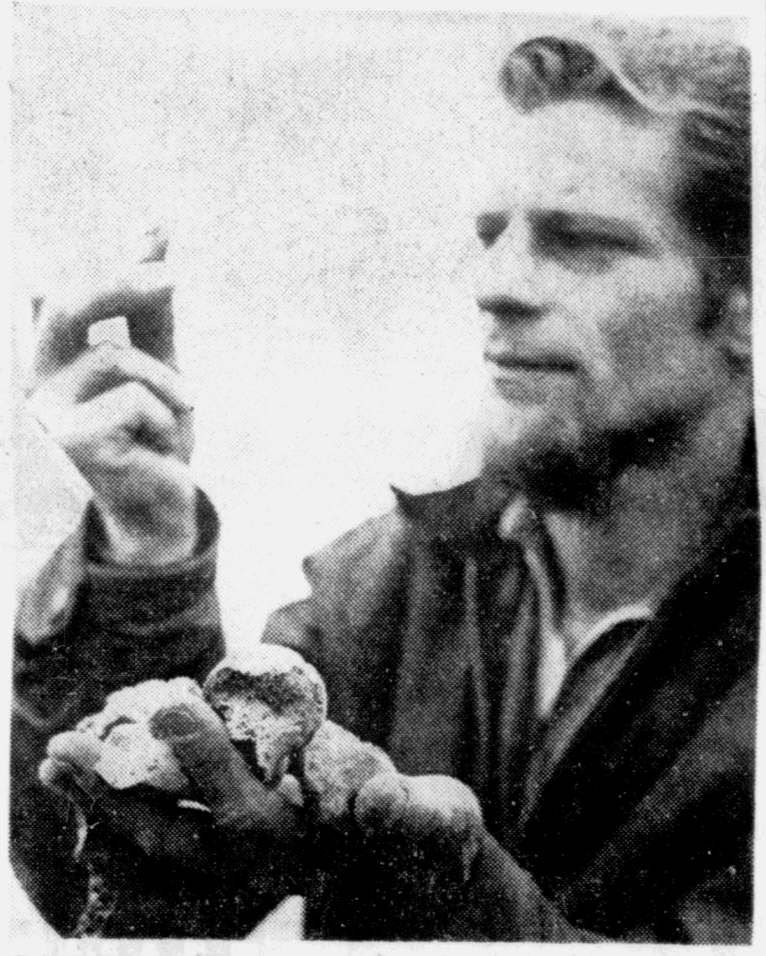
Work would continue through the weekend, Schenck said, "if we can scare up enough people." He said some students had cut classes to help and he hoped for aid from the Northwestern California Archaeological Society and the Novato High School Archaeology Club.



DEADLINE — Amateur and professional archaeologists from San Francisco State College examine trench soil at the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. substation in Novato for Indian artifacts. They seek clues to life patterns of the ancient colony, but have only two weeks to explore the area. From left are Bob Oliphant, Robert E. Schenck and Ron Melander.



DISCOVERY — Pieces of human mammal bone were found by the diggers in a clump of dirt. Arrowheads and ceremonial stones also have been discovered.



BONE FRAGMENTS — Ron Melander, a member of the San Francisco State College team, holds bone fragments uncovered at the substation. (Independent-Journal photos)

Fire Board Seeks Land In Tiburon

The Tiburon Fire District board last night agreed to begin negotiations with Northwestern Pacific Railroad for purchase of 4,600 square feet of land adjacent to the Tiburon firehouse, secretary Wellman H. Topham reported.

The board wants to purchase the land, Topham said, to square out the triangular parcel upon which the fire house stands.

The board also agreed to write a letter to the Coast Guard thanking its units for assistance in the Main Street fire Sunday.

An application from Frank A. Neer II to be a volunteer fireman was accepted.

Bolinas Harbor District Takeover Ballot Urged; Debt Issue Raised

Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night adopted a resolution calling for an election to decide whether the Bolinas Harbor District should be dissolved.

Still somewhat unclear after the commission vote was exactly what district debts Marin County would assume and which would be left for payment solely by residents of the district.

Commissioners last night agreed the county should assume district liabilities totaling approximately $125,300, to pay off contracts to which the district is already committed.

But disssolution of the district would not become effective until June 30 nor until hhe state grants the Bolinas Lagogon to the county for administration.

Tnomas Barfield, a harbor district director, complained the district has several condemnation suits now pending and may have to enter more contracts before the district is dissolved.

Commissioners decided that the question of assuming further liabilities of the district should be decided by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

All liabilities assumed would be paid for by all Marin taxpayers. Those not assumed by the county would be paid by residents of the district.

John F. Barrows, assistant county administrator, said he will ask the supervisors Tuesday to set a public hearing on the question of calling the election of dissolution. The election could be called in about four months, he said.

The commission also voted last night to allow residents of Corte Madera Sanitary District to vote on whether the district should be merged with the Town of Corte Madera.

The question goes next to county supervisors, who will reject the decision or set an election.

The Local Agency Formation Commission also approved four small annexations not requiring elections. They are:

Annexation of 3.5 acres of Fred Zelinsky's land along Tiburon Boulevard to the Tiburon fire protection district.

Annexation of three-fourths of an acre owned by Richard Dawson and other family members at the intersection of Mar East Street and Linda Vista Avenue to the City of Tubron.

Elbow Injured In Collision

Duane Allen Brown, 24, of 623 F Street, Petaluma, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for an elbow injury after his soft drink van and a car collided on South San Pedro Road, Country Club the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Brown's van hit a car driven by Bernice Georgie Pelkey, 66, of 306 South San Pedro Road, at 9:50 a.m. when the Pelkey car turned across the road in front of the truck.

A passenger in the Pelkey car, Ermina MacKenney, 85, also of 306 South San Pedro Road, was to see her own doctor for pain in the right shoulder and right leg.

Site Looted

Earl Gregg, owner of Empire Plumbing Co., 3992 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, reported to police the theft of $200 worth of oxygen pipes from the construction site at Hillcrest Hospital. He noted $100 worth of piping was stolen there three weeks ago.

COUNSEL'S VIEWS

A Fair Trial For Newton Not Possible

By ROSS DAVIS

Garry told the largely sympathetic group of some 250 students including about 20 Negroes that a fair trial for Newton wasn't possible because 66.6 per cent of the panel from which the jury was selected was prejudiced against the black man.

He said it wouldn't have mattered if the trial had been held elsewhere, because that percentage exists throughout the state, and throughout the nation.

He said he chose the percentage figure because that was how many people voted against fair housing for Negroes in 1964, and that is the bias estimate in the Kerner report, returned by a president-appointed committee last spring in the wake of racial rioting on a national scale.

Newton was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the Oct. 28, 1967 death of an Oakland policeman.

Garry, a 59-year-old San Franciscan, said a fair trial in Oakland also didn't and couldn't result because the jury panel was "not a cross-section of Alameda County, certainly not a cross-section of the peers of Huey P. Newton."

He said this was because the panel was chosen in "haphazard" manner from registered voters in that county, rather than at random by a computer system. Also, because many Negroes are unregistered, the resulting jury was "not a representative body" of the community, he said.

Garry defined "Peers," people who should have tried Newton, as people who come from Newton's community, or at least understand his cultural background and community.

He said only four of a jury panel of 159 had heard of the Kerner report, and none had purchased a copy or read it through. Garry also called the trial a "political situation." He asked, "Can a black man get a fair trial in a political situation like this? Can a white man get a fair trial in a political situation?"

"The answers I'm going to leave to you," he concluded. Garry declared that only the nation's youth can correct the unfairness in trial of the black man. "My generation has goofed," said he. "They're not carrying the ball."

Garry, who received a standing ovation at close of his talk, said he appealed the conviction to the district court of appeals in San Francisco Friday, and will also seek a reversal of the court's denial of bail for Newton while the appeal is pending.

He described Newton, who received a two to 15-year sentence and currently is in state prison, as "dedicated to a national liberalization movement . . . a true born revolutionary."

He added, "He is probably one of the finest, sweetest . . . persons I've ever known."

Parking Proposed By Hub Chamber

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday agreed to ask the San Anselmo City Council at Tuesday's council meeting to study the possibility of improving a parking lot situation.

William Franchini, board president, said the city-owned lot, located behind Kaufman's department store at 540 San Anselmo Avenue, provides free parking. With additional paving, it could hold about 75 cars, he said, and a parking fee might be feasible.

The council meets at 8 p.m. at city hall. Next chamber meeting will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the San Francisco Theological Seminary on Kensington Court.

Coup Had To Come, Says Peruvian Leader's Nephew

The nephew of the military leader of the new Peruvian government said today that the bloodless coup "had to come about."

George Velasco, 28, of 43 Meadow Drive, San Rafael, whose uncle is Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, said that yesterday's coup had been "rumored for a long time" because of the "need for social changes" and a crisis which erupted after the government signed a new contract with a petroleum company.

General Alvarado, president of the joint chiefs, led forces which seized the government and sent President Fernando Belaunde into political exile in Buenos Aires.

"I spoke with my uncle last night by telephone," said Velasco, employee of an auto garage in San Francisco. "He said the new government will definitely be pro-Western."

Velasco, who had been in America about eight years and received his citizenship last year, said Alvarado reported he was "completely in power now."

The Associated Press said today, however, that resistance to the new government, spawned by street battles between students and police, was stiffening.

Students swirled through the streets of Lima, breaking windows. In one encounter last night, police fired into a crowd of students and apparently killed one. Five photographers taking pictures of the incident were arrested.

At least 10 cars were burned. Police also used tear gas in an attempt ot control the outbreaks.

Pipe Stolen

A three-foot-tall souvenir German smoking pipe was stolen Tuesday from the home of Charles Gilardi, 1004 I Street, Petaluma, he reported to police yesterday. The brich pipe was valued at $50.

Fountain Studied In Rohnert Park

The possibility of constructing a fountain in front of the new community center building in Rohnert Park was discussed last night at the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission meeting.

Members felt a fountain would add beauty to the building now under construction and requested Commissioner George Verly to prepare cost estimates for the Nov. 7 meeting.

New projects discussed included formation of a threater group, children's puppet theatre and an art club.

Also planned is the development of a city policy for naming public property such as streets, parks and buildings.

Charles Roberts, representing Las Casitas mobile home park residents, was asked to have his group consider building a kiosk for the shopping center mall. Members felt a kiosk would eliminate signs and posters cluttering store windows.

THE POLITICAL SCENE

Heckling Chico State Collegians Force Reagan To Lose His 'Cool'

CHICO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, the target of profane language by black militant critics lately, used a little himself in a bristling reply to heckling from white college students.

The governor arrived in Chico yesterday afternoon to a greeting by about 700 persons at the municipal airport. Among them were more than 100 students from Chico State College, and they carried signs supporting Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and his current appearances on college campuses, which Reagan opposes.

One sign urged "Cleaver for governor in 1970," and another —bringing in Republican U.S. Senate candidate Max Rafferty —contended "Reagan and Rafferty equal racism."

Reagan said there are rules established to run the state university and colleges, and "those of you who are unwilling to teach or unwilling to learn within our education framework can damn well get your education somewhere else."

He quickly apologized for using profanity, but explained he wanted to get the discussion "down to a cultural level some people can understand."

The governor related the incident later to an overflow crowd attending a Republican fund-raising dinner and admitted, "we should all keep our cool and maybe I didn't."

Reagan visited Chico as part of a four-day campaign tour on behalf of Republican candidates for Congress and the state Legislature.

He was to go to Fresno and Bakersfield today and Los Angeles Saturday.

He was the target of much stronger — and far more frequent — four-letter words at about the same time when Cleaver spoke on the University of California Berkeley campus. Cleaver led students in chanting a four - letter insult directed at the governor by name.

In Lakeport, earlier in his day's campaigning Reagan told about 3,000 persons at a barbecue that: "We, the people who built these universities, should set down the rules for education, and if they (students) don't want to abide by the rules, they can go some place else."

HUMPHREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says his campaign "turned the corner" during a 15-day push that carried him through wide sectors of the country.

Rallies in Portland and Seattle, Ore., were disrupted by hecklers. He admits Republican Richard M. Nixon is out in front.

Yet Humphrey and his staff were buoyed by the size and enthusiasm of crowds that turned out in San Francisco and Charlotte, N.C. Presidential lieutenants George Ball and Douglass Cater joined the vice president's entourage. The nation's largest union—the Teamsters—gave him formal endorsement.

Democratic polls claimed he's ahead at least in eight states holding 136 of the 270 electoral votes needed for election. And in the wake of his Salt Lake City, Utah, speech advocating a qualified bombing halt, Democratic senators rose in debate to defend Humphrey at nearly the same time 10 House Democrats who had backed war critic Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy announced they now support the vice president.

Humphrey made his "turning the corner" assessment yesterday during a wet motorcade through West Virginia, where John F. Kennedy's primary victory ended Humphrey's run for the presidential nomination in 1960.

NIXON

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has declared, for all the South to hear, that Alabama's George C. Wallace is not fit to be president of the United States.

But the Republican nominee for the White House acknowledged that the third party candidate could in the end prove to be his major rival in the Nov. 5 election.

Nixon chose a campaign television appearance broadcast across a dozen Southern states last night to level his most direct assault against Wallace.

Nixon also said for the first time that he would be willing to meet Wallace in two-man, televised campaign debate. But he later added that is not going to Nixon was to campaign today in Greenville and Spartanburg, S. C.

WALLACE

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A new and widely known running mate at his side, behind him a fatiguing, five-state courtship of the industrial Midwest labor vote, George C. Wallace relaxed his presidential campaign today apparently satisfied with the response to both.

Retired Gen. Curtis E. LaMay listened stoically to prolonged applause in two cities yesterday as Wallace introduced him as the vice presidential candidate of the American Independent Party.

Wallace said he was "pleased and gratified" at the receptions given LeMay.

In both Indianapolis and Toledo, telegrams from around the country greeted Wallace, complimenting him on his choice of LeMay.

Many of the messages strengthened the belief among Wallace strategists that LeMay would add stature and legitimacy to Wallace's third party race for the presidency.

MUSKIE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie again has invited hecklers to share his platform and extended the offer to future campaign appearances.

"If time allows, and under ground rules acceptable to both, I'd give anybody time to speak," the Democratic candidate for vice president said yesterday at Boulder, Colo.

There were no acceptances from the crowd estimated by police at 3,000 to 4,000, although some shouted, "End the war!" as Muskie spoke and then answered questions. One heckler did speak from Muskie's platform last week at Washington, Pa.

Muskie was to campaign today in Watts, Los Angeles' predominantly Negro district, and at a rally of students at the University of Southern California before moving to San Diego.

AGNEW

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew interrupted his speech last night to agree with hecklers who were chanting, "We need peace!" But, he said, peace comes from the work of those making sacrifices for it.

The audience applauded.

His talk at a suburban Portland high school was on the theme of providing a better urban environment for the people, standardizing welfare payments to check the flow of rural poor to the cities, and building well-planned satellite communities for "a decent, exciting existence" that would take some of the excess population from cities.

NOFZIGER

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The sudden departure of Lyn Nofziger, Gov. Ronald Reagan's top assistant, to the U.S. Senate race of Republican Max Rafferty appears to mean that Reagan and other top GOP leaders are moving to beef up Rafferty' campaign.

It was no secret in Sacramento that Nofziger's announced plans of leaving the administration at an unspecified time did not include joining anybody's political organization.

Nofziger, who was a Washington correspondent for Copley newspapers before he joined Reagan as press secretary in the 1966 gubernatorial campaign, had said last week he intended to get back into newspapering.

MURPHY

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The United States should pull out of the Paris peace talks with North Vietnam because "we are being used to create propaganda for the enemy," according to Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

He told a $100-a-plate Republican dinner last night there is little hope of a settlement in Paris and "if we had any sense" we would call it off.

Welfare Panel Backs Boost In Payments

A Marin County welfare study committee has resolved to seek state legislation to bring Aid to Families with Dependent Children in line with the cost of living.

The group, a task force established by Marin supervisors, also agreed at Wednesday's meeting that county supplemental aid to AFDC recipients should be continued, according to Frances Miller of the department of public social services.

Mrs. Winifred Frederick of Lagunitas, a member of the task force, said she proposed a successful motion encouraging award of extra aid to heads of households in AFDC families who take work training and obtain jobs. Continuance of the aid would depend on satisfactory grades and good attendance at classes and good work habits once on the job.

The 30-member task force was created last summer to study the AFDC program to find ways of helping AFDC mothers become self-supporting and to present a report to the supervisors Dec. 1.

The group also discussed child care facilities and Mrs. Miller noted that there are currently 126 licensed foster day care homes with a capacity for 578 children.

However, Mrs. Miller said, there is a serious shortage in Sausalito, Marin City and West Marin and of homes that will take children under two years.

Joseph H. Denhart, director of the Marin County Children's Center and Pre-School Program, outlined an application for a third day care center to serve central Marin.

Mrs. Miller said there are several problems that would have to be worked out. The chief concern is transportation—in Fairfax, San Anselmo and San Rafael, the areas to be served.

The next meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. Oct. 16 at the Civic Center, will focus on employment opportunities and needs with emphasis on training and education to help mothers "out of the welfare trap," she said.

Civic Luncheon Set

Mill Valley city councilmen and chamber of commerce directors will discuss matters of mutual interest at a public luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Palate restaurant in Mill Valley.

Drath Gets Endorsement By McCarthy

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy today endorsed Phillip Drath of San Rafael, Democratic nominee in the Sixth Congressional District.

The Minnesota senator, in a letter addressed to the voters of the district, said Drath "has consistently shared our concern for proper allocation of priorities in our national life — an immediate end to the war in Vietnam, the elimination of racism and poverty in America, and the determination to solve the urban crisis."

McCarthy, according to the press release from Drath for Congress headquarters in San Rafael, said "the nation, the Congress of the United States and the Democratic Party need men of deep moral commitment to these issues. Philip Drath is such a man," declared McCarthy.

Drath is a long-time supporter of McCarthy, and was a member of the McCarthy slate of delegates in the June primary.

The Sixth District includes most of Marin and western San Francisco.

TIBURON

DEAR ?

YES ?

WOULD YOU MIND IF I CALL THE REAL ESTATE PEOPLE TO FIND OUT ABOUT A HOUSE?

YOU BET YOUR SWEET LIFE I WOULD! YOU'LL HAVE A PACK OF HUNGRY . . .

BUT DEAR, ALL I WANT TO DO IS ASK WHY THEY'RE SO CHEAP COMPARED TO . . .

OK, BUT IT SEEMS LIKE TIBURON IS ALWAYS SO HIGH BUT HERE'S A CLAIM THAT WE CAN BUILD A 4 BEDRM., 2 STORY COLONIAL ON ⅔ ACRE FOR . . .

LOOK HONEY, IT'S A TRICK. EITHER IT'S A CLIFF-HANGER WHERE YOU LOSE YOUR LAUNDRY TO THE NEIGHBORS BELOW OR IT'S EAST OF THE NET DEPOT.

DEAR, IT SAYS IT'S LEVEL, ON A CORNER AND BEFORE YOU GET TO THE OLD TRESTLE FOR $55,000 AND BUILT BY . . .

FLY BY NIGHT BUILDERS, I'LL BET . . .

JOHNNY RIBEIRO, DEAR.

WELL LOOK, CALL IF YOU WANT — BUT DON'T BLAME ME WHEN IT'S NEXT TO THE SEWER PLANT. AND YOU'LL HAVE A SALESMAN ON YOUR NECK FOR 3 MONTHS, YOU'LL SEE!

Dear Mrs. Housewife: This will be started next week at the corner of Paseo Mirasol and Via San Fernando. The new streets off Blackfield Drive. The sewer plant is miles away. It's a beautiful site. Go see it.

And so far as bothering you if you call us, your husband's wrong on that. We would love to talk to you (and to him) if you wish, but at your request.

The fact of the matter is that sales in Tiburon Hills are coming faster than we expected — no time for "hounding."

We have maps and plans in all our offices. Prices range from $49,000 to over $100,000. So far, most orders are between $55,000 and $60,000.

Frank Howard Allen owns the land. This is our 58th year in business here and we've alway been fair and honest. After all, we're trying to get established in Marin County.

LOTS OF GOODIES

It isn't often used car buyers are offered such an array of good cars. And, it's particularly appealing, 'cause not one carries a premium price. Lou Concilio's Marin Dodge is after momentum, and there's no better way to start it than with bargains like these.

'65 Dart $995

Every car maker envies Dodge its popular Dart, and people will envy you if you're sharp enough to grab this economy-plus 4-door 6. Gas easy 3-speed transmission, radio and heater, trained very carefully for you for only 35,000 miles. #9062

'67 Plymouth $2295

'65 Corsa $1095

Chevy's proud of this Corvair Convertible, and you will be, too. Mauve, 4-speed, bucket seats, radio and heater, will make you a real sport on a budget. #1523A

A few more goodies – a lot more not listed here.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Behavior can be traced to personality characteristics. Adults with personality disorders usually act in ways that were appropriate in childhood. The majority are egocentric as are children; they are incapable of concern for others. Altering this basic personality pattern is just as difficult as changing stature or physique.

Dr. William B. McGrath of Phoenix, Ariz., believes that such individuals simply have not learned or been taught to conduct themselves as adults. Those with an inadequate personality behave like children who have not learned to accept responsibility.

THEY WASTE energy on trivial matters, lolligag in the morning and are always late for appointments. They invite stressful situations, then become ineffectual and go to pieces.

The paranoid is like an overly sensitive child who so resents censure that he lies to avoid it. Their accomplishments may be ordinary but they cannot bear to be assessed as ordinary.

THEY ALWAYS blame someone else and therefore become very dishonest. The emotionally unstable overreact to everything and cannot take "no" for an answer. They must have what they want, right now. Any frustration leads to door slamming, temper tantrums, or wailing. The rest of us are tolerated so long as we comply with their demands.

The passive-aggressive is the type that most of us would hate to encounter in a labor dispute. He is ready to do anything for you that he wants to do and he expects you, too, to be willing to do anything that he wants. Rather than correct their gripes, they talk about them. They act like martyrs but always get revenge.

THE SOCIOPATHIC type includes criminals engaged in endless contest with authorities. They defy the rules of society unless the long arm of the law is nearby. They gloat over their triumphs and feel no remorse for their transgressions unless, of course, they get caught in the act.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

ATHLETE'S FOOT

R. E. writes: How can an oldster have athlete's foot when he is not athletic?

REPLY

Ringworm of the foot occurs at all ages, although younger persons are most susceptible. Being an athlete is not a prerequisite. It was given this name because at one time the condition was associated with shower rooms. In oldsters, poor circulation affects the skin, making it more prone to infection.

Extreme care must be used in treating the eruption because strong medications burn the affected tissues.

TEARFUL OVER NOTHING

A reader writes: I burst into tears upon the slightest provocation. This is causing much unhappiness in my home and social life. Would a tranquilizer help?

REPLY

Yes. Meanwhile, stop feeling sorry for yourself and practice self-discipline. A change in attitude will bring more permanent results.

WETS BED AT 79

A reader writes: A 79-year-old man wets the bed every night. How does a person manage such a habit?

REPLY

Take this man to your family physician, who will determine whether there is something wrong with his plumbing or his mind.

RUNNING CYST

D. N. writes: Does a running cyst at the end of the spine indicate cancer?

REPLY

No, as pilonidal cysts never become malignant. Surgery will rid you of the lesion once and for all.

EGG YOLK

E. E. writes: Is it true that coronary disease can be due to eating too many egg yolks?

REPLY

This concept is partly true in that 80 per cent of victims of heart attacks have more than the normal amount of cholesterol in the blood. cholesterol is a fatty molecule that is present in many foods, including egg yolk.

Enchanted Knolls Board Test Asked

Dissident directors Wednesday called for the election of a new governing board for the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association, Dr. Willard H. Pennell, board president reported.

Directors G. C. Bennett and Fred W. Heide, in a written request submitted to the board, asked that a special general meeting of the association membership be set for Nov. 6 to remove the present board and elect new directors.

Bennett said today the move came after the majority of the board refused to change its stand approving a higher density for the 73 undeveloped acres in Enchanted Knolls.

Developers Eugene Harder and Warner R. Odenthal have requested a change in the density from five to eight dwelling units per acre. The matter will come before the Mill Valley City Council Monday night for a vote.

Bennett said that in three separate votes the majority of Enchanted Knolls residents indicated opposition to a higher overall density for the ridge lands.

The most recent vote is still being tabulated, Pennell said, but preliminary returns are running four to one in opposition to the higher density.

Bennett said that Pennell and the other directors last night refused to change their stand even after seeing the preliminary tabulation.

Pennell has told the city council and planning commission that the board favors the higher density by a 3-1 vote with Bennett as the only dissenter.

28-Campus State College University System Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A private consulting firm suggests that the University of California and the state colleges be merged into a 28-campus system.

The Academy for Educational Development prepared the report, which was made public yesterday, for presentation Monday to the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

Councilmen, who have advisory powers to both the university and colleges, hired the firm while seeking means of reducing the competition for state money and prestige.

As an alternative, the academy suggests keeping the university and the colleges separate under the council but giving the council statutory power to carry out its recommendations.

Under its favored plan, the academy recommends combining the university's regents and the colleges' trustees into one board which would have eight ex-officio and nonvoting members, including the governor and the state superintendent of public instruction.

Richardson Bay Plans On Agenda

Development plans for Richardson Bay will be discussed at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Mill Valley Library meeting room.

Speakers will include Joseph Bodovitz, executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, Paul C. Zucker, Marin County planning director, and Harvey Bragdon, Mill Valley planning director.

Clifford Hanssen, chairman of the meeting for the sponsoring organization, the Mill Valley Unit of the Marin Conservation League, said the meeting is designed to help clarify bay plans so citizens can speak for or against them.

Items such as houseboats, dry docks, the BCDC plan, a Mill Valley marina and others will be discussed.

Flea Mart Limited; No Commercial Sales

The flea market sponsored by Co-op of Marin from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 71 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera, will be limited to sales by individuals or non-profit charitable groups.

Merchants and others dealing commercially in personal and household items, contrary to previous announcement, will not be permitted to exhibit, the sponsors said yesterday.

State's Realty Dealers Elect

D. Ray Grable, San Diego, was named honorary president of the CREA, which represents 46,000 real estate dealers in the state.

The convention passed a resolution condemning the attempt by labor groups to boycott California table grapes. It urged state and federal officials "to correct the coercive action of the boycott."

Reports Theft

Hollis Tissier of 418 Upham Street, Petaluma, reported a record player valued at $30 was stolen from his home around 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Policeman In Shooting Suspended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police Chief Thomas Cahill has suspended a patrolman who shot a Negro truck driver to death during an off-duty melee in an alley near the Hall of Justice.

The suspension of officer Michael O'Brien, 27, was announced yesterday by Cahill. He also said information would be "gladly furnished" to the FBI for its investigation of the matter.

The Justice Department, in its first probe of the San Francisco Police Department, said it asked for an inquiry into the fatal shooting of George Baskett, 28, to find out if his civil rights had been violated.

Baskett was shot by O'Brien Sunday night in a dispute that started when a car scraped a trailer which O'Brien and another off-duty officer were putting in a garage.

The police tactical squad was rushed into the area when authorities said about 60 persons became involved in the row and shots were fired by both police and residents of the largely Negro area.

Earlier this week, attorney Marvin Lewis said he would file claims against the city totaling $4 million in connection with the incident. He claimed O'Brien had "a past history as a racist" and shot Baskett in cold blood.

Chief Cahill said yesterday his investigation of the shooting was still open, and he has not ruled out the possibility that O'Brien might face a criminal charge.

Court Delays In Call For Girl's Testimony

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Susan Bartolomei, crippled and voiceless as the result of a brutal beating more than a year ago, has become the focal point in the murder trial of two Washington state youths.

The question centered on whether the 18-year-old Ukiah girl should testify before the jury trying the youths accused of slaying her boy friend, Timothy Luce.

Miss Bartolomei is partially paralyzed and can communicate only by nodding her head and giving painfully slow hand signals after being raped and repeatedly shot and left for dead beside a mountain road near Ukiah Aug. 23, 1967.

Superior Judge Joseph Kelly yesterday postponed the latest arguments on the matter of her testimony until Monday in order to give attorneys on both sides more time to prepare.

Prosecutor Arthur Broaddus, who wants the jury to go to Ukiah, to take the girl's testimony, asked for the delay, saying the matter was "a very serious legal problem."

Merle Orchard, who is representing Thomas Braun, 19, one of the defendants, asked the judge to have Miss Bartolomei's testimony taken by deposition and read in court.

Braun and Leonard E. Maine, also 19, are on trial for killing Luce and attacking Miss Bartolomei. Both defendants are from Ritzville, Wash.

The trial was moved to San Jose after the state Supreme Court ruled the accused could not get a fair trial at Ukiah.

Camera Stolen

Tools valued at $30 and cameras valued at $600 were taken from his station wagon while it was parked at 300 Sunset Parkway, Novato, sometime between 6 p.m. and midnight, Tuesday, Virgil F. Machado reported yesterday to Novato police.

Pope Sets New World Peace Day

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican announced today Pope Paul VI will ask all men of good will to join with Roman Catholics to observe a world day of peace Jan. 1.

It will be the second such day of special prayers and reflections promoted by the pontiff. The first was last Jan. 1.

Vittorino Veronese, president of the peace committee of the Pontifical Committee on Peace and Justice, told a news conference Pope Paul was asking for more than prayers this time.

Prep Grid Rivalry

There are probably better ways to start a season, but offhand, a genuine rivalry is not too bad.

That's what Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools have, just by sheer proximity. And that's what it's going to be tonight at San Rafael when a pack of Trojans and Bulldogs and assorted pom-pon girls pile into the stadium for the 1968 Marin County Athletic League football opener at 8 o'clock.

"They'll be higher than a kite," says Terra Linda coach Don Lucas of the San Rafael Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs have been executed twice by Terra Linda in the past two years, and in that time span, have not managed to find their way into the end zone against the traditionally tough Terra Linda defenses.

Muster figures things might change.

"We have a little more to throw at them," Muster said. "I think we can score on them."

The Bulldogs will be running two quarterbacks (Jay Widmer, a junior, and Bruce Nave, a sophomore) at the Trojans. Widmer is a rollout specialist while Nave can, and will, throw long.

The Trojans have the same kind of quarterback situation — short-throwing, play-smart Jerry Goodrick and long-throwing, talented sophomore Tom Jackson, plus two first rate runners in Dan McInnis and Steve McClain.

The Bulldogs dipped from a free-wheeling 33-25 victory over Marin Catholic to a 19-13 setback to Montgomery last week.

"I think we may have been looking ahead a little," Muster said. "But that's not making ex-

Novato To Host Tamalpais

They should bring adding machines to the Novato-Tamalpais Marin County Athletic League football clash at Novato High tomorrow afternoon.

The 2 o'clock game brings together the only remaining unbeaten and untied teams in the league, sporting the top two quarterbacks and the two most explosive offenses in the league. They could stomp the end zone into a desert because of overuse.

But it may not be that way because Novato also has the best defense, to date, going for them.

Still, the situation has potential fireworks going for it. One need only look back two seasons when Novato lost, 45-28, in a game that amassed upwards of more than 1,200 yards in total offense by both teams.

That was the game Don Mackin missed and his understudy threw for over 500 yards. Mackin is not going to miss this one but neither is Russ Dillon.

Mackin, a Tamalpais three-year veteran who passed for 1,200 yards last year, is bigger and better, if that's possible. He will run with the ball, and at 6-2, 190, he's difficult to bring down. His receivers are all fast, beginning with halfback Luther Brown, a 9.9 dashman who is the top receiver in the league and is averaging 17 yards per carry in the running department.

"We'll score," Tamalpais coach Willie Hector said. "If they concentrate on Donnie, Luther will get away. If they concentrate on Luther, Donnie will hit on a long one."

"It's going to be a tough ball game," Novato coach Al Scott said. "They have tremendous speed, and a really fine quarterback. But we've got to win that first one. And we have the defense. I think that will make the difference."

The defense has given up 70 yards per game in 33-6 and 45-6 wins over Montgomery and Petaluma, respectively.

"As far as Brown is concerned," Scott said. "Well, I guess we'll pray a lot."

Scott does feel that the Hornets are more balanced, something they haven't been the past two years. In his first year, it was all offense. Last year, great defense, no punch. This

Raiders Boosters Club Right Here In Marin

TIMELY TOPIC:

That Shaun Wiltshire is quite a wheeler-dealer.

Intent on importing a bit of his native merry old England to Wiltshire Towers in San Rafael, big Shaun first bought one of those double-decker London buses to transport Towers patrons to various functions like sporting events, indoors or outdoors.

Then he had a brainstorm to buy the London Bridge and reconstruct it in his backyard, but was stymied when a Southern California firm beat him to the punch and purchased the famed span to be used as a tourist attraction.

Undaunted, Wiltshire then came up with another gray matter tornado. "Why, I'll get Big Ben," he told awed friends. And, true to his word, Wiltshire brought Big Ben to his Towers Tuesday night.

This Ben Wears Mustache

Hmmm? Oh, no, this Big Ben doesn't go tick tock. I don't even know if he can tell time. Besides, the Queen wouldn't part with England's answer to Timex.

This Big Ben wears a handlebar mustache, stands 6 feet 8 inches, weighs 280 pounds and plays defensive end for the Oakland Raiders. Yes, Big Ben Davidson was special guest of Wiltshire Tuesday for the organization and election of officers of the Marin County Oakland Raiders Boosters Club.

As Big Ben was speaker of the evening, Wiltshire merely wound him up and he made an inspiring tock. He got a nice hand — big and little.

Wiltshire, incidentally, was elected president of the Boosters Club simply because he owns the joint and is bigger than any of the members. Gordon Tovani was elected president of vice — I mean vice president — while Harry Del Grande was named treasurer and Myrl Montsinger secretary.

Tallest Member Of Them All

Among the new members was San Rafael city councilman Bud Baar, a skyscraper and the only one present who could look Davidson in the eye without aid of stilts.

THE MARCH OF TIME——

Boy, am I getting old. Where's the rockin' chair? Get me a membership card to the Senior Citizens. And don't forget my Medicare credentials.

Thumbing through some yellowed clippings the other day I came across the story of a football game I had covered between San Rafael and El Cerrito high schools in 1947. Prominently mentioned in the yarn were San Rafael players named McGrath and Nave.

Just Like Their Dads

And now, 21 autumns later, I see where San Rafael High still has a couple of bright lights named McGrath (Tommy), and Nave (Bruce). Um-hmm, they are the young 'uns of the 1947 vintage Tom McGrath and Rich Nave.

I'm looking forward to the next generation when Tom McGrath III and Bruce Nave Jr. probably will star at San Rafael. They'll have to wheel me out to those games.

SMOG NOTE: Tom McHugh, former head pro at the San Geronimo National golf club now running the golfing show at the Pomona National course in Walnut, returned to Marin on a brief business trip yesterday and was telling friends about the eye-stinging atmospheric conditions in southern Cal.

But The View Is Hidden

"We have a beautiful view of Mt. Baldie," he said, "and can see it about once or twice a year. Some of our members don't even know there's a mountain down there."

The Pomona club is about seven miles south of West Covina on the Pomona Freeway. McHugh returned south today to begin preparations for the annual Comedians' Classic Tournament next month at Pomona National that will feature the likes of Bob Hope, Rowan and Martin, Don Adams, Joey Bishop, Buddy Hackett, Bob Newhart, Don Rickles, etc. (Oops, there I go name-dropping again.)

Oiler Pete Beathard Undergoes Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Quarterback Pete Beathard of Houston Oilers underwent surgery last night for acute gangrenous appendicitis and will be out of action for five weeks.

An Oiler spokesman said Beathard had been bothered off and on since the exhibition season with stomach pains.

Murphy In Narrow Golf Lead

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Bob Murphy, 25-year-old slugger from Nichols, Fla., shot a one-under-par 35 on the first nine of Royal Birkdale today and eased into a one-shot lead after 45 holes of the $200,000 Alcan Golf Tournament.

Murphy's co-leader at 141 after 36 holes, Bobby Cole of South Africa, posted a 37 and slipped two shots off the pace.

EIGHT UNDER

For the distance, Murphy was eight shots under Birkdale's par 74.

Bert Yancey of Tallahasee, Fla., took advantage with a six-under-par 68, a record for the specially enlarged layout. This put him at 220 for 54 holes, two under par.

U.S. Gals Tie Aussies For Lead

MELBOURNE (AP) — The United States, Australia and France were locked in a tight struggle for the Espirito Santo Trophy today after the third round of the women's World Amateur Team Golf Championships.

The United States, defending the trophy it won in Mexico two years ago, moved into a tie with Australia with an aggregate 463, with France just one stroke behind.

None of the other 14 competing countries appears to have any chance of catching the leaders in the final round at the Victoria Club, par 73, course tomorrow.

Three players hit off for each country and the two best scores count.

U.S. star Anne Quast Welts of Mt. Vernon, Wash., thrilled several thousand spectators with the best nine-hole round so far —a two-under-par 35 for the back nine, which enabled her team to catch Australia.

"I was ready to crawl into a hole when I took four over par 40 on the way out," she said. "Then putts started to drop and I had only 14 putts on the second nine."

She did have one bogey in that second nine, when she hit three woods against the wind to the 530-yard 17th.

Both her teammates, Shelley Hamlin of Fresno, and Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, had 76s.

Miss Hamlin looked set for a better round when she went out in par 36 but three-putted two greens on the way home. "I just could not get a putt into the hole," she said.

Catherine Lacoste of France looked like she would have another bad round, as she did yesterday, when she went out in 39. Then she changed her woolly beanie cap with the red pom-pon for a red sun visor and she started to score.

She came home in one-under-par 36 and at the 445-yard 18th put her second wood on the edge of the green and just missed her putt for an eagle.

There was only slight rain today and a light wind, but the best scores were only 75s by Mrs. Welts, Miss Lacoste and Marea Hickey of Australia.

Miss Lacoste and Miss Hickey remained tied as individual score leaders.

GAMES WILL GO ON

Mexico City's Olympiad Like Tale Of Two Cities

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The 19th Olympiad is like a tale of two cities, one of friendly athletic youth of the world and the other of riot-blooded Mexican college students.

And yesterday an amazing 81-year-old man, President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee, apparently prevented the first cancellation of the Games because of a youth rebellion.

NINE DAYS

With the start of the Olympics only nine days off, Brundage took the word of reassuring Mexican authorities and proclaimed the Games would start as scheduled despite the most recent bloody gun battle between military and militant students Wednesday night.

Brundage, who next week may be elected to serve four more years in the IOC presidency he has held since 1952, ostensibly scored another in a long series of difficult administrative victories in squashing rampant rumors the Mexico Games would be called off.

After leading an IOC Executive Committee conference with Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, chairman of the Mexican Organizing Committee, Brundage issued a brief but straight-forward statement for which several hundred members of the world press clamored for hours yesterday.

'AS SCHEDULED'

"The Games of the 19th Olympiad, a friendly gathering of the youth of the world in amicable competition, will proceed as scheduled," said Brundage's statement issued in English, French and Spanish.

"We have conferred with the Mexican authorities and we have been assured that nothing will interfere with the peaceful entrance of the Olympic flame into the stadium on Oct. 12, nor with the competitions which follow."

Asked what measures could prevent still a third major outbreak of bloody violence in the drawn-out, bitter student strike, Brundage said:

"We must rely on the prevailing of proper authority against disorder, or we no longer have authority," said Brundage, still alert dispite a minimum of sleep since his arrival here Sunday.

'WHO CAN SAY?'

"Who can say what are proper safeguards against violence when despite all possible precaution we had the tragic assassination of President Kennedy, to name one violent instance of our troubled times."

Brundage, in giving a green light to the Games which will draw a record 7,000 athletes from more than 200 nations, also scored a behind-the-scenes triumph.

Earlier yesterday, Brundage was confronted with an ultimatum from Guilio Onesti, president of the Italian Olympic Committee and head of a newly formed assembly of national Olympic committees.

Onesti demanded that Brundage apply for formal assurance from Mexican officials that the Games could be conducted without incident, or that he (Onesti) would have the national Olympic committees make such a request.

HIS RIGHT

"Mr. Onesti has the right to do any thing he pleases," said Brundage, adding: "The IOC will do what it regards necessary for the best interest and welfare of the Olympic movement."

Onesti and Count Jean de Beaumont, 63, millionaire banker who is president of the French Olympic Committee, are regarded possible presidential rivals to Brundage in next week's balloting for the office in the full IOC meeting.

It's Day Of Rest In World Series

DETROIT (AP) — A sandy-haired youngster, no more than 10 and waving a piece of paper, dashed up to a weary sheriff's deputy at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport last night and screamed, "I got Bill Freehan's autograph."

The lad was one of thousands who got around protective police barricades just after a jet carrying the Detroit Tigers landed.

PUSHING THRONG

"Once they're in, you'll never get them out," said the deputy of the screaming, pushing throng pressed against the plane's exit ramp as the 131 people in the Tiger party tried to disembark.

One of the first Tigers to exit was Willie Horton, whose second-inning solo homer hours earlier sent the Tigers on the way to a Series evening 8-1 victory.

"We just felt good," Horton told newsmen in the forefront of the crush. "We knew we had to go out there and do it and we did it."

Earl Wilson, who starts the third game for the Tigers tomorrow was close behind Horton.

"What do you think of those Cardinals?" someone asked.

'FEROCIOUS'

"Ferocious," said Wilson before he was nearly swept away by the crowd.

When yesterday's winner Mickey Lolich, Manager Mayo Smith and Denny McLain appeared on the ramp in quick succession, it was bedlam around the plane as the fans flashed the victory sign en masse and began chanting "Go-Go Tigers" in unison.

Tiger players fought their way to buses waiting to whisk them downtown and still the fans pressed with their signs and Tiger pennants.

Two youths blocked the lead bus to make sure the players would see their lettered offering: Tigers, Slip 'Em Two Mickeys—Lolich and Stanley.

PREP BAND

Meanwhile, over by the fence which had long since given way before the enthusiastic fans, the 80-member Cooley High School band in deep red uniforms made its musical contribution to the festivities.

The big bass drum depicted a big red cardinal-ironically the school's nickname.

The appearance of that particular band was provoked by a story the day before in a Detroit paper which observed the Tigers' first game performance was in general "like the Cooley High Marching Band."

"As long as the Tigers have been placed in our category," said band director Richard Yorke, "we'd like to show them that we're good, too."

KIDS' IDEA

"It was all the kids' idea," said Yorke. "When they saw that story, they practiced all afternoon before coming out here." He added that a call to the offending newspaper resulted in a free bus ride to the airport.

About half an hour after the Tigers landed, the St. Louis Cardinals arrived at another hanger, apparently unknown to the Tiger fans.

St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst was among the first off the plane in the Cardinal delegation and when asked what he thought of the Detroit club, replied with a smile: "They're Tigers."

REAFFIRMS

Schoendienst reaffirmed an earlier prediction that the Series would go "six or seven games, depending on the pitching on one side or the other. It's pitching that's going to decide it."

Opening game winner Bob Gibson, wearing a kelly-green Nehru jacket and a gold medallion from a chain around his neck, commenting on McLain's performance said simply, "He just looked like a pitcher who got beat."

The Real Reason Why Raiders Dumped Clem

OAKLAND — Hate to annoy you with another piece of sporting gossip, but on the chance you're interested in why the Oakland Raiders calmly surrendered Clem Daniels to the San Francisco 49ers I'll pass along the poop.

Much has been made of the fact that the all-time American Football League rushing champion had a bad ankle and, at 31, was too old and with guys — young fellows — like Larry Todd, Pete Banaszak and Charlie Smith in the backfield was highly expendable.

DON'T BELIEVE these trifling alibis. None is true. All are cover stories for the practical reason the Raiders disposed of their marvelous halfback, the town's favorite ever since the Raiders moved from drawing flies to selling tickets over here.

The answer, folks, is the answer to everything that happens in the professional sports world these days: Bread.

I'M PLUMB astounded that the big city sporting press fellers overlooked the cause of Al Davis waving bye-bye to Clem Daniels. Not that some of them don't know it, particularly the metropolitan journalists who toil in this town. But the Oakland scribes, you see, are more dedicated to waving pom pons for brother Davis and his champions then reporting grisly, materialistic facts.

Only a few days before Clem was "retired" by the Raiders, we were confronted with glowing news stories raving about a new contract for the great quarterback and prince of men, Daryle Lamonica.

THIS NEW contract meant many dollars for the AFL's top-rated signal caller. Many more dollars than rested in the Raiders' player personnel budget.

This overage had to be made up, as any good bookkeeper can tell you.

And it was made up out of whole halfback cloth by cutting Clem Daniels and his rather large stipend.

INTERESTINGLY, Davis had balked a year earlier about picking up Lamonica from Buffalo. He'd been talked into that deal by coach John Rauch and then general manager Scotty Stirling, a fine fellow who later paid the penalty of coming up with a bright idea and found his job usurped by good old managing general partner Davis.

So here was Big Al stuck with a genius quarterback he didn't want in the first place and forced to ditch a favorite halfback. There was no choice, really, because Lamonica gave Oakland a title.

NOW WHAT was Davis to do? He couldn't peddle Clem to anybody else in the AFL and have the back return to haunt Oakland and stir fan wrath. What he could do was ask Clem to retire and offer the guy a few bucks to do public relations chores in the community. Which is what I'm told Davis did — and which is what Clem turned down.

Davis' next step was to suggest to other AFL teams that they not pick up Clem on waivers — or he'd pull Daniels off the waiver list. Which is what the other clubs did, being that they might want a favor from Al someday.

SO HERE came the Niners and three other NFL clubs bidding for Daniels' services. Clem has a liquor store here, wanted to stay in the Bay Area, chose San Francisco.

He won't lead the Niners to a title but, after the system's learned, will perform admirably. You can't blame a man for wanting to continue at a game in which he's always excelled. Public relations is for guys who can't gain yardage between tackles.

49ers Trying To Toughen Up Defense

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Francisco's 49ers, who got their offense in gear as they trimmed Atlanta, are giving thought to the defense for their next game, against the Los Angeles Rams.

Line Coach Paul Wiggin thinks the biggest problem his 49ers will face Sunday at Los Angeles will be 6-foot-4, 225-pound quarterback Roman Gabriel.

"Tackling him is just like tackling a tree — a redwood tree," the coach said. "It just doesn't come down."

The 49ers dumped Atlanta 28-13 as quarterback John Brodie displayed his passing talents, completing 17 of 20 thrown for 191 yards.

But he will be up against a more stingy defense when he meets the Rams, who held the Cleveland Browns to a total of 129 yards and won by 24-6 last Sunday.

Los Angeles has a 3-0 record in the National Football League and San Francisco is 2-1.

year, the two seem to have come together.

Dillon, in his second year at quarterback, is a smooth passer who throws little but effectively. He hit a marvelous five for six against Petaluma, scored a touchdown and threw for two more. The Hornets also have Pat Greene, top scorer in the loop with 30 points on four touchdown and six extra points.

"I don't see any problem with our offense," Hector said. "We just have to keep them from scoring."

Which, after all, is the name of the game.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Rockets whipped Seattle 113-101 and San Francisco handed previously unbeaten Los Angeles a 106-103 setback last night in a National Basketball Association exhibition doubleheader.

Rookie Elvin Hayes scored 17 points and John Block poured in 22 in San Diego's victory over the SuperSonics. The losers were led by Bob Rule with 22.

The Lakers built up a 13-point lead midway through the final period before taking out Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain. Chamberlain led all scorers with 25 points.

Tougher Task Ahead For Stanford Indians

STANFORD (AP) — Penetrating a rugged defense and stopping a record-setting field goal kicker will be Stanford's task tomorrow when it puts its 2-0 record on the line against the Air Force Academy in Stanford Stadium at 1:30.

Stanford Coach John Ralston sent assistant Dutch Fehring to scout the Falcons last week when they beat Wyoming 10-3. Ralston commented: "Dutch said it was the best Air Force team he's ever seen."

After losing a heart-breaker to nationally ranked Florida 23-20 in its first game, the Falcons from Colorado stopped Wyoming, last year's Sugar Bowl team, without a touchdown for the first time in 27 games.

Junior Dennis Leuthauser kicked a 57-yard field goal which, according to the men who tend the record books, is the longest ever made in modern college football.

The Indians, with amazing sophomore quarterback Jim Plunkett, will be out to extend their unbeaten string to three straight going into next week's important Pacific-8 Conference game with powerful Southern California.

Plunkett is ranked fourth in total offense among major-college football players, accounting for 519 yards in two games, 504 of them passing.

Rough-Tough Cal To Host San Jose

BERKELEY (AP)—San Jose State's injured Spartans, who gave up 68 points to the offense-minded Stanford Indians, move into Memorial Stadium tomorrow to play the defense-minded California Bears. Kickoff is at 1:30.

The Bears, who gave up just seven points in beating Michigan and Colorado, will be working against a Spartan club that lost its No. 1 ground gainer, Walt Shockley, to a knee operation.

Cal Coach Ray Willsey has been spending considerable time trying to get his team in the proper frame of mind to resist any upset ideas the Spartans may entertain.

Lucas sees the Bulldogs as a young team with potential, and the last part worries him somewhat.

"I think once they jell, they'll be a fine team," he said. "I just hope they don't jell against us."

The Trojans have looked like the same hard-hitting, powerful Trojans of the co-champion years for the past two seasons. They ripped Santa Rosa, 33-0, then came back twice to tie a strong South San Francisco team, 21-21, getting the deadlock in the final minute of play.

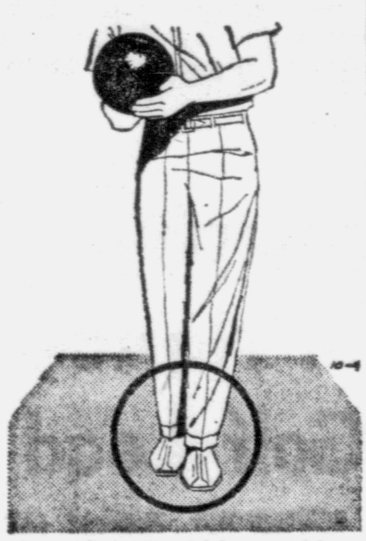
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Your feet should be touching each other as you get set, with the left foot pointing down the lane. This stance will make it easier for your to move forward without wavering, but there is an added advantage: If you are using your left shoe as a guide for finding your proper starting point, this point will actually vary unless the right shoe is always in the same relative position.

HOMECOMING

It's Marin Catholic Vs. Piner

It's homecoming after two weeks of no play for the Marin Catholic Wildcats for the third game of what could be their banner year.

Marin Catholic entertains Piner, 25-0 conqueror of Santa Rosa, tonight at 8 o'clock at College of Marin with breezy Jim O'Brien, the country's leading rusher, still slowed by a bout with the flu.

Coach Joel Kiff is optimistic, sort of.

"They (Piner) are a good football team," he said. "They've got good size, good speed. But we'll be doing a lot of passing, and if things work well, we can take them."

If O'brien is healthy, it might be a better bet.

Marin Catholic holds a 13-6 victory over Albany and has lost to San Rafael, 33-25 in previous games.

Rare Triplicate By Four Bowlers

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A triplicate series is hard enough to get, but when you get four bowlers to join forces to do it, that's something else!

The Novato Roofing team of the Hawaiian League at Nave Lanes did just that the other night. The mixed team — Bill and Kay Howey and Les and Betty Taylor — rolled three games of 560, a very unusual feat.

THIS AND THAT — Walt Smith is a bowling sponsor in the 840 Scratch League at Nave Lanes who carries a 160 blue book average, but don't let that fool you. He rolled games of 215, 214 and 199 for a 628 series, leading all scores at the Ignacio lanes . . . Also in the 840 Scratch, Jack Vallee picked up the 4-7-10 split . . . Don Lane had high single game at Nave Lanes, 266 . . . Mike Curry, manager at Country Club Bowl, showed the Week-Enders League how it's done when he converted the 4-7-10 . . . In the Friday Nite Leftovers League at Nave Lanes, Christine Guerrero missed a triplicate by a pin, 117-117-118, and San Schnieter picked up the 6-7-10 leave.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Lee Brown of the Traveling Comics League at Nave Lanes rolled eight straight strikes and wound up with a 256 game . . . Catherine McGrath missed a triplicate by one pin, two 119 games followed by a 120 in the Classy Lassies League at Nave Lanes . . . Dee Green picked up a very difficult 2-4-10 split in the Monday Washday League at Nave's . . . Ron Baccei, high-bowler of the week at Country Club Bowl, had his 637 series topped by a 241 game . . . Fran Ruys is in some kind of a rut in the Magic Fours League at Country Club, as she's started off the night with a 103 game for three straight weeks.

DOWN THE LANES — Barbara Fraus rolled a 120 triplicate to win headlines in the Lutheran Early League at Country Club Bowl, and Jean Larsen, 128 average, went all the way up to a 219 game . . . Ron Gottheimer was top junior at Greenbrae Lanes, 205-556 . . . Neal Hurley, 166 avg., had a 609 in the Splinters at Country Club . . . Rosey Corbin of the Ladies' 620 Classic was a little too good her last game, 167-167-175 . . . Delores Ray was awfully consistent in the Two of Each Kind League at Greenbrae Lanes, 199-197-196 for her 592. That big 592 was only second best for the gals at Greenbrae, since Marilyn Epidendio led 'em all with a 604 . . . In the Marin County Mixed Travel League at Nave Lanes, Johnny De Luca converted the 6-7 split and Jackie Malinoff, 130 avg., bowled 202 game.

Raiders, Pats Both Hurting With Injuries

OAKLAND (AP) — The Raiders and Boston Patriots will both be bothered by injuries when they meet Sunday in Oakland's American Football League home opener.

Boston fullback Jim Nance, the league's leading rusher, is out with a twisted ankle. End Art Graham is also sidelined.

Definitely out for the Raiders are halfback Larry Todd and linebacker Dave Ogas. And halfback Pete Banaszak will be playing despite two cracked ribs.

The Raiders, 3-0 and tied with the San Diego Chargers for the lead in the AFL's Western Division, will be aiming for their 14th straight regular season victory.

The FISHIN' FOOL

Russian River Offers Fine Variety Of Game Fishing

STEVENS

There are very few streams along the coast that can offer such a variety of game fish as the Russian River—grilse, salmon, striped bass and black bass.

From the King News and Tackle Shop at Guerneville comes the report that the fishing for grilse (immature male salmon) has slowed down to a walk, but already some silver salmon have been taken, striped bass are being landed off Duncan Mills and black bass are real active. According to Mrs. King, it's no trick to land a mess of blackies from shore at Brown's Pool and Odd Fellows Pool, or, dozens of places upstream from Guerneville. Most productive bait has been the lowly night crawler. You can pick up a quantity of night crawlers for black bass fishing or anchovies for salmon at the King Shop.

SPEAKING OF salmon, Rocky Point along the coast has been furnishing some very good results. Talking with Tony Caruso, of Caruso's boat and tackle spot in Sausalito, I learned that the Salmon Queen boated 10 limits of salmon to 20 pounds, the Hurricane had 30 salmon to 22 pounds, and the Jennie C landed 22 to 25 pounds.

Caruso also reported several small craft have had good fishing for striped bass drift fishing live bait in the Raccoon Strait and off California City.

CARL BENNETT of the Rodeo Marina reported a good week of trolling, sans sinker, on the Hercules Flats. It is hard to top sinkerless fishing in shallow water. If you have never angled for stripers with no sinker and while using ultra light tackle, you've a real treat awaiting you.

Bennett reported angler Guy Bentice of Pittsburg hooking, playing and finally landing a husky striper weighing an even 35 pounds. Fifteen-year-old Kevin Ray of Vallejo caught a lunker bass, I believe 25 pound. I not the boat Sturgeon bucked the wild waters of the Carquinez Strait and the upper San Pablo Bays with fish to 25 pounds.

A NUMBER of sturgeon were landed as were quite a few flounders. A private boat took two limits of bass near the Radar Screen, and Carl Bennett mentioned a few stripers were landed on bullhead baits. It looks as if the fall run of stripes has begun. Here's hoping it has.

Non-League Games For Prep Teams

It's back to business as usual for Drake and Redwood, two Marin County Athletic League grid teams that ran into juggernauts last week.

Names like Crestmoor and Washington don't quite ring the same kind of awesome bell that Vallejo and Riordan did. Neither, it is hoped, should they come up with the same kind of results.

Drake, 12-8 loser to Vallejo and a 34-7 winner over Petaluma, takes on San Francisco AAA entry Washington tomorrow at 8 p.m. at College of Marin. Redwood, 47-13 loser to Riordan and an 18-6 winner over Palo Alto, travels to Crestmoor in South San Francisco for a 3 p.m. game today in hopes of bouncing back.

Barry Scores 52, Oaks Lose

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rick Barry will try tonight to help even the Oakland Oaks' exhibition series with the Indiana Pacers.

Barry's explosive try last night in the series opener and his first American Basketball Association game resulted in the game's high scoring honors with 52 points. But the Pacers won 141-131.

LOLICH'S TOUGH PROBLEM

Hard To Keep Eyes Open

By MIKE RATHET

DETROIT (AP) — Mickey Lolich had two major problems before he went out to get the Tigers even in the second game of the World Series—keeping his mouth shut and his eyes open.

He managed to do the second, but not the first, and that's how the motorcycle-riding Detroit pitcher became the hero of yesterday's game as he scattered six hits and hit the first homer of his career in an 8-1 victory over St. Louis that tied the series at one victory apiece.

INFECTION

Lolich's problems stemmed from a groin infection he first noticed Wednesday night. And, as soon as he got to the ball park yesterday, he reported to the team doctor.

For the next couple of hours, whenever Lolich opened his mouth someone either shoved in a thermometer or some pills. The pills, in turn, were beginning to put him to sleep.

"I was quite groggy from the pills," Lolich explained. "The doctor said my eyes looked like they were going to sleep. He said I might run out of gas in the middle of the game and that I might get a headache at any time.

WOOZY

"I didn't get the headache. But I was woozy all day."

However, Lolich claimed the situation only served to make him a more effective pitcher.

"What happened because of that was I was so concerned about the infection I had no chance to be nervous and with all those pills making me groggy and the energy out of my body, I was completely relaxed.

"Another thing was that I didn't have enough energy to throw as hard as I usually do and as a result my fastball was sinking more."

MICKEY LOLICH
Motorcycle buff

Conscious of keeping from feeling any more tired, Lolich proceeded to the mound, where he completely lulled the Cardinals into submission.

DIFFICULT

A motorcycle enthusiast now with a stable of five bikes and a 1½-mile track on a plot of land near his home, Lolich was just a kid when he first became acquainted with motorcycles.

"I drove my tricycle off a curve and hit the kickstand of a parked motorcycle," Lolich explained. "The bike came down on top of me and I was pinned with it on my chest. I survived with only a broken collarbone."

BECAME SOUTHPAW

Lolich survived with only a broken collarbone, but he no longer was a right-hander. With the left collarbone broken and his arm getting little use, he was told to continually exercise his left arm to strengthen it. That turned him into a southpaw pitcher.

Eight years ago, Lolich returned to motorcycles, but decided to get on them, rather than under them. He not only rides them on the track he's had built, but can be seen any day there's a baseball game in Detroit, speeding to the park on one of the bikes.

He's also a part-time archer, gun collector, skin diver, pilot and banjo player, and for the last two summers has been a part-time pitcher while serving in the Air National Guard.

DISTURBING

"That's disturbed him both years," said Tiger pitching coach Johnny Sain in explaining Lolich's past two seasons—in both of which he's started well, then sagged, and finally come on strong. "You just can't get organized leaving for two weeks and several weekends and then being asked to pitch."

Even so, Lolich again came close to entering the 20-victory circle for the first time this year as he posted a 17-9 record. But while he still never has won 20, he now has hit his first homer.

The homer came in the third inning and not only startled the crowd of 54,692 but Lolich as well. As the ball sailed into the left field stands, Lolich passed first base. But he had to make a return trip because he had failed to touch the bag.

JUST SHOOK HEADS

"When I got to the bench," Lolich said with a smile, "everyone shook my hand, but no one said anything. They just sat down shaking their heads. I guess I'm so much of a Punch-and-Judy hitter it seemed sort of ridiculous to them.

"I don't hit homers. As a matter of fact, I don't hit."

But he does pitch. Even when he's falling asleep.

Cain's Tires Clinch Softball Crown

Cain's Tires clinched the second half title in the San Rafael Recreation Department's Class B Adult Softball League last night with a 17-2 victory over Antonelli Construction at Albert Park.

Joe Tosches, Terry Horner and Denny Coleman hit home runs for Cain's. In another game, Terra Linda downed the Bulls, 5-2.

Marin Tars Vs. Sierra In Rocklin

A lion den looms in the College of Marin Tars' future. It's set to snap close around 2 p.m. tomorrow in Rocklin.

The Tars, unbeaten since their opening 1967 game, travel there to take on the Sierra Junior College and Ivan Lippie.

Lippie is the quarterback who was injured against the Tars last year and the Wolverines are the team that blew a 34-6 lead over the Tars enroute to a 42-41 loss.

The Tars have been up to their same old ways, beating San Jose City College by a point in the last second and whipping Napa, 52-41 last week.

Today is Friday, Oct 4, the 278th day of 1968 with 88 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1890, Mormons in Utah renounced the practice of polygamy.

In 1927, Al Jolson starred in "The Jazz Singer," the first full-length talking movie.

In 1955, 66 persons died when a United Air Lines DC-4 hit Medicine Bow Peak in southern Wyoming.

A thought for the day—American diplomat Walter Hines Page once said: "There is one thing better than good government, and that is government in which all the people have a part."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Unlucky Finesses In North America Alone Cost $1 Billion In 1967

According to the latest figures, unlucky finesses in North America alone cost bridge players over a billion dollars in 1967. (These statistics don't include bridge games played to see who pays for the drinks. We have to draw the line somewhere.) Leading economists have asked me to point out that some of those finesses were not only unlucky but also unnecessary.

Opening lead — ♠ A

West opened the ace of trumps and then led another trump. South took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart in dummy, discarded a club on the ace of diamonds and got to his hand by ruffing a diamond.

South then drew the last trump, took his high hearts and finally tried the club finesse. East had the queen of clubs, and South was down one.

South broke even since he had honors to offset the penalty of 100 points. Still, he should have made the slam and the rubber, for a score of 1,730 points. You can see how that sort of thing would mount up in the course of a whole year.

WRONG PLAYS

South went down because he took the wrong discard and the wrong ruff. He also took the wrong finesse because he shouldn't have finessed at all.

After winning the second trick with the ten of spades, South should take both of dummy's top clubs, discard a heart on the ace of diamonds, get to his hand with the ace of hearts and ruff a club in dummy, after discarding dummy's clubs on the other top hearts.

LAST ONE GOOD

Since the clubs break normally (three in one hand and two in the other), South's last club is now good. Declarer gets to his hand by ruffing a diamond, draws the last trump and claims the rest of the tricks.

This line of play is correct because the odds are better than 2 to 1 that the five missing clubs will be divided 3-2. The club finesse, adopted by the actual declarer, is only an even money chance.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠—A 6
♥—J 9 8 6
♦—K 10 9 7 5
♣—10 7

What do you say?

Answer: Bid one no trump.

The hand is not quite strong enough for a response of two diamonds. If partner had opened with one heart, you could just barely afford to respond two diamonds, with the intention of showing the heart support at your next turn.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Kaiser Subsidiary Buys Large Orchard

Westward Properties, Inc., the wholly owned real estate subsidiary of Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., has completed negotiations to purchase Butte Farms, an 860-acre orchard development in the Sacramento Valley near Gridley.

Butte Farms currently produces walnut, peach, prune and almond crops but only about 25 per cent of the orchards is now in full production.

This is the sixth major land development undertaking for the Kaiser subsidiary. Others are located in Oregon, near Fresno, near Livermore and in Southern California.

USLIFE HOLDING CORP. has reached a preliminary agreement to acquire Great National Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, Tex. If this and other acquisitions in process are completed, affiliates of the holding company will have some $4.5 billion of life insurance in force, assets of $350 million, and stockholders' equity of more than $61 illion.

CHRYSLER CORP. has entered into an agreement to become the exclusive distribution agent in the Western Hemisphere for Nissan diesel engines manufactured by Nissan Diesel Motor Co., Tokyo, Japan. The new lines will be marketed under the name of Chrysler-Nissan Diesel.

PACIFIC LIGHTING CORP. directors have elected Paul A. Miller president and chief executive officer to succeed Robert A. Hornby, who is scheduled to retire next month. Joseph R. Rensch was elected to fill Miller's post of executive vice president. Pacific Lighting is the parent company of Southern California Gas Co., Southern Counties Gas Co. of California and Pacific Lighting Service and Supply Co., which together form the world's largest gas distribution system.

AMERICAN PRESIDENT LINES has signed a $65.7 million contract with Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. for construction of three new Pacific Pacesetter containerships. Delivery of the first ship will be late in 1971 with the other two following at short intervals. They will operate in APL's service between West Coast ports and destinations in the Orient and southeast Asia.

CONSOLIDATED LEASING CORP. OF AMERICA has signed to acquire Wisconsin Barge Line, Inc., Cassville, Wis., and its subsidiaries. The company, previously privately owned, is a bulk transporter on the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, operates eight towboats and more than 180 barges.

MOTOROLA, INC. plans to build a factory in Taiwan as a subassembly facility for its consumer electronics production operations, all located in the United States. No finished products are planned for the Taiwanese operation; it will export its total output to domestic Motorola assembly plants in Illinois. It represents an expansion of the Motorola "feeder" plant pattern.

SKYMARK AIRLINES, INC., Sacramento, and Golden West Airlines of Van Nuys have terminated their merger discussions started in August.

NATIONAL AIRLINES and Pan American World Airways have proposed an agreement to lease Boeing 747 Jumbo jet aircraft to each other during seasonal periods. During such periods each aircraft would bear the markings of its owner unless one airline or the other wishes to repaint them at its own expense. National has agreed to configure and equip its 747s according to Pan Am specifications.

Blue Chips Stocks In Closing Gains

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the blue chips enjoyed another winning performance, the balance of the list generally moved in uncertain fashion today, with declines taking a slim lead over advances for the first time in about two weeks.

Shortly before the final bell, the UPI Stock Market Indicator, measuring all stocks traded, was up 0.05 per cent on 1,574 issues crossing the tape. Declines edged advances, 678 to 650.

Great American Holding, number one on the active list Thursday, continued to be among the heavily traded issues dipped into the minus column after gaining considerable ground in the previous session.

Steels moved in small fractions, generally higher. Motors backed off.

Du Pont was a good gainer in the mixed chemicals, while Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair Oil were winners in the irregular oil group.

Airline and Aerospace issues were mixed, as were rails.

Banks Are High In The 'Fringes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Banks lead all other major forms of business in the percentage of payroll allocated to fringe benefits, according to a U.S. Chamber of Commerce survey.

As a group, banks reported 32.5 per cent of their 1967 payroll went for pensions, vacations, health insurance and other non-wage benefits.

Among manufacturing firms the average was 25.6 per cent, ranging up to 30 per cent for the biggest companies.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Sulfur Discovery Has Excellent Potential

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Last spring my shares of United Corp. were exchanged for $4 preference of the newly merged Pennzoil United. A dividend increase to $1 a share on the new common split shares makes me wonder if I should convert my preference shares to get the better yield. Can I convert? — F. W.

A. Your shares are convertible into 1.44 common shares for six years from the effective date of the merger. However, there is some misunderstanding on the new dividend rate which is 20 cents a quarter or 80 cents a year, making the yield on the preference shares still slightly higher than on the common. Since the preference shares are convertible, they tend to move in line with the common, plus offering additional safety. I see no advantage in conversion at this time.

Pennzoil United moved up sharply, partially in response to the spring rally but primarily on its own momentum, triggered by excellent earnings and a mammoth sulfur discovery by 98 per cent-owned Duval Corp. Although this mineral deposit is not expected to contribute to earnings much before 1970, it does provide a good long-term potential.

Perhaps the best testimony to Pennzoil's excellent outlook is tendered by the 30 institutional investors who hold 17 per cent of the company's stock.

Q. Is Zurn Industries worth holding despite its sharp drop from our purchase price of 45? If it has a future we can afford to hold it. — M. W.

A. There's good growth ahead for Zurn, I believe, and I'd hold the shares which you bought at the year's trading peak.

Sales are in an uptrend from an aggressive acquisition policy, but heavier-then-normal expenses resulted from moving one plant, and profit margins narrowed unexpectedly on the output of another. The company's president is predicting a 30 per cent increase in share net for fiscal 1969 (March) on possibly 70 per cent higher sales.

A major growth factor is Zurn's leading position in the design, manufacture and installation of pollution control systems — both air and water.

Volkswagen Record

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N. J. (BW) — Volkswagen dealers set an all-time sales record last month as they delivered 53,667 new VW's to customers across the country, 48 per cent ahead of the same month last year.

WHY—IN SUCH A SHORT TIME, HAS THE KAEHLER-FARRAR BLDG. BECOME MARIN'S MOST DESIRED OFFICE LOCATION?

Last January we took a good look at our building and decided we could improve both comfort and service.

And we did it!

Not only that — but we went on record and told people in our ads just exactly what we intended to do.

Prospective clients not only approved of our improvements . . . they also know that when we said we would do something — we did it.

Here are the better features you find in the Kaehler-Farrar Bldg.

- Our answering service
- Daily janitorial service (includes monthly window washing)
- All weather comfort air conditioning and heating
- Our staff to plan and prepare your office specifically to your needs.
- Reserved parking for you and staff.

You and Your Clients Benefit From

- Our central location — close to Marin business, government headquarters.
- Soft, sound proof corridor carpeting.
- Smooth, silent, speed-right elevators.
- Canteen lunchroom
- Executive Club cocktail lounge. (they serve grill specialties, too)

and for the men in your organization: The Executive Health Club

To anyone who bought a second car in the last month:

Pity.

If only you had waited a little longer! Because now there's America—the first car designed to be a second car.

With a price $1895 -that makes it the lowest-priced car with an automatic transmission.

When it comes to buying an old-style second car, there's a new adage: he who hesitates is saved.

America by Austin, The first car built to be a second car.

CRANSTON: Onetime Athlete Still Running Hard

(This is the last in a series of five articles on Alan Cranston, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, written for the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram and reprinted by permission.)

By FRANK ANDERSON

Democratic senatorial nominee Alan Cranston opens an 18-hour campaign day with some wind sprints and a mile run as he trains for the final heat with Republican Max Rafferty.

The man who once ran a 49-second quarter mile for Stanford is determined not to pull up lame as he did in his last two tries for public office.

The Cranston campaign suite at 3259 Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles is as spare and lean as the candidate who seeks the senatorial office now held by Thomas H. Kuchel, a primary casualty of the hard-driving Rafferty.

THE OFFICE contains a steel desk, one swivel chair and a half dozen metal folding chairs. The one ash tray is for visitors. Cranston doesn't smoke.

Cranston says he sees a parallel between the world he covered as an International News Service foreign correspondent in 1936-38 and the world of today.

"We had violence and racism then, and we have it with us today," he says. "Today, as then, one can get involved in trying to heal and correct, or one can sit on the sidelines and do nothing.

"I chose to get involved. Writing about such things wasn't enough for me."

The method of involvement, of course, is always open to interpretation by a politician's opponents. And Cranston has seen his work in behalf of such organizations as the California Democratic Council and the United World Federalists translated as "ultraleftist," "pinko" and "radical."

VEN O. FAHRNEY, Long Beach attorney who served as a CDC director the first two years of Cranston's CDC presidency, scoffs at efforts to picture Cranston as a flaming liberal.

"He (Cranston) is more middle of the road than given credit for," Fahrney says, fixing the questioner with the piercing blue eyes that have caused trial witnesses to squirm.

"I've dealt with facts, as an attorney and as a policeman," Fahrney says, "and I tell you this: Cranston kept the CDC in line. The radical stands taken by the CDC were taken after he resigned as president. He was a moderating force."

Cranston has his pluses and minuses as a candidate, and

Waste At The Root Of Distress Over Taxes

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., calling for a shakeup of federal bureaucracy, called attention recently to some of the wasteful overlap of government agencies.

Eight cabinet departments and 12 agencies are involved in health, he reported. Eighteen agencies are conducting programs "to improve the natural environment." Eight departments and four agencies operate major federal loan programs. Ten agencies in three departments direct manpower projects. Ten cabinet departments and more than 15 other agencies are involved in education.

THE LIST could go on and on. It need not stop with the federal government. The same mushrooming bureaucracy, with the same kind of overlaps, has worked its way down into state governments, and even to those of counties and major cities. Marin County has a current example: the Richardson Bay pollution situation, which finds county planning, building, public works and health departments and the county counsel all involved in attempted enforcement of laws, while the two officials elected to enforce the laws, the district attorney and sheriff, watch from the sidelines.

Very little is ever done about the proliferation of overlapping agencies. But it is one of the biggest reasons for ever-increasing tax loads.

How little is done was well demonstrated by the federal administration this year. Congress, as the price of passing President Johnson's income tax hike, insisted on a $6 billion cut in federal expenses.

Did the administration go searching for dead wood to cut out? Did it eliminate surplus agencies or functions of one agency that overlapped those of another? It did no such thing. It put the squeeze where it hurt worst and could be dramatized to the public most easily: on mail deliveries, on Forest Service fire lookout protection, etc. The result was what the administration wanted: Congress put part of the $6 billion back.

THERE IS NO question that any tax-eating jurisdiction, from the local school board to the gigantic bureaucracy centered in Washington, tends naturally and inevitably to expand. At the local level, the waste of overlapping jurisdictions is more readily noticeable and so is held somewhat in check. But the bigger the government, the more overlap and the more waste.

This, rather than any basic inequity in the tax structure, is what makes taxes excessive.

It is futile to revamp the tax structure while doing nothing about cutting the costs of government. We need go only a little way back in history — to the first federal income tax and the first state sales tax — to see that such revamping almost invariably puts the tightest squeeze where it hurts the most: on the little fellow.

UNFORTUNATELY, neither of the proposed constitutional amendments before California voters next month does anything about the cause for tax distress.

Proposition 9 would merely sweep away property tax support for some essential services, leaving it up to the state to impose new taxes to replace it. Proposition 1A, while offering temporary relief for one year, after that merely continues the "temporary" sales tax increase while at the same time reducing the assessed valuation on which property taxes can be levied, through adding exemptions. There is an old standard practice that covers this: When the valuation goes down, the rate goes up. The dollars paid out do not decrease.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

First-Year Flop Needn't Mean Death Of Cal-Expo Dreams

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Events of the past few days have indicated that the state's new California Exposition is in serious financial trouble, but the potential for an outstanding show continues to exist.

The upheaval which saw the concept of semi-private operation of the exposition wiped out, and the resignation of its manager, E. R. (Doc) Lemmon, appears to be only a part of the shakedown period of changing over a traditional state fair into a major, modern exposition.

IT'S RELATIVELY easy to place the blame for a 'flopperoo" as the exposition turned out to be this year, both exhibit-wise and financially; but it's not quite so simple to figure out solutions to the problem which involves California taxpayers to the tune of some $34 million. Trying to find the answers is up to the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan, and so far, none has been forthcoming.

The problem is, in fact, monumental. The state is stuck with a huge, unfinished plant. Funds for completing this plant are not in sight, the exposition will be out of money Jan. 1.

Even before the state decided to proceed with the project, it was estimated it would take a minimum of five years after its completion to put it on a self-supporting basis. The old state fair, after a century and more of operation, never was self-supporting, so there was no reason to believe that merely transferring the activities of the old fair to a new site would be any different.

THE PROBLEM appears to be whether the administration will decide to seek continuance of the development of the new California Exposition, or whether it will allow the multimillion dollar facility the state has erected to revert to the old state fair.

Admittedly, it is difficult to effect changes and wipe out traditions which have been in effect for many years, but many observers contend this has to be done before the people can hope to realize anything on the investment made at the California Exposition.

The potential for an outstanding exposition center, which would be self-supporting, still exists. Also, the state has discovered that a multiplicity of policy-making and executive-sharing responsibility contributed to the first year flop of the exposition.

It will not be surprising if a new chain of command, with an authorative executive head, is sought to rescue the exposition from disaster.

THE GOWANUS Marching and Chowder Club was sponsoring one of its classier fixed fights, with Spike Clancy (favored at odds of 8 to 1 to flatten Chicken Shtoonk), handsomely bribed to let himself be knocked out in the sixth round. Shtoonk, secure in the knowledge that his victory was in the bag, unreeled a couple of genuine haymakers that rattled Spike Clancy's back teeth. "You miserable little double-crosser," muttered Spike in a clinch. "Wait till I get you outside!"

Max In Trouble Even Over English

I should like to quote Max Rafferty's recently published response to the articles about him that have appeared in the I-J. "I'm not a Johnny-come-lately in my religion, as your articles infer." Infer! What Mr. Rafferty means is "imply." I suggest that our state superintendent of schools get a dictionary and study the meaning of "infer," or else avoid the word until he learns more about basic grammar. The misuse of the word is a common error among those who are unschooled in the language, but one would not expect it from a man who professes to be a great educator.

Dissident Democrats 'Spoiled Children'

The Council of Democratic Clubs should change its name to the Committee to Elect Nixon (or Wallace) President. The Marin County Democratic Committee is not much better. Instead of futilely writing in the name of a defeated candidate who is not interested in the write-in, these party leaders ought to be out working for the finest liberal this country has known in my lifetime, Hubert H. Humphrey. The sorehead Democrats are going to see to it that their party loses the presidency (if they can). . . .

I believe that I speak for many besides myself, nondemonstrating, non-noisy, voters who are tired of the sick thinking of the California Democrats who are trying to destroy their own party. They are Nixon's not-so-secret weapon. I suggest that they spend time studying Humphrey's record in the United States Senate instead of behaving like spoiled children.

I can see we are now in for a prearranged parade of letters from prominent ex-Republicans telling why they cannot support some Republican candidates.

In this year of 1968 you are either a Republican or you are not. You are either for ousting the present administration or you are not.

Wallace voters would happily toss the election back to the House and Hubert. Cranston voters would cheerfully send Dick Nixon to the White House with a Democrat Senate.

If you are going to turn your coat, why not do it with one fool sweep and vote a Wallace-Cranston ticket?

Nothing Wrong At Kappas Harbor

Recent concern about conditions in Kappas Harbor, voiced emphatically by a number of supervisors, is without foundation. the incidence of infectious disease is no higher than in any other area of the community. References being made to the undesirability of raw sewage being emptied into the bay, laudable in their intent, border on hysteria rather than reason. It should be noted that numberous small communities throughout the U. S. are using basins at the water's edge for holding raw sewage . . .

It whould be noted too, that building codes have long been responsible for limiting a creative approach to the use of new materials for construction of single and multiple complex dwellings. . . .

Admittedly one's aesthetic concern might be offended by the lack of green belt in the waterfront area. This is not an insurmountable problem. Through a cooperatibe effort of landholder, owners of houseboats, and municipal entities it would be possible to transofrm some of the objectionalbe areas into pleasant parks.

Instead of wasting, energy and resources on fighting each other, we have before us a classic example for self-help and mutual cooperation. It remains to be seen whether good judgment will prevail.

All Is Marigolds For Dirksen As Illinois Democrats Feud

CHICAGO — A message came to Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen's modest campaign headquarters the other day. The telephone caller said that Mayor Richard J. Daley wanted Dirksen's people to see some interesting poll figures.

A lunch was arranged and while the poll results were not turned over to a strategist representing the senator, he was allowed to see them. They showed Dirksen running an extraordinary 78.8 per cent ahead of his Democratic opponent in Ford City, a populous area in the southwest corner of Chicago. What made this more remarkable is that Ford City is roughly one-third Negro, one-third Polish-American, and one-third white workers of mixed background.

The polls favoring Dirksen have from the start been so lopsided that his staffers find them incredible. But, cautious as all politicians are at this critical stage of a campaign, they are saying, "We don't believe we could kick it over now even if we tried." Dirksen at 72 will campaign throughout the state in the last five weeks before the election.

HIS DEMOCRATIC opponent, State Atty. Gen. William G. Clark, is running a campaign that seems at times to be aimed more at Daley and President Johnson than at Dirksen. He accuses the senator and the President of working a joint power axis — Practicing "back-room politics." He cites Dirksen's early support for confirmation of Abe Fortas to be chief justice in return, according to Clark, for Johnson backing to keep the Subversive Activities Control Board alive, an objective dear to Dirksen's heart.

As this shows, the Democrats in Illinois today are not so much a party as a collection of warring tribes. Extermination day is Nov. 5 and even Daley's overlordship of Cook County, his power base, is threatened if one can believe the private word of both Democrats and Republicans.

When Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was in the state recently he tried his hand at pacification at a closed meeting of party leaders called by Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro. State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson II, the only Democrat elected to statewide office in 1966, came in only at the end of the meeting. Before his arrival a Daley loyalist got up and denounced Stevenson for refusing to follow the Daley line at the Democratic convention and for his later criticism of the Daley organization as "feudal."

Humphrey responded immediately. He said he admired Stevenson's independence and considered that at times he himself should have taken a more independent stand. According to those present, this was received with something less than enthusiasm by the chieftains who know one principle, and that is Daley must be right.

AS FOR DALEY, he continues to give out roars of pain and rage over the television coverage of the disorders during the Democratic convention. He says that of 155,000 letters that have come from all over the country only 10,000 criticized the mayor and the police for brutality against the demonstrators. One of the first to come to Daley's defense was Dirksen, which understandably strengthened the bond already existing between them.

Moving about the state as a sonorous public institution, Dirksen has to do hardly more than touch up the crime issue and blow hard on the Supreme Court. For Ev everything is coming up marigolds, and if the election turns out as now seems likely, with substantial Republican gains in the Senate, he may at last get his dearest wish, which is to have the marigold proclaimed the national flower.

Navy Brass Gets In Licks For Missile Conversion

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Navy, with active assistance from the Pentagon high command, is trying to head off a Senate-imposed slowdown on transition from the proven Polaris missile to the untried Poseidon for missile-firing submarines.

Navy spokesmen are looking to the House for action to overturn a recommendation of the Senate's powerful Appropriations Committee. The committee, wary of the Navy's previous missile failures, wants proof of Poseidon's admittedly high potential.

The controversy, aired in the committee's closed-door hearings, has already produced some of the sharpest criticism ever leveled against U.S. weapons development. Targets were the three "T's" of Navy air defense, the Talos, Tartar and Terrier anti-aircraft missiles.

NOW AT ISSUE is the Pentagon's $5.1 billion, eight-year program for converting 31 of the 41-ship Polaris submarine fleet to the Poseidon missile. The larger Poseidon would let the missile-firing subs take full advantage of MIRV — warheads which include several separately targeted nuclear weapons.

In its $72 billion money bill, now pending in Congress, the Pentagon included $1.4 billion for Poseidon, more than half a billion of it to finance conversion of six Polaris submarines in addition to two conversions funded a year ago.

The House approved that program, but the Senate Committee cut the conversion outlay by nearly $280 million, to convert only two submarines. In its official report, the committee candidly told the Senate:

"It is the view of the committee that the Navy should proceed with caution in this program until the flight test program of the Poseidon missile has clearly established its reliability."

THE BIG defense appropriations bill is one of the major items of unfinished congressional business. Under normal circumstances the bill, once passed by the House, would have been rushed to final passage.

The Navy got some lobbying time, however, when Senate leaders decided to push ahead instead with the controversial nomination of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to be chief justice. The Navy brass has taken full advantage of the delay.

The secret of success in life is known only to those who have not succeeded. — John Churton Collins.

ART BUCHWALD

Who'll Heckle The Hecklers At Their National Convention?

WASHINGTON — Heckling of speakers has become such a big thing on college campuses these days that it has been decided to hold an Intercollegiate Hecklers Conference in the near future.

The man behind it is Hiram Bullhorn, who came to Washington to arrange for speakers who could be heckled at the conference.

"We were hoping to get President Johnson," Hiram said, "but we may have to settle for Hubert Humphrey and General Hershey."

"WHAT DO YOU intend to do at the conference?"

"We want to exchange ideas on heckling, discuss new methods of jeering and hooting, and see if we can find ways of shedding more heat and less light on the basic issues of the day."

"It should be very constructive," I said.

"I've had a very good response. Almost every university in the country wants to send a delegation! That is, if they don't have any speakers to heckle on their campuses the week of the convention."

"HOW DO YOU intend to conduct the conference?"

"We'll break it down into seminars. One group will discuss 'heckling from the balcony,' another 'heckling from the floor,' and a third, for graduate students, will devote itself to 'what to do if you can grab the mike.'

"We will also hold a session on 'new jeers' and classes in 'dirty sign painting.' And we shall probably devote an entire afternoon to 'what to do about antiheckling'."

"What do you mean by 'antiheckling'?"

"Well, for some time hecklers were permitted to heckle without being interrupted. But lately the speakers have been heckling the hecklers. Muskie has been embarrassing students by giving them time to state their cases. Humphrey has been hooting at kids in the balcony. Wallace tells the TV men to turn their cameras on the hecklers to embarrass them, and even Nixon has been using hecklers to get sympathy for himself.

"This antiheckling behavior of the speaker has caused a great deal of resentment among activist students and is a violation of the First Amendment, which guarantees to all citizens the right to hoot and jeer without fear of having to listen to what someone has to say."

"BUT WHAT CAN you do about it?"

"We will probably call for legislation to make antiheckling illegal, and we shall train student leaders in anti-antiheckling techniques. This will include cutting off microphones, the use of larger hand megaphones, and the escalation of catcalling. If we can't stop someone from speaking without their answering back, then free speech in this country has come to a sorry pass."

"I couldn't agree with you more. Where will you hold your first hecklers' convention?"

"Everyone wants it. Berkeley has asked for it; Columbia has lobbied for it; Madison, Wis., says they'll host it; but we think the only place to have a convention in this country is Chicago. For one thing, they have the best facilities for hecklers, and for another, after all the unfortunate publicity Mayor Daley got after the Democratic convention, he deserves the business."

CRANSTON

his campaign staff is well aware of them.

"He doesn't come across well on the platform," a key aide says. "Television is Rafferty's 'bag,' not Alan's. But just put him at a table with a few people popping questions at him and the warmth comes through.

"We're going to be using a lot of television, but it will be the person-to-person type of setting, informal and conversational."

RAFFERTY HAS sought to debate Cranston but has been rebuffed. The reason given by Cranston is he "cannot debate with a man who refuses to tell the truth." But conversation at Cranston headquarters indicates the real reason has to do with Rafferty's demonstrated forensic ability, his skill at phrase-making, and his instinct for the jugular.

The Cranston aides don't want their man bogged down in a defensive campaign, but if he has to be, they are preparing counter-fire.

Cranston thinks he has been given a fair shake by the news media.

"I can point to many endorsements," he says.

The bruises suffered in past campaigns and in dog-fights with fellow Deomocrats have healed, he claims.

"There's total unity in the state party," Cranston says, adding that California Democrats came out of the national convention in better shape than ever before.

THE CRANSTON stomach is flat, the face is tanned and the forehead is as high as that of his late hero, Adlai Stevenson. He approaches a chair like a sprinter edging up to the blocks.

He follows the Los Angeles Rams "as often as I can squeeze a game in," and he says he has "been fortunate to combine job (politics) with my hobby (politics)."

He says he swims, surfs, skin dives and runs a mile a day, "rain or shine."

"I don't jog, either," he emphasizes.

Cranston and his wife, Geneva, will celebrate their 28th wedding anniversary Nov. 6, the day after the election. He's picked out his present — a six-year term as junior senator from the state of California.

Cranston's two sons, Rob, 20, and Kim, 22, "have been helping in precinct work since they were old enough to walk," the candidate says.

Mrs. Cranston helps out, too, "mostly by being tolerant of the campaign's heavy demands on my time."

If Cranston loses to Rafferty, he'll continue to be vice president of Carlsberg Financial Corp., a Los Angeles land investment firm, and president of Homes for a Better America.

BUT HE makes clear he doesn't intend to lose. And he points to the backing of Kuchel and Rockefeller-type Republicans who, he says, "are appalled at the prospect of Max Rafferty representing California in the U.S. Senate."

"Republicans for Cranston" include Nicholas Trutanic Jr., former Southern California scheduling secretary for Kuchel, and Mrs. Lee Sherry, former vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

In sum, Alan Cranston has published two books and a public record, and he stands on them. But, as Cervantes wrote:

"He that publishes a book runs a very great hazard, since nothing can be more impossible than to compose one that may secure the approbation of every reader."

Student Protests Unneeded With Parents Like These

As if to show that students are not entitled to all the fun these days, a group of Bolinas-Stinson Beach parents are also busy attacking the Establishment.

The school board for the tiny district has been holding a series of meetings this fall in an effort to develop a "philosophy of education" to be used in its two schools.

The fact that Bolinas-Stinson Beach is different from most districts (one might even hazard "unique") was evidenced by the results of a poll of parents about the controversial sex education films, "Time of Your Life."

ONE HUNDRED per cent of the parents answering a district query wanted their children to see the films.

This same liberal outlook on education has been shown by the parents who have attended the "philosophy" sessions, where suggestions have ranged from "making school more fun" to throwing out the three R's.

At a meeting last week an irate father was waving a copy of a school statement to the effect that American heritage and ideals are not controversial and are to be taught in the schools.

While many people might think this was pretty standard stuff, it's due for a challenge in Bolinas-Stinson, as the man said, "This is going to take a great deal of examination."

Board Chairman Jane Phillips hastily said that the statement was a matter of policy and was not under discussion at the moment.

The parent agreed to bring up the point at a later discussion — presumably after a philosophy for the school district is adopted. Since the parents who have attended the meetings have a great deal of trouble communicating just what it is they want to the board members, this looks like a year-long project.

What they don't want comes through clearly enough: education should not be job-oriented and restrictions on creativity should be eliminated. What these parents — pretty typical of the district, according to Supt. Clarence B. Larison — do want may be plain to them, but the board, composed of four middle-aged ladies and one man, has yet to understand.

SOURCES AT the College of Marin have described how the Black Students for Action recently brought pressure to bear on a committee charged with dispersing a $2,000 fund for Negro students to gain their immediate wishes.

Earlier this year an anonymous donor gave the money for "helping Negro students who, on completion of two years at the college, have given evidence of a commitment which is worthy of support in their work for a four-year degree."

Secondly, the donor said he wished to help support the Negro adult program at the school.

He was not interested, the benefactor wrote, "in supporting programs which are bent simply upon getting members of minority races into school, whether they are qualified or not."

The committee, composed of some faculty members, met and agreed to yield to demands of the BSA and disperse the money to black students for books and other immediate needs.

Now the black students are claiming, through the college newspaper, that "they have to go through a lot of red tape" to get the money for books and other needs.

The upshot seems to be that possibly some worthy black students planning on going on to four-year colleges have been deprived of aid, while students of debatable academic merit have been given the money for immediate needs.

COUNTY COMMENT

It's More Confusin' Than Amusin' As One Reads Record On Transit

Fusselman

The final paragraph of this column last week had a traffic mix-up with a senatorial political story and had its tail gate knocked off. It was a query.

Why, when the voters of New York State passed a $2.5 billion bond issue in 1967 to build highways, airports and mass transit facilities, would a man come to Marin, where financing was so nebulous, for less salary than he had been receiving?

It was said that Seymour Kashin, the manager of the paper Marin Transit System, left a $27,000 job there to come here for $21,000 with a promise of a quick raise to $25,000. (And who made the promise?) In July they raised him to $22,580, still $4,420 less than he was allegedly getting. The answer to this question could be quite interesting.

TO DIGRESS from transit for a moment, I hope you all read the I-J editorial on the Fair-Marin debacle . . . right on the nose! Another case of Brasilia of Marin abdication.

Here is the second news story. The Sept. 19 issue of the San Francisco Chronicle had an article which went like this: "Spokesmen for six Bay Area counties described here yesterday their grandiose plans for transportation of the future but NONE COULD SAY WHO WOULD PAY THE BILL. (Caps are mine.) They gave their opinions and forecasts at a study-group session of the state-created Bay Area Transportation Study Commission."

San Mateo County: "We'll probably go into a county wide bus system and contract with BART for an extension of their system."

Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District: "We're having to provide $4.5 million per year from some source other than fares. One of our big problems," once BART get running, is that our profitable service is the transbay line — where BART will run." (In 1964 we, here, were getting glowing reports of the successful operations on all their lines. It was held up to us as an example of what we could do.)

Santa Clara County: "We don't have any financing problems because we don't have any rapid transit. We are waiting for the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission to tell us how to move BART down to our county — a free BART. We're planning an intra-county bus network, like A. C., and if we do that we will have financing problems."

San Francisco City and County: "We're organizing a non-profit corporation, about $50 million, to replace all our street vehicles except the cable cars, which are sacred. We must raise additional cash for maintenance and storage of those new Muni subway cars."

Marin County: "We're planning an interim or short-range system of buses and ferries, but the long-range mission is rail rapid transit," said Seymour Kashin.

THE SAN MATEO man drew a laugh, while discussing possible future plans, when he said, "Adding to the property tax in San Mateo County would be very coolly received."

As I said last week, these things certainly induce some serious thinking.

Now consider again the grand manner of operation a la Brasilia. Zucker (Paul C., the planning director) is supposed to be working on balanced transportation. As evidence of that, he has added another new man to his staff. Kashin ditto. Kashin says that Marin Transit (only) must develop the essential information. And you know Zucker and his crew have no jurisdiction in any of the cities.

You name this thing that is going on.

The 'If' No Longer In Nixon Campaign

Off-The-Platform Pledge To End The Vietnam War

By LOUIS CASSELS

WITH NIXON CAMPAIGN (UPI) — When he is elected president—in his mind there is no longer any "if" about it—Richard M. Nixon says he will devote all of his formidable energy to ending the war in Vietnam.

He believes it can be done in less than a year, perhaps in five or six months. But he will make no campaign promises to that effect because he knows that if the new president is publicly committed to stopping the war by a certain date, the enemy can exact concessions in the peace negotiations merely by stalling for time. (See other political stories, page 24.)

Nixon's off-the-platform views about Vietnam, the current election campaign and several other topics were communicated to this reporter during a long and relaxed conversation aboard his campaign plane, the Tricia, as he made a jet-age barnstorming tour of the Deep South.

The Republican presidential candidate has no magic formula, no secret plan, for bringing the war to an honorable end. He intends to employ whatever diplomatic strategy seems most likely to yield results in the curcumstances prevailing at the time.

His reluctance to talk now about such specific measures as a bombing halt, while doubtless prompted in part by political prudence, also reflects his conviction that circumstances may change so greatly before the new administration takes over next January, that it is foolish to try to anticipate now exactly what approach should be taken then.

Nixon will give top priority to ending the war because he is satisfied that there can be no real progress toward solution of this country's urgent domestic and international problems until its costly divisive involvement in Vietnam is honorably liquidated.

But in private conversation, as in public speeches, he bears down hard on the word "honorably."

"We simply cannot pull out of Vietnam," he says, however tempting that easy out may appear at times. So his urgent de-

'DON'T FILL OUR BAY'

Marin Conservationists Hold Key To Big Project

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A $25 million high-rise project proposed in Richardson Bay yesterday ran into strong opposition by the Marin Conservation League and others in a hearing before the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Voting on Sausalito Associates' application to fill almost 17 acres was set for 2 p.m. Oct. 18 in the State Building here, and yesterday's hearing indicated the developer will have a hard time winning the necessary 13 votes.

FIRST ROUND

The project had won master plan approval from the Marin County Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors without a peep of protest from conservationists.

"Don't fill our bay," pleaded Mary B. Summers, a director of the conservation league, "but if you do, find us another name for it."

Mrs. Summers , former Marin County planning director and author of the original 1960 master plan for Richardson Bay, argued that the "essential goals" in the bay are maximum preservation of open water and maximum public recreational facilities.

But BCDC approval of the fill application, she warned, will mean the public "will be left not with a bay but with a aseries of water courses and water holes, but we want our bay."

She conceded Richardson Bay "is not very attractive now, but you don't need to fill ip up and cover it up in order to get rid of the mess."

CONVENTION CENTER

Mrs. Summers also told the commission that the proposed project's convention center, restaurant and motel complex do not meet the commission's own requirement that fill be limited to "bay-oriented commercial-recreation and water-related" purposes. Also, she noted, "other master plans encourage this sort of development around the Civic Center."

She also argued that the BCDC's master plan for the bay stipulates that "a substantial portion of such (fill) projects must be built on existing land," but that only 2.2 acres of Sausalito Associates' plan would be on existing bay fill.

The fill not only would restrict public access to the bay, but would "obstruct the water views at this strategic point along the entrance to Marin County and the Redwood Empire," said Mrs. Summers, terming Richardson Bay "our gem."

TIDELAND ISSUE

She also noted that the developer's plan shows open water on tideland owned by

RARE WEST MARIN EVENT

Children Watch Wheels Of Justice

By MARY LEYDECKER

Jury trials in West Marin are rare and cherished events — and a sadder but wiser Petaluma motorcyclist can now testify that when justice is meted out in sleepy Point Reyes Station, proceedings scarcely resemble life in the big city.

At stake was not a man's life — or even his freedom — rather 22-year-old Daniel Hlebakos had asked for a jury to determine whether he was guilty of two traffic violations.

The last previous jury trial in Northwest Marin Justice Court, which handles mainly cases of people accused of digging too many clams or shooting deer out of season, was about a year and a half ago.

Since the justice court, over which Judge David R. Baty presides, is not large enough to hold a jury, another location has to be found for such trials.

For the trial Wednesday, West Marin School District Supt. Howard F. Brose volunteered the West Marin School multi-purpose room, which has been used before for this purpose.

"I decided the taxpayers should get something for the three or four hundred dollars it costs to have a jury trial," Brose said. "What better chance for the youngsters to have a first-hand civics lesson."

So for the weeks preceding the trial, the sixth, seventh and eighth graders at the school studied trials, practicing on mock cases involving charges like gum-chewing.

"It didn't go very well, though, because the kids hadn't actually seen a trial," said teacher Myron Conway.

Wednesday the stage was set for the real event.

By 10 a.m. the multi-purpose room had been turned into a courtroom, with 12 chairs for the jury, a judge's bench under the basketball hoop and tables for the opposing attorneys. At the last minute Superintendent Brose entered the room with a sponge in hand, announcing that the judge's bench looked sticky.

Housewives, many of them mothers of children in the school, and roughly clad men who had been summoned for jury duty began to arrive. Judge Baty was there, and Constable Michael McLean, known for the bloodhounds he raises, was ready to act as both bailiff and witness for the prosecution.

More police cars drove up to the school — a highway patrolan and several sheriff's deputies appeared. Deputy District Attorney Ernest C. Zunino was on hand to prosecute the case, and the defendant had in his corner, Petaluma attorney Guy Lounibos.

Young Hlebakos, looking very slicked up in a blue blazer and white turtleneck shirt, glanced nervously about.

At that point several dozen youngsters marched in quietly, taking places on folding chairs. Hlebakos gave

Olympics On; Mexico City Riots Ebb

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Students burned trolley cars near an Olympic field and armored cars kept their guns trained on apartment buildings where snipers had holed up, but most of the Mexican capital was quiet last night.

Despite the eruption of the student rebellion into a shooting battle with army troops Wednesday night, the Olympic games still were set to open a week from Saturday.

"As guests of Mexico, we have full confidence that the Mexican people. . .will join the participants and spectators in celebrating the games, a veritable oasis in a troubled world," said Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, after an emergency meeting of the committee.

A count of casualties at hospitals and police stations showed at least 27 persons killed in Wednesday night's fighting and some Mexico City newspapers reported death tolls as high as 40. There was no official estimate of the number wounded, but it appeared to be in the hundreds. Various sources reported between 1,000 and 1,500 arrested.

The government has reported 20 deaths. Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, secretary of defense, said one of the dead was

Trimmed Foreign Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today a foreign aid appropriation bill totaling $1.932 billion, a record low amount that is almost $1 billion below President Johnson's request.

A 44-13 vote after only a short debate sent the bill to conference to resolve differences with a House-approved version.

The Senate bill is $317 million above the measure passed by the House last month and was the last of the year's regular appropriations measures to clear the Senate.

Chicago Uproar Probers Recess; Witnesses Stalk Out In Dispute

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — A congressional probe of the anti-war protest at the Democratic National Convention will be halted until December, its chairman said today.

Peace demonstrators and their attorneys today staged a walkout from the House Un-American Activities subcommittee hearing at the start of the third day in a protest against the ouster of one of the lawyers.

The chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., told a newsman that the hearings would be recessed at the end of the day and would not resume until about Dec. 1 because of the panel's busy schedule. Congress is expected to adjourn next week.

The subcommittee has yet to question Yippie leader Jerry Rubin, pacifist David Dellinger who led the 1967 march on the Pentagon and three other protest leaders under subpoena.

The walkout followed efforts by Abbie Hoffman's lawyer to get him released. Hoffman, a leader of the so-called Youth International Party, was arrested Thursday, while waiting to appear at the hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, under the new flag desecration law because police thought his shirt was made from an American flag.

Hoffman's attorney, Gerald Leffcourt, interrupted testimony at today's session of the hearings to protest that police on Capitol Hill had refused to release Hoffman in spite of a release order by a judge.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., committee chairman, tried to gavel Leffcourt into silence and finally told police to escort him from the hearing room.

As he was led away, another

Sommerhalder's Life Now In Jury's Hands

By STEPHEN COOK

The life of Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, convicted of a Marin double murder and accused of a third killing, was in the hands of 12 Marin County men and women today.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner brought the seven-week trial to a close this afternoon and gave the case to the seven men and five women, who must decide if the 25-year-old killer is to die by cyanide gas at San Quentin or serve a life term in the prison.

Sommerhalder, leader of Sonoma County's Grim Reapers motorcycle gang, was convicted by the same jury two weeks ago of killing Curtis and Shirley Ackley, owners of a Terra Linda barbershop, Jan. 12.

Ackley, 28, was bound and blindfolded. He died of four bullets, fired into his brain through a point behind his left ear. Mrs. Ackley, 34, was shot through the shoulder and the head. She was strangled. After death, she was stabbed twice in the back and raped.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales told the jury this morning "this is the most sadistic crime you'll ever see" and asked that they order Sommerhalder's death.

"If John Sommerhalder doesn't deserve the death penalty, then no one ever will," Bales said in his closing argument.

Public Defender Jerome C. Durham argued that no man has the right to take the life of a fellow human being.

"If you sentence John to death, each and every one of you should go down there to the gas chamber at San Quentin and watch him die," Durham said.

Life imprisonment is a harsh enough penalty for Som-

The explosion at the mine in this Wesphalian town near Dortmund was believed due to an accumulation of coat dust, but company spokesman said they had not pinned down the exact cause.

Dietrich Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Marlene Dietrich returned to Broadway last night to repeat the one-woman song show she presented last year. First nighters gave her a tumultuous reception at final curtain.

The show carries only her name as its title. It begins with the start of her career as a young actress in the film "Blue Angel," a vintage movie which dates Miss Dietrich somewhere in her 60s. A reference work says she was born in Berlin, German, in 1901.

Son Causes Scare

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jill Ireland and her 4-year-old son Valentine became separated yesterday while inspecting their new home-to-be. Her search, casual at first, developed into frantic calls to police and firemen when she noticed a ceiling-high safe was closed. She was sure it was open moments before.

Turned out that the safe, when opened, was empty. And Valentine? He'd wandered down to the corner and when a school bus stopped, he got aboard, figuring this was a good time for an inspection trip of the school he will be going to in a few years. Police found him there, unruffled and smilling.

Royal Pair Visits

NEW YORK (AP) — Traveling in separate planes — a precaution to insure a surviving monarch — Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco arrived in New York Thursday night for a brief stay.

The prince and his blonde former movie star princess flew in from Mexico where they toured Mayan ruins after visiting HemisFair in San Antonio, Tex.

Adlai's Estate

An inventory filed yesterday in Surrogate's Court showed tax claims against the estate amounting to $470,000. The chief beneficiaries were three sons, Adlai 3rd, Borden and John, each of whom receive $312,900. Their father died in London July 14, 1965, at age 65.

Planes Deploy To Posts For Apollo Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The first of eight huge tracking aircraft that will be on station around the world in support of the upcoming flight of Apollo 7 lifted off today on the first leg of its mission.

"I don't think there are words that adequately portray the importance of what you're doing," Maj. Gen. David M. Jones, commander of the Air Force's Eastern Test Range, told the aircraft crews before the first flight departed.

The other seven planes will begin their missions tomorrow.

Most of the planes will operate from Australia to serve as airborne tracking stations supplementing land and ship stations in support of the 11-day orbital voyage set to start Oct. 11.

The four-engine jets will provide two-way voice relay between the astronauts and the Apollo control center in Houston and will receive and record telemetry data broadcast from the spaceship.

"Our mission is to become invisible," Jones told the crewmen. "If we do our job properly, no one will know we're there. But if we're not there, the mission won't succeed."

An unconditional clearance to begin the countdown on Apollo 7 was given yesterday. It marked the first time in nearly two years that America has geared for a manned space flight.

Apollo 7 astronauts Walter Schirra, Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham received the "go" for an Oct. 11 launch after a day-long top-level review yesterday of all preparations for the opening round in man's drive to the moon.

"Never have so many been in such good shape and so ready to fly," said Lt. Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, the Apollo program director, at the conclusion of the moonport meeting.

The session, called a flight readiness review, was the last major hurdle before the start of the long countdown on the first manned Apollo spaceship and its Saturn 1B rocket Sunday.

Injuries Minor

Kenneth Charles Walby, 18, of Sacramento, was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday for a cut forehead and right ear after his car hit gravel and slid off Sunny Oak Drive, Santa Venetia, at 11:15 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

Senate Blocks Cut, Votes Pentagon Its Full Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate, beating back all attempts to trim the largest appropriations bill in U.S. history, has voted to give the Pentagon $71.9 billion to run the Vietnam War and provide for the nation's defense over the coming year.

The measure, containing funds for deployment of a controversial and limited anti-ballistic missile system to protect against nuclear attack from Communist China, must now be reconciled in conference with a slightly larger $72.2 billion bill passed by the House.

The Senate approved the measure by a vote of 55 to 2—only Democratic Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska and Stephen Young of Ohio were opposed—after overwhelmingly rejecting a series of cutting amendments proposed by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

Chain Purchases Bay Bookstores

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Brentano's Inc., a nationwide bookselling chain, announced Thursday it had purchased the two Paul Elder & Co. stores in San Francisco.

No price was made public. The stores were founded by Paul Elder Sr. in 1898. His son said only that "My wife Eloise and I have been working too hard, too long."

Brentano's also said it had bought Campbell's Book Store in Los Angeles.

Well-Seasoned Event

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — Miss Janice Pepper, 22, will marry Francis Salt, 25, in a ceremony here tomorrow.

Russ Send Ships Past Bosporus

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A large Soviet destroyer equipped with missile launchers passed through the Bosporus from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean today. A 20-ton floating dock followed.

There now are two heavy destroyers of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. The first passed through here Sept. 20.

Istanbul port authorities said the floating dock was towed by two ocean tugs and escorted by an auxiliary ship.

Reliable sources say the Russians now have six conventional and one nuclear submarine in the Mediterranean. Other Soviet naval units in the Mediterranean now are reported to include three escort ships, three fast escort ships, 31 supply vessels and an undetermined number of minesweepers, minelayers and patrol boats.

Symphony Opens Drive For Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Symphony, faced with a $2.2 million budget and expecting the largest deficit in its history, is campaigning for funds.

The drive opened yesterday although the season doesn't begin until next month.

The symphony bills itself as a statewide orchestra. Fourteen of its 167 concerts are given in communities outside San Francisco. Officials said 50 per cent of the symphony's support comes from residents of other communities.

A Third Heart?

CHICAGO (AP)—The world's longest-living heart transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, may eventually get another heart, his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, told newsmen.

Barnard, the South African who pioneered transplantation, said yesterday he expected that Blaiberg's heart given him last January eventually would be rejected by his body and that he would get a new heart when it is. "We cannot prevent the process of rejection, we can only slow it down," Barnard said.

Barnard said Blaiberg was in good health.

STANDING OVATION

Fortas To Critics: 'I Will Persevere'

NEW YORK (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas says he will "persevere" in the fight for civil liberties and says "fundamental human rights" guaranteed in the 14th amendment are under attack.

"Be careful on this issue of 'law and order,' a great phrase to which strange meanings are being attached," Fortas said last night at a New York University Law School conference on the 100th anniversary of the 14th Amendment.

It was the 58-year-old justice's first public appearance since he withdrew Wednesday as President Johnson's nominee for U.S. chief justice. He took the step after the Senate failed to cut off a filibuster against his nomination.

Fortas got a standing ovation of several minutes when he entered the filled, 500-seat auditorium and brought the audience to its feet several times during his speech.

He was preceded at the lectern by Arthur J. Goldberg whom Fortas succeeded on the Supreme Court in 1965 when Goldberg became U.S. ambassador to the United Nations a post he has since resigned.

Noting Fortas' presence, Goldberg said he did not want to act "like an ostrich with my head in the sand."

"I want to express, here and now," he said, "my very profound regret at the wrongful action of the United States Senate."

He said his wife, Dorothy, had called Fortas Wednesday night to offer sympathy and had reminded him of a Benjamin Franklin quotation which said, in essence, "One must persevere through insult and injury .... Time will do you justice."

Ignoring his 26-page prepared speech, Fortas said, "I hope that this nation will proceed to the fulfillment of our constitutional values. I fear that we are again in a national crisis where we who believe in this nation . . . where we who believe in the 14th Amendment, will be put to it to defend it.

"Mr. Justice, tell Dorothy, as I could not after I got her wonderful call yesterday, so far as I am concerned, I shall persevere."

College Board Opposes Watson Amendment

Marin Junior College District trustees last night called for preparation of a resolution opposing Proposition 9, (the Watson Amendment) supporting Proposition 1-A and citing the need for overall reform of the tax structure in California.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy said passage of Proposition 9 would cause fiscal turmoil and would be a threat to local participation in school operation.

Under the Watson amendment property tax levies would be limited to 1 per cent of market value and the use of property tax revenues to support schools and welfare would be phased out over a five-year period.

The amendment would eliminating a source of revenue to support education without providing for alternative sources, and could result in higher sales and income taxes and work "a real hardship on those in lower income brackets," Mrs. Deedy said.

Proposition 1-A, the alternative tax reform measure, provides for more orderly change and should be supported, Mrs. Deedy said.

She suggested that the board also call for a reform of the tax structure which would adequately support education without eliminating local control.

The board approved sponsorship of a debate on Proposition 9, to be conducted at Olney Hall on the Kentfield campus at 8:15 p.m. on Oct. 24.

Acting College President Louis H. Herkenhoff said both sides of the issue would be presented, and the college will sponsor the session as part of its community service program.

Donald K. Felt, an attorney, of Mill Valley, and Charles W. Gray, an employee relations director, of San Rafael, were sworn in as new trustees at the opening of last night's session.

Hospital Blast Kills Workman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An explosion in the boiler room of Children's Hospital killed one employee last night and shattered the hospital's gas and water mains. None of the patients was injured.

The victim was tentatively identified as Donald Autrey, 30, who apparently was working on one of the main boilers when a gas leak exploded.

The blast rocked the Richmond District and shattered windows in the east wing of the hospital. Some patients were moved for security reasons as flakes from the ceiling showered down on them.

Novato Told New Campus Due By 1972

Theodore C. Wellman, president of the Marin Junior College District board, told the Novato Chamber of Commerce yesterday that, despite a projected shortage in capital funds, the North Marin campups of the College of Marin probably will open in 1972, on schedule.

Wellman said the district expects to have obtained $15.5 to $16 million when a 35-cent override tax expires in 1972, but that the estimated cost of capital improvements at the Kentfield and North Marin campus is $27.4 million.

Wellman, addressing chamber members Wednesday, was asked by Joseph Gargilulo, a former college trustee, why a Novatan had not been selected to fill one of the vacancies on the board. Wellman said no one from North Marin applied.

Trustees Set Workshop On Student Demands For Roles

Marin Junior College District trustees, faced with student demand for a greater role in planning, will hold an open discussion session with students, faculty members and citizens Tuesday.

Trustees last night called for what they termed a workshop session at 8 p.m. at Rooms G1 and G2 in the physical education building.

Two weeks ago the Students For Academic Freedom demanded that the district cease construction of a $522,800 football field and track and begin construction of a new library.

At that time Michael McGinn, a member of SAF, also demanded an open meeting "within a week" at which the board would hear from students, faculty and community and improve communication between the board and the community.

Board Presdient Theodore C. Wellman said last night the board welcomes student involvement and all viewpoints will be considered.

However, he warned that the board "does not propose to be hurried into making any premature decisions which the entire community might later regret."

Acting President Louis H. Herkenhoff suggested that the focal point of the discussion be the relationships of students to the rest of the academic community and the relationships of the students, faculty, administration and board to the larger community.

Student participation in college operation and planning could be covered during the discussions, he said.

The question of the athletic field and the library undoubtedly will come up, said Trustee Robert E. Oliver, who urged students to get all pertinent information in advance of the session.

Wellman said the board is interested "in communication and more understanding," and the workshop session, "fits the goal." He said he didn't feel that regular board meetings, with long business agendas, should be used for prolonged discussion.

Wellman said it was not practical or advisable for the board to make immediate response to suggestions when they are presented for the first time.

He noted that another method for exchange of ideas between trustees and students is the recently inaugurated "dialogue" sessions with the Associated Students and trustees.

Herkenhoff said the result of Tuesday's session "might be further meetings" and some of the ideas advanced could be reflected in administrative recommendations to the board and "in board decisions."

Tiburon Fire Protection District Commission has Kelly J. Wheller as president.

Student Violence Hits Brazil City

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A student was reported killed in the second straight day of disorders yesterday in Sao Paulo. Dozens were injured and police arrested 40 persons.

Mounted police battled students in an antigovernment demonstration timed to coincide with the visit of President Arthur da Costa e Silva who was here for meetings with political, military and industrial leaders.

The students set fire to a car in a downtown plaza, threw fire bombs, set off fireworks and overturned several cars.

Harlan Hall Doomed But Name Stays

Harlan Hall, landmark on the College of Marin's Kentfield campus, will be demolished next summer, but the Harlan name will remain.

Annual Picnic

The Marin Estates Homeowners Association last night scheduled its annual picnic for 11 a.m. Sunday in Paradise Beach Park near Tiburon. It also discussed its continuing drive for new memberships. Membership committee chairman is Jack McKittrick.

Grand Jury Target Back In Marin On Dope Charge

San Rafael police last night picked up James Dewey Bell, 33, at San Francisco City Prison and booked him into Marin County Jail on a warrant charging him with possessing a dangerous drug.

The warrant stemmed from a search of Bell's San Rafael house Monday in which police said they found more than a pound of methamphetamine and almost 1,000 Benzadrine pills.

Bell posted $2,500 bail in San Francisco, but has not posted the $12,500 bail set here on the Marin charge. He was accused in San Francisco of selling half a pound of methamphetamine to a federal narcotics agent Monday.

Bell also was indicted in February by the Marin Grand Jury for sales of methamphetamine, and narcotics agents believe him to be one of the major Bay Area narcotics dealers.

Bell was to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court on the new possession charge. He is also to appear Thursday before the U.S. commissioner in San Francisco for the alleged sale there, and is to go on trial the week of Oct. 14 in Marin Superior Court on the February charge.

attorney, William Kunstler, objected and said all the attorneys would leave until Leffcourt was allowed back into the room. At least five attorneys walked out along with eight of the veterans of the Chicago demonstrations who have been subpoenaed to testify.

Prior to the walkout Kunstler tried to put into the hearing record a report that his client, Jerry Rubin, another Yippie leader, had been threatened.

Ichord ruled him out of order, bringing Rubin to his feet, shouting: "Last night Nazis tear-gassed my room and threatened to get me today."

Rubin sat down after Ichord threatened to have him ejected.

Rubin told reporters that when he returned to his hotel room last night, there was a strong odor of tear gas in his room.

He said a card bearing the name of the "National Socialist White Party," bearing a swastika, was tacked to his door.

He said police were called and while they were there he received a telephone call which one of the officers listened to in which someone named "Julius" said "we're going to get you."

Kappas Seeking A Fill Permit

George Kappas wants to dump 1,000 cubic yards of fill to raise levees at his Kappas Yacht Harbor so that they will be at least a foot above the highest anticipated tides.

His application for a fill permit has been submitted to the Richardson Bay Fill Committee, composed of Public Works Director Donald R. Frost, County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney.

The committee will recommend to the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday that the fill be permitted, but the maximum width of the fill be limited to 24 feet. Kappas' request calls for fill of varying width to a maximum of 50 feet.

Mrs. Buchignani Granted Divorce

a soldier. He said the high rate of casualties among civilians was the result of their "confusion."

No injuries were reported in yesterday's incidents. Students burned three streetcars in front of the Aztec Stadium where Olympic soccer games will be played, and fled before police made any arrests. Hit-and-run gunmen fired apparently random sprays of bullets in various sections of the city.

Besides armored cars parked in front of the Plaza of Three Cultures, where students were rallying when the Wednesday shooting broke out, there were other signs of continued unease.

The Mexican Olympic organizing committee placed a police guard inside its office. The Olympic teams of several nations ordered curfews for their athletes. Soldiers stood guard at some Olympic sites. And a costly space exploration exhibit, set up in connection with the games, was moved from the University of Mexico to an Olympic committee building. A supervisor at the university said officials had heard of threats to destroy the exhibit.

Battery Charge Follows Quarrel

William R. Sadler, 47, of 600 Arthur Street, Novato, was booked into county jail early today by police on an assault and battery complaint by a friend of his wife who said he had knocked her to the floor during an argument at home.

Betty Ann Gass, 30, of 1001 San Jose Boulevard, Novato, suffered a sprained right arm in the argument, police said. Officers were called to the Sadler home at 4:30 a.m.

Sadler was held on $440 bail, and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. today.

Manager's Post Created For Cotati

Cotati City Council last night created the position of city manager and appointed to the post Gordon C. Howe, the city's clerk-administrator.

Howe, former city manager of Seaside and Saratoga, had recently been a building inspector with the Sonoma School District and was hired last month at a salary of $833 per month, which remains unchanged.

Councilmen also approved an agreement with the Cotati Elementary School District in which the city will assume costs for increasing the water line to the new Thomas Page School on Richardson Lane from four to eight inches.

Also approved an ordinance which will double all business license taxes effective Jan. 1, 1969., and the authorization of a facsimile stamp for Mayor Morris J. Houser and Deputy Treasurer Edward Lewitter.

A request from Kenneth Garner for waiver of curbs, gutters and sidewalks on his East Sierra Avenue property was continued until the Oct. 17 meeting pending a study by the city engineer. Garner said the narrowness of the street and its height in relation to the properties cause a drainage problem making improvements difficult.

Letter Bodes Investigation At College

A letter on page 2 of the College of Marin Times which appeared today promised to result in another investigation of campus liberties.

The letter, over which the name of Gerald F. Schoenstein, appeared in the "Readers' Rap" letters column of the college newspaper.

It referred to an appearance by a candidate for student office. It said:

"Tuesday you listened to a candidate for sophomore representative tell you that he was going to kill some of you in a civil war. Nobody objected. He told you that if he was elected he would not represent you. Nobody objected. He called you . . . (two unprintable expressions appear in print here in the college paper) . . . You applauded".

It then repeats the same expressions, raising the question of whether what the speaker called the students is true.

Robert E. Rogers, vice president of the Marin Junior College District Board, on learning of the letter said, "I will certainly ask the administration what steps they feel are appropriate to be taken."

He indicated responsibility must lie with the administrative staff both for the speech to which the letter referred and for the general control of the campus newspaper.

Finance Panel Studies Programs

The Reed School District's citizens committee on fiances and programs Wednesday night reviewed the first and second grade programs at Belvedere and Tiburon schools and the third grade program at Reed School, Reed principal Jack Usilton reported today.

The committee, which is the entire district, presently gathering data for its study, asked staff to prepare a written description of the current school program, Usilton said.

Prior to the start of the meeting, the committee toured Tiburon School.

The third-sixth grade program at Reed School and the seventh and eight grade program at Del Mar School will be discussed at the committee's next meeting 8 p.m. Wednesday at Granada School.

sire to end the war is balanced by a determination to hold out for a viable peace settlement that can avert the need of a new American intervention with a few years.

Nixon was relaxed and amidable throughout our talk in his private compartment in the forward section of the chartered United Airlines 727. For a man in the middle of a gruelling election campaign, he seemed remarkably rested and free of tension.

This poise is something he's worked hard to achieve—it's part of the "new Nixon"—but it also stems from his confidence that he has this election won. He is so certain of victory that he doesn't talk like a candidate, even in private. He talks like a president-elect.

He hasn't forgotten 1948, when Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey, way out in front in all of the polls, managed to "snatch defeat from the jaws of victory." But Nixon assures you that there is no "Dewey syndrome" in his 1968 campaign. Nothing is being taken for granted, he insists. He is going to pour on the coal, campaigning as hard as an underdog, right up to Nov. 5. And he's glad to see Republican workers taking the same keep-slugging attitude in all of the swing states.

Having been himself written off as a political corpse on several occasions, Nixon is not about to proclaim Hubert H. Humphrey "dead" so far as this campaign is concerned. He expects to see the Democratic candidate gain several percentage points in the drift back to the party ticket. But in Nixon's seasoned political judgment, it would take a "big event" — something comparable to a peace settlement in Vietnam—to give Humphrey any chance at all of winning.

Third party candidate George Wallace is causing Nixon concern. He doesn't think Wallace has a chance of winning the presidency, but he worries about the impact that Wallace's campaign will have, after the election, on the new administration's chances of reuniting the nation.

Runoff Due For College Class Seat

College of Marin student elections for the posts of freshmen and sophomore representatives ended yesterday with three persons elected but with a runoff required for the position of freshmen men's representative.

That post saw candidate David Hyams lead with 214 votes, followed by Paul Thomson, 121 votes, and Oherrau Marshall, 107. Because Hyams failed to gain a 50 per cent majority, the runoff will be between him and Thomson.

Date of the election will be scheduled later by David Brown, parlimentarian, associated students' officials said.

Marti Musgrave was elected freshmen women's representative with 289 votes. She was opposed by Susan Davidson, who received 132 votes.

Winner of the sophomore women's seat was Lynne Anderson by 280 votes to 110 for her opponent, Eileen O'Connell.

Christopher J. Musser tallied 182 votes to win a majority for the sophomore men's post. Raymond A. Lawler received 41 votes and Edward Schimberg, 53.

The three new officers brings the total members on the student's executive council to 13. Following the runoff election, the final complement will be 14. The three-day election in the student center started Tuesday. Officer term is for the current fall semester.

merhalder to pay, Durham said.

The prosecutor told the jury that Sommerhalder led his 20-year-old codefendant, Kenneth Allen Preston, to murder.

Sommerhalder probably did all the killing the night of Jan. 12, then ordered Preston, a junior college dropout who reportedly never was in trouble before in his life, to stab the dead woman and participate in her rape, Bales said.

"This man wanted all witnesses involved. Ken Preston had to put a knife in the back of a dead woman so he would be involved," Bales said.

Preston, whose separate trial began in Marin Superior Court last May, was sentenced to death and is now on San Quentin's Death Row.

Both Preston and Sommerhalder deny killing the Ackleys, according to psychiatrists who interviewed each after their convictions. Preston was also a Grim Reaper.

Both juries heard psychiatrists testify that the young killers are sociopaths — men without conscience, who take what they want, when they want it, without thought to the consequences.

Only one out of the three psychiatrists who testified at each trial thought either of the killers was a good prospect for rehabilitation.

Sommerhalder, an ex-convict, is also accused of killing junior college student Charles Kaufmann, 19, in Santa Rosa Oct. 7, 1967.

Preston, who was along at the time of that killing, pleaded guilty in Santa Rosa to kidnaping Kaufmann's 18-year-old date.

Mrs. Betty Capps, his widow, will accept the trophy in his memory. Ray J. Nesbit, executive officer of the state wildlife conservation board, will be named conservationist of the year.

ELMER CHRISTIANSEN

Elmer Christiansen of Tiburon, a retired slate and tile roofer, died yesterday at his home. he was 66.

Christiansen was found by his wife, Elise, at the foot of a ladder outside his home and was pronounced dead at 12:40 p.m. by Dr. Joseph A. Moore of Mill Valley.

Keith Craig, Marin County coroner's investigator said Christiansen had been working on the roof of his home all morning and appeared to have collapsed and fallen off the ladder. Craig attributed death to natural causes, noting Christiansen had a history of heart disease.

A native of Aalborg, Denmark, Christiansen came to the United States when he was 21 and moved to Tiburon in 1943.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley and the Roofers Union, Local No. 40 in San Francisco.

San Marin High Is Due Finish By Thanksgving

San Marin High School in Novato should be completed so that the students can move into it during the Thanksgiving vacation, contractor Royce Hall of Napa advised.

Supt. James G. Bunker at a noon meeting yesterday said completion will end split sessions for Novato and San Marin high schools. Novato High has been using the Novato campus from 7 a.m. to 12:10 p.m., with six 40-minute periods each day. San Marin High has been using the same campus from 12:10 p.m. until 4:45 p.m.

When the schools are separated, each will start at 8 a.m. and have six 50-minute periods and a lunch period with school closing at 2:10 p.m., according to Paul Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

Bunker said that he will give Hall's report to the board at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the administration building.

Originally, San Marin High was to have been completed in time for the opening of school last month.

U.N. Club Will Represent India

Sonoma State College's model United Nations Club will represent India at this year's far western conference meeting in Fresno.

Donna Ryan, club chairman, said her group received its first choice of nations to represent for the fifth straight year. She said schools are judged on past performance before being awarded the roles of major nations. Dr. William Nighswonger of the political science department is the group's advisor.

ANOTHER SHOT DOWN

Copter, Cargo Plane Collide, Killing 24

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces killed 150 enemy troops in a new outbreak of heavy fighting near the Cambodian border, along the jungled approaches to Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

Enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter ferrying ammunition to the embattled South Vietnamese mercenaries in the area. Four Americans were killed and two wounded.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that 24 Americans were killed in the collision of a big Army CH47 Chinook helicopter and an Air Force Caribou cargo plane 11 miles northwest of Hue on the coast. It was one of the worst air collisions of the war. There were no survivors.

The fighting along the Cambodian border, 60 miles northwest of Saigon was triggered at daybreak yesterday when about 400 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars were lifted into the area by American helicopters. They immediately ran into an enemy force of about 800 to 1,000 men.

Two and one-half hours later, another 400 South Vietnamese mercenaries were committed to the fight.

The battle raged throughout the day.

Preliminary reports from military spokesmen said the mercenaries also seized 10 machine guns, 25 assault rifles, and other assorted weapons and ammunition.

Government casualties were put at 15 dead and 44 wounded.

The American helicopter was brought down by machine-gun fire as it was landing. A U.S. Special Forces captain and the crew chief were killed in the flaming wreckage. The pilot and a gunner were killed by enemy riflemen as they crawled away from the wreckage after pulling out the wounded helicopter commander. The commander, a first lieutenant, and a Special Forces master sergeant, survived with minor wounds.

The new outbreak of fighting broke a week-long lull in ground action along the Cambodian border where the enemy lost 700 men during the last week of September in suicidal attacks on Green Beret camps screening infiltration routes. The enemy troops were believed to be from the Viet Cong 9th Division which has bases inside Cambodia.

In the aerial collision far to the north, headquarters said the Air Force Caribou had just taken off from Camp Evans, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division. Thirteen men were killed aboard the Caribou, including four crewmen. Eleven others were killed on the helicopter, including four crewmen.

The collision was the second worst this year. Last June 25, twelve Americans, 16 Thailand servicemen and a South Vietnamese soldier were killed when two Army helicopters collided 16 miles east-southeast of Saigon. The resulting explosion knocking down a third helicopter.

A U.S. military source said the cause of the latest aerial collision was under investigation but that "the initial indication was that it was pilot error."

The loss of the helicopter shot down and the one destroyed in the aerial collision raised to 11 the number of American aircraft downed since the first of this week.

Fair-Marin Nomination Session Set

Representatives of Fair-Marin will meet in the planning commission chambers at Civic Center at 8 p.m. Wednesday to nominate four more candidates for its board of directors.

The special meeting was called by secretary Lotte McWatters, who is now the ranking officer of the organization. President Fred F. Enemark resigned from the organization in August, and Harold Stockstad resigned from the vice presidency last Tuesday when the county supervisors asked him for a full list of 14 nominees for the board of directors.

On Sept. 16 Fair-Marin nominated 11, including supervisor Peter H. Behr, but this was cut to 10 after Behr was ruled ineligible because he is a supervisor.

County supervisors insisted that 14 nominees should be presented.

Another Slaying In Haight Flat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— More violence marred the scene in the Haight-Ashbury Thursday night when a young man was shotgunned to death in his flat.

The victim was tentatively identified as Stanley Delahanty Jr., 19.

The long-haired bearded victim was found dead in his upper apartment. He died of shotgun wounds in the stomach, police reported.

Officers said they had the name of a suspect but said he was not yet in custody.

Bayside Acres Given Sewer Annex Pledge

San Rafael Sanitation District directors agreed yesterday that the Bayside Acres area is welcome to join the district if homeowners wish to annex.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, reported he has been invited to speak at a meeting of the Bayside Acres Homeowners Association on a date to be set.

He said the annexation question was expected to be brought up and he asked for board policy on such an annexation.

Directors agreed that if homeowners in the area want to annex, district facilities would be available to them, but residents would have pay for their own lines to connect.

On a proposal for a joint study with the Ross Valley Sanitary District for a long range plan for treatment and disposal facilities, Rawles said the Ross Valley district has expressed interest.

On the chance that it could be a three-way study, he and Ralph Noah, manager of the Ross Valley district, are going to meet with representatives of San Quentin to see if they would join in the planning, Rawles reported.

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board also:

SEPTIC TANK — Denied a request by Joseph Gereghty for a septic tank on a lot on Brodea Way, and restated the policy against permitting new septic tanks in the district.

FEE WAIVER — Granted Art Madsen Jr. of 162 Alpine Street waiver of the $125 connection fee to hook up a line from his photographic darkroom.

MEETING DATE — Scheduled its next session for Oct. 23, and changed its regular meeting date to the first and third Wednesdays of each month, instead of Thursdays.

Kennedy Endorses Cranston For Senate

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy yesterday endorsed the candidacy of Alan Cranston for U.S. senator, Cranston's campaign headquarters announced.

Kennedy, in a statement from his Washington office, said Cranston "is a man of wisdom and maturity, but above all a man who understands the problems of his state and nation and has the capacity and compassion to deal with them."

Californian Keeps AAA Presidency

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Harry D. Holt of Stockton was elected president yesterday of the 11 million member American Automobile Association.

Holt was appointed to the presidency last April following the death of the AAA's president, George M. Frauenheim of Buffalo.

William B. Bachmaner of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., was elected senior vice president by the 1,000 delegates attending the group's 66th annual meeting.

Dress Theft Denied

Barbara Jeanne Jurado, 33, of Ignacio, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of stealing a dress Sept. 24 from Macy's in San Rafael. Jury trial was set for Jan. 23.

FLOOD WARNING

Disastrous general flooding is inevitable unless the senseless construction in the Corte Madera Creek bed at the Stadium Way Bridge, Kentfield (off McAllister) is halted and deferred until after the winter rains.

Presently there are 2 earth dams across the creek as well as other major obstructions to the natural flow of impending rainwater in this critical flood area.

Property owners in Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo should investigate for themselves immediately.

'LOOK IN MIRROR'

Honesty Held Key To Healing Racism

By DAVID DIETZ

A white teacher and a black student may express it in a different way, but the message on racial divisions is identical.

The message, according to Mrs. Helaine S. Dawson, an adult educator in the San Francisco public schools, is that whites must be "honest, sincere and committed" if the races are to find common bond.

The message, as delivered by 20-year-old Horace White of Marin City, is that "you should go home and look at yourselves in the mirror and say, 'What can I do to help my black brothers and sisters in the ghetto'."

Mrs. Dawson, a red-haired, effervescent former social worker, and White, spirited and demanding, spoke last night at a Marin conference on humans rights at Olney Hall of the College of Marin.

Mrs. Dawson was guest speaker, but Whtie arose later from the audience and said he wanted to say what was on his mind.

Calling for educational reforms to involve disinterested students, Mrs. Dawson addressed her remarks both to educators and members of the predominantly white audience.

"We have to admit there is a white racist society in this country," she said, adding that the principles of white, middle class America have guided education to the detriment of black people.

In schools, she said, "We follow the text — no matter what the student's needs or what the problem is in the classroom. What is missing is a little listening. It has to be both ways.

"The whole concept of education must change. Education should mean the development of individual differences and the uniqueness of individuals. It should not be putting a student in a box and coming up with a carbon copy of a white, middle class person."

Mrs. Dawson, who formerly taught a class of troubled Hunters Point youth and wrote a book, "On the Outskirts of Hope," about her experiences, added:

"I learn a great deal from my students. People think the authoritarian approach in schools is good; that the teacher is the authority. I don't worry about that. If young people in school are turned on, disciplinary problems go by the board."

Later, describing early conduct in her Hunters Point class, she said: "I don't criticize four letter words because that's the language of the street."

Mrs. Dawson said she was successful in gaining the attention and respect of the 50 students and linked it to her approach that the "relationship between the student and teacher should come first."

"Learning," she said, "is exchange and motivation."

White said he found little desire for action from white people to solve racial ills.

"I've been going to meetings of the Juvenile Justice Commission each month and they asked me, 'What can we do?' So I stood there for two and a half hours and told them," White said. "When I came back the next time, they asked me, 'What can we do:'"

Referring to a suggestion raised at the conference to set up a small secretarial school in Marin City, White said:

"There is not need to come into Marin City. You have the College of Marin right here. There are classrooms. We have our own transportation system to bring the people here.

"If you want to do something, come up here and teach for free. Or provide transportation for some of the people from Marin City."

Mrs. Stewart N. Boxer of Greenbrae, coordinator of the conference, attended by representatives of numerous groups working in human rights, asked White to advise on creation of the special school at the college. He agreed.

NASA Still Seeks Lunar Landing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space agency officials say they still hope to have an American on the moon next year, despite congressional spending cuts.

Paine said the agency plans to stage a test flight of a moon ship by March at the latest.

Webb retires Monday. Paine becomes NASA's acting head.

Three Suspects Deny Marijuana Charges

Three men pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges they possessed marijuana Sept. 26 in Corte Madera.

William Edward Haskell, 22, of Corte Madera, Robin L. Morris, 21, of Santa Cruz, and George Nolan Ponder, 26, of San Francisco, were ordered to appear for preliminary hearing at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 20.

a quick smile as he looked at the rows of children, mostly serious-faced but a few nudging and jostling.

"We only let the more mature kids come in the morning," teacher Conway said later.

At last it was time — and Judge Baty explained that Hlebakos was charged with two violations of the vehicle code — driving on the wrong side of a double line and driving at an unsafe speed.

What he didn't say was that young Hlebakos, who works as a truck driver for his father's wholesale produce firm, has had so many previous traffic violations, according to arresting officers, that he is in danger of losing his license or facing a big jump in insurance payments.

As the trial got underway, Clerk Stella Philipscheck called out the names of the jurors chosen. It soon became apparent when Zunino and Lounibos began to examine jurors, that getting a jury was not going to be an easy task.

Most of the people questioned knew the three officers who were to testify, Constable McLean, Deputy Weldon Travis and Highway Patrolman Irwin Cantieri, who grew up in West Marin. Another batch of people either knew Lounibos, his father or his brother, and one woman was a shirttail relation of the defense attorney.

The rest of the jurors challenged by Lounibos were related to various kinds of law officers.

When the original panel of jurors had been exhausted, and a 12th juror was still needed, Judge Baty ordered Constable McLean and Deputy Travis to go find some more people.

The children were excused to go out on the playground, while the law officers went searching. "I got two," the first one back said, having rounded up prospective jurors in the local store. "Well, I found four," the other triumphantly claimed.

A woman clad in jeans and a sweatshirt, who had no relatives or friends involved in the case, was finally approved as the 12th juror. By this time it was the lunch hour.

After bag lunches and more time on the playground for the children, and a foray into Point Reyes's two eating places for the defense, prosecution and press, proceedings resumed.

For the afternoon session, about 100 children filed in. As the law officers began to testify about a fracas at Clay's Farmhouse down the road in Olema followed by six motorcyclists roaring through Point Reyes Station on the wrong side of the highway, the wiggling of the youngsters abruptly stopped.

The chase down the Point Reyes-Petaluma Road by the lawmen after the six motorcyclists was described, and it came out that Deputy Gary Bartolotti, not present at the trial, had turned the wrong way, thinking they had gone to Marshall.

Constable McLean and Deputy Travis told how McLean clocked Hlebakos at 75 miles per hour on the winding road, finally stopping him and four other cyclists, with one getting away.

By the time the law officers had been cross-examined, the 3 p.m. school dismissal bell rang loudly and firmly. A hasty exit by the children to catch school buses was made, but about 30 of them returned after calling home to see if they could stay until the end.

Those remained heard Hlebakos testify that he had not driven on the wrong side of the road. "Hitting a car headon on a motorcycle would be kind of hurting," he said.

He also claimed he had only driven 55 miles per hour, an estimate backed up by a fellow cyclist, William Tomrose of Novato, who volunteered the information that he had no speedometer on his cycle.

The sun was sinking rapidly and the last youngsters left were yawning when Judge Baty sent the jury to decide the case. After an hour and a half deliberation, a verdict of guilty on both counts was reached.

Anti-climactic was the sentence — $15 fine for each count.

Yesterday the children spent most of their time in their own juries of 12 youngsters each, seven juries in all. By 10:30 a.m. three of the juries had agreed with their adult counterpart — guilty on both counts. Later, another came to the same conclusion. However, two juries would have convicted Hlebakos only on the count of speeding but not crossing the double line.

One jury was hung.

After all was said and done, everyone had learned a lot — maybe even young Mr. Hlebakos.

other persons. "What assurance have we that the areas shown as open water will not also be filled?" she asked.

"Potential public enjoyment and use of Richardson Bay," she concluded, "should not be sacrificed in the name of encouraging private commercial development."

HOUSEBOATER TALKS

Also opposing the plan was Candra Vogel, who said she lives aboard a houseboat in the bay and that the plan "drastically affects the houseboat community."

Another opponent, Dee Cameron of Mill Valley said she was "thoroughly appalled by this monstrosity you want to put in my front yard." How can an 850-room, 16-story hotel be water-related, she asked.

The state Fish and Game Department also questioned the plan's effect on fish and wildlife in the bay.

Speaking for Sausalito Associates was the firm's attorney, Albert Bianchi of San Rafael. Terming present conditions in the Richardson Bay "an aesthetic atrocity," he said his client's plan "will go a long way toward correcting this."

The site "is particularly apropos" for a convention center because it is close to San Francisco, he said.

'EXCITING THING'

Robert Bennighof, who drew Sausalito Associates' plan, said the two high-rise hotels would be "a visual accent on the bay and would, of course, be a very exciting thing."

The general partners in Sausalito Associates are Frank Hanses and William M. Nelson of Tiburon and Tom E. Nowell of Mill Valley.

Letters to the commission, favoring the plan, were received from the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

KAPPAS OPPOSES

George Kappas, who holds leases to adjacent tideland properties, wrote that he opposed the plan because it would cut off access to some of his property and make other parts of his property a lagoon.

Unusually sharp questioning by commissioners followed the closing of the public hearing, and their staff was asked to report Oct. 18 on how the plan relates to other proposed development in the bay, how much mud will have to be disposed of when Saucelito Canal is dredged, and how Kappas' objections affect the plan.

WHAT ASSURANCE?

Sonoma County Supervisor Leigh S. Shoemaker warned that if the project "is going to be like the pile of broken down boats, autos and houseboats we have there now, then it ought to be flushed. What assurance do we have that we won't get the same thing?" he asked.

Marin Supervisor Pete H. Behr, who voted for the project as a supervisor, did not speak yesterday. As the only Marin supervisor on the commission, his vote could determine whether the fill application is approved because several commissioners from other counties will look to him on how to vote.

ONE SHORT

Only 12 commissioners were present yesterday, one short of the necessary 13 to get a fill permit. If 13 or more are present Oct. 18, the vote will have to be almost unanimous for Sausalito Associates to get its fill permit.

The Marin supervisors, at the urging of Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, voted Sept. 10 to endorse 11 acres of fill as well as 17 acres, leaving the choice to the BCDC. Commission chairman Melvin B. Lane of Menlo Park, however, said that only the 17-acre plan was before the commission.

The plan envisions an 850-room hotel about 16 stories high, a 130-room motel up to about 10 stories, a "boatel-motel facility" with shops up to four stories high, restaurant, gas station, shoreline parkway, eight-acre lagoon and "transportation center" for boats and helicopters.

Sirhan Trial Delay Will Be Argued

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan B. Sirhan's defense attorney today was given an Oct. 14 court date to argue for postponement to January of Sirhan's trial on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Attorney Russell E. Parsons told Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer that the original Nov. 1 trial date would almost certainly mean that the jury would have to be locked up each night during the holiday season, through Christmas.

Judge Schauer instructed Parsons to argue the motion before Judge Herbert V. Walker, whom he formally announced as the Sirhan trial judge. Walker, a 68-year-old courtroom veteran, was present as an observer today in the brief hearing inside a specially-guarded makeshift courtroom in the Hall of Justice near Sirhan's jail cell.

Walker also will hear two other defense motions Oct. 14. One would suppress certain unspecified evidence that Parsons said was seized in Sirhan's home in Pasadena following Kennedy's fatal shooting June 5. The other seeks access to statements and other evidence the state has collected from a variety of prospective witnesses in the trial.

In giving notice today that he would seek to delay the trial, Parsons explained that the U.S. Supreme Court has suggested sequestering jurors "during major trials," and that this should be the case in the Sirhan trial. He pointed out that the Nov. 1 trial date would mean locking up jurors nightly probably between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Meanwhile in San Francisco, the California Supreme Court yesterday denied an attempt to lift the court-imposed news curb on the Sirhan case. District Attorney Evelle J. Younger, who will prosecute the Jordanian for murder, filed a petition Sept. 30 claiming that the news ban was an abridgement of the First Amendment guarantees of freedom of speech and press.

Woman Cyclist Injured In Crash

Frances Simpson, 26, of 600 Northern Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was treated overnight Wednesday at Marin General Hospital for a possible concussion suffered Wednesday afternoon when the motorcycle she was riding hit a car on Miller Avenue, according to Mill Valley police.

Police said she was driving out of Kiser Brothers Honda at 465 Miller Avenue at 5:10 p.m. and ran into a car driven by Fern V. Starr, 51, of 770 Panoramic Highway.

A DRIFTER USES A RUG FOR BED ROLL

George Pace drove his truck into the Sunny Hills Bargain Box at 607 Irwin Street, San Rafael, today and heard a yelp when the vehicle approached a pile of rugs.

There, rolled up inside a rug, like a disheveled Cleopatra, was an unidentified drifter. He said he had slept the night there while en route to San Francisco.

Police shooed the drifter onto Highway 101 for the rest of his journey.

Couple Booked In Drug Probe

A Fairfax couple was booked into county jail last night by Fairfax police on suspicion of possession of marijuana and of narcotics paraphernalia.

Denis Lee Kelly, 26, and his wife, Cheryl, 27, of 683 Cascade Drive, were released on $625 bail each, and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. today.

Police reported that a search of the Kellys' home turned up a substance believed to be marijuana. The search followed issuance of a search warrant, following a tip to Fairfax police from the Contra Costa County sheriff.

200-Bed Hospital, Church Permits Sought In County

A use permit application for a medical center in Santa Venetia will come before Marin County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill Monday at 8:30 a.m. in the planning commission chambers at the civic Center.

L. B. M. Investment Co. of Orinda wants to build a general hospital of 101 beds and an extended care facility of 99 beds on North San Pedro Road about 200 feet south of Oxford Drive.

At 1:30 in the afternoon, the Valley Baptist Church will ask for a use permit to build a church on 5.3 acres of land at 13 Ranch Road, Los Ranchitos. Parking and recreation areas are planned on the church site.

Phil Ernst seeks a use permit for stabling 45 horses at 139 Wood Lane, about a quarter-mile south of Fairfax city limits. It is a portion of a 540-acre parcel fronting on the south end of Wood Lane.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of San Francisco wants to add another garden crypt mausoleum at Mount Olivet Cemetery on Los Ranchitos Road.

Because of the heavy schedule, the hearings before the zoning administrator will continue into Tuesday. Tuesday morning, Sierra National Bank will ask for a use permit to continue using a trailer as a temporary bank at 934 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, at the corner of Terrace Avenue. The bank has already moved from its former site at 917 Drake to the new location, where it plans to build a new bank.

Tuesday afternoon, Joseph Alber will ask for permission to operate a drive-in restaurant at 1040 Redwood Highway, north of Alto intersection on the east side of the highway.

A housing project of 40 units for the elderly is planned in Novato at the corner of Carmel Drive and Fourth Street. Smith and Haley Construction Co. of Berkeley will ask for a use permit for the Turn-key project. The developers would build the structure and then turn the key over to the Marin Housing Authority.

Suffers Cut

Mrs. Phyllis Lamb, 65, of 9 Roque Moraes Drive, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital last night for a scalp cut suffered when she fell against a table in her home, the hospital reported.

Citizens Protest Chopping Trees

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association board last night accused the county public works program of cutting down "perfectly sound" 50-year-old trees along Butterfield Road in a program supposedly aimed at getting rid of diseased trees.

Vice President Frank Berto said that he was appointed to talk to county public works officials about the matter.

The association also planned to ask the county to cover ditches along Deer Hollow Road, after residents of the area complained that heavy traffic is hazardous to school children in the area. It was felt by the residents that covering the ditches would allow a walking space along the narrow road.

The board learned that the Sleepy Hollow stables is for sale for $200,000 and since the association does not have the money to buy it, decided to ask the county to consider acquiring the property for a park.

Auto Stereo Stolen

A stereo tape player and tapes valued at a total of $120 were stolen last night from the car of Gerald C. Little of 87 Merrydale Road, Apt. 4, Santa Venetia, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Bar Owners, Citizens Criticize Cotati Police

Charges of harassment by Cotati's three-man police force were brought before city council last night by irate tavern owners.

Glenn Nylander, owner of the Sea Horse, 7665 Old Redwood Highway, and Robert J. Woodley, owner of Bob's Sportsmen, 8714 Old Redwood Highway, told councilmen of what they considered unprovoked attacks against their taverns and the ineffectiveness of Chief John Curtis and Officers Orlindo Locarnini and Harry Pitts.

Chief Curtis was not present last night and today declined comment on the charges.

Mayor Morris J. Houser promised a thorough investigation.

City Mgr. Gordon C. Howe requested specific information on the alleged incidents and said a closed hearing to bring charges against the officers would be scheduled if the situation warrants it.

Nylander said, "I'm sick — sick — sick of being harassed and want you to know about it. The businessmen in the community are very unsatisified with local law enforcement and feel they got better service through the sheriff's department."

He said yesterday he closed his bar at 1:55 a.m. and was cleaning up at 2:30 a.m. when there was a knock on the door. Fearful who it might be, Nylander said he took a club with him to anser the knock. He said it was Officer Locarnini who wanted to know what he was doing and, using abusive language, ordered him to drop the club. "I want you to know I don't like the methods and administration of Chief John Curtis and his men," the tavern owner said.

He also spoke of an incident several months ago when a patrol car blocked his driveway and refused for no apparent reason to allow him to leave his home. Councilman John Groom said he was aware of that incident and said the officer was "definitely out of bounds." He said the officer was on temporary status at the time and is no longer on the force, but added "That doesn't make it all right."

Nylander said patrol cars make a habit of parking in front of taverns just to hurt business.

Tavern owner Woodley said he could bring no specific charges of harassment, but spoke of the ineffectiveness of the force in preserving the law. He said robberies and burglaries often go unchecked for days at a time. "We tavern owners are running legitimate businesses and deserve better protection than we're now getting," he said.

Albert W. Wells of 2091 Curtis Drive charged that police had harassed his 10-year-old son and were uncooperative when he attempted an investigation. He said an officer yanked his son off his bicycle and accused him of looting cars at Sonoma State College parking lots.

"When my boy came home in tears, I tried to investigate, but the officer refused to speak to me," Wells said. "I took his name and badge number and left a message with Chief Curtis to contact me. It was five days later he finally got around to calling my home and told my wife he didn't have the time to be bothered with such incidents."

Councilmen noted the boy had been stopped outside the city limits and well beyond the policeman's jurisdiction. "I'll ask the officers to stop going out of the city limits except on emergency mutual aid with Rohnert Park police," Howe said.

The city manager also said he had asked policemen to stop going to Santa Rosa on their coffee breaks on the midnight shift. Howe said they did that because there are no all night restaurants in Cotati, and noted flashlights, books and other articles have been stolen from the car while parked at Santa Rosa restaurants.

These men are supposed to be on call, but are in Santa Rosa drinking coffee," Howe said. "What are we supposed to do — call Henny Penney's restaurant when there's an emergency?"

'Cry California' Editor Will Talk

William Bronson, author of "How to Kill a Golden State" and editor of the magazine, "Cry California," will speak at 8 p.m. Oct. 16 to the Conservation Council of Marin at the Marin Rod and Gun Club, Point San Quentin.

He will be questioned by a panel of Marinites, including Harvey Bragdon, Mill Valley planning director, Dr. Martin Griffin, chairman of the board of Audubon Canyon Ranch, and Paul C. Zucker, Marin County planning director.

Only 20 of the more than 3,000 islands that make up the Bahamas are inhabited.

Police Links Approved For South Sonoma

Southern Sonoma law enforcement officers will be joining a county-wide network teletype connection next year with the Department of Justice in Sacramento, made possible last week by action of the county board of supervisors.

Leigh S. Shoemaker, supervisor for the Second District including Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati, said the county has agreed to pay two thirds of the cost with local agencies picking up the other third on a population basis.

Rohnert Park Safety Director Bradley Koch said, "This new system will really be helpful — to say the least. We're 40 years behind in network setups and will finally be catching up." The teletype network will link county law enforcement agencies as well as provide access to state and national wires. It is scheduled to begin operation July 1, 1969.

Cotati Police Chief John Curtis said such an arrangment will be of immeasurable help to small police forces such as his. Petaluma police have the only teletype connection in southern Sonoma County.

MRS. OLIVER LILLIE says her fuchsia plants are taking a back seat to the more popular succulents at her nursery in San Rafael. With more than 800 succulent varieties, Lila enjoys every minute of her "farming" on the ⅓ acre she has covered with plants. Succulents need 'considered neglect' she explained while showing her propagation houses, nylon shade material covering some and the protection from rain at certain times of the year given her "babies." Located just off Highway 101, Lila believes her nursery has one of the best succulent collections in the United States.

Succulents Grow In San Rafael

By GRACE HENDERSON

Lila Lillie fancied flowers long before the flower children ever thought of wearing posies in their hair. But there is some similarity in that both are the results of trends. The flower children are a result of modern society and Mrs. Oliver Lillies's fuchsia and succulent nursery the outgrowth of need.

First the fuchsias were popular and there was a huge demand which continues, but they are now taking a back seat to the succulent plants with Lila. As for the succulents, the endeavor has grown from a small beginning to a hillside of over 800 varietes. Her well-tanned features reflect her life in the out-of-doors.

In viewing the nursery, an interested person or customer soon finds himself caught up in the ability of its owner to identify each plant by its true name and with her enthusiasm for her "people," as she affectionately refers to them.

Imports are obtained through an outlet from Africa, with plants brought from Mexico by friends.

One plant from Africa is the Split Rock or Lithrop. This little succulent grows about one inch in diameter and resembles a pebble of the desert. It conceals itself by adopting the pastel colors of stones surrounding it. Lila has a pot of the interesting little "people."

Succulents, also known as xerophytes, are drought lovers but are accustomed to the rainy seasons too. To acclimate the plants for Marin growing, Lila keeps them covered except when being allowed to catch raindrops at regulated times. The proportion of water in the tissue of these plants is about 95 per cent of the total weight. This makes up the juicy, milk-like substance found inside the leaves.

How prolific succulents are is pointed out in names and varieties. The Kalan Choe has several names: "Little People," "Maternity Plant" and "Mother of Millions." All tell the story of its reproductions. In case something happens to the root system there are even air roots above the ground from which the plant draws nourishment. To reproduce, the plant sends out baby plants along its leaf edges. When ready to grow by themselves, they drop to the ground and take root and are "thick as hair on a dog's back," to use an old phrase.

Another maternity plant is the White Squill or "Pregnant Onion," named for the unusual method by which it sends out "babies." Miniature bulbs are produced just beneath the outer layer of "skin" or tissue of the mother plant. When ready to become a White Squill themselves, they burst the covering and drop down to root in the ground. A prolific plant, the "Pregnant Onion" produces epicek, used by early Romans as a remedy for poison.

An interesting fact was brought out in discussing odd or freak plants, those with twisted leaves and uneven growth. Lila explained these are caused by a chromosome mixup and of special interest to all except persons in the medical profession. To physicians, the twisted shapes represent abnormalities which are of concern to them, she said.

Lila propagates plants from her African and Mexican stock as well as breeding hybrids. "Plant families are named for the flowers they bear rather than on their physical resemblance," the woman who has worked in the business seriously the past 10 years explained.

The symmetrical rosettes, often in clumps, known as Echeveria (hens and chickens) produced a hybrid for Lila which she named Mary Belle after her mother, Mrs. Mary Belle Williams. The plant took five years from seed to maturity. She described Mrs. Williams as being head gardener.

Mrs. Williams has her own cactus collection which she tends regularly and includes many of the colorful little "red caps." These are straight, spiny little plants topped with a bright red bloom, giving the impression of a busy railway station.

Succulents come in a variety of colors, sizes and shapes. They range from the tiny little Split Rocks to the four foot houseplants, the Euphorbias. Both Pink Sensation and the red blossomed counterpart drop their leaves as they mature, leaving a thorny stem pattern as they grow to their mature height of four feet. Marin's avid succulent fan has about 50 varieties of Euphorbias.

Baskets of Senecia Rowleyanas from Africa hang here and there at the nursery, showing definitely why they are coined "Little Peas." The trailing vines are a fine stem on which the kernels or peas are attached, similar to peas in a pod. The plant gives a lacy appearance in contrast to the heavy Agaves.

A 16x20 foot building houses echeverias and other succulent which bloom profusely in the spring. Their building is heated during the winter months and is shade controlled all year. All framework has been constructed to give the best protection to the succulents.

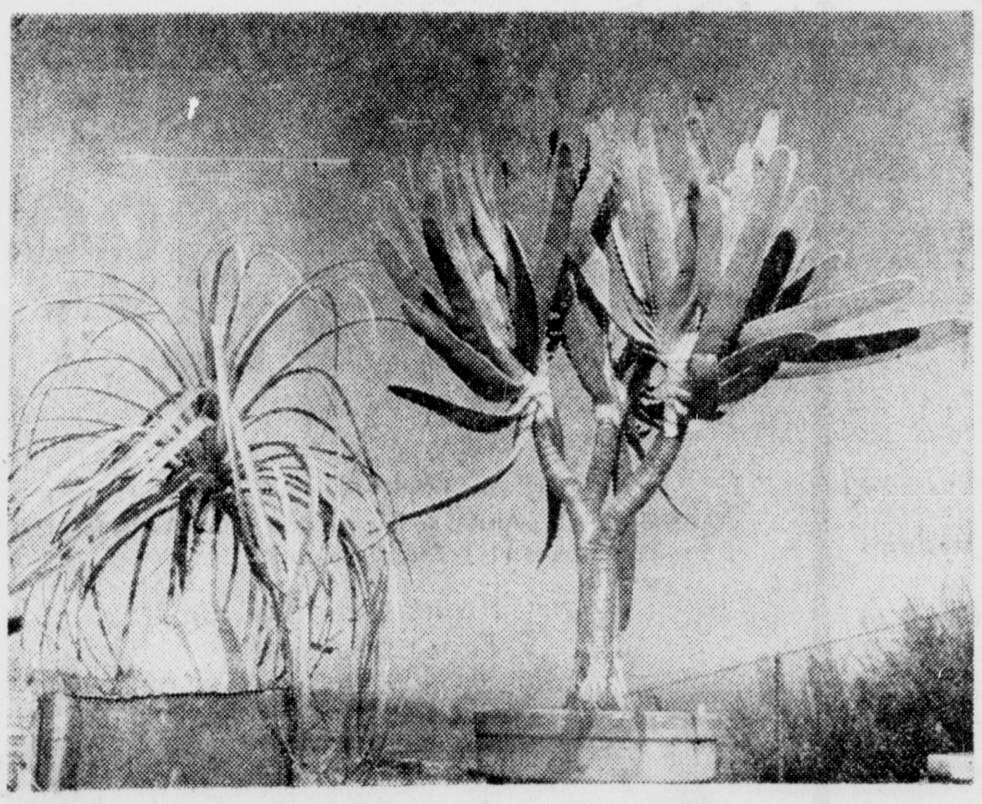
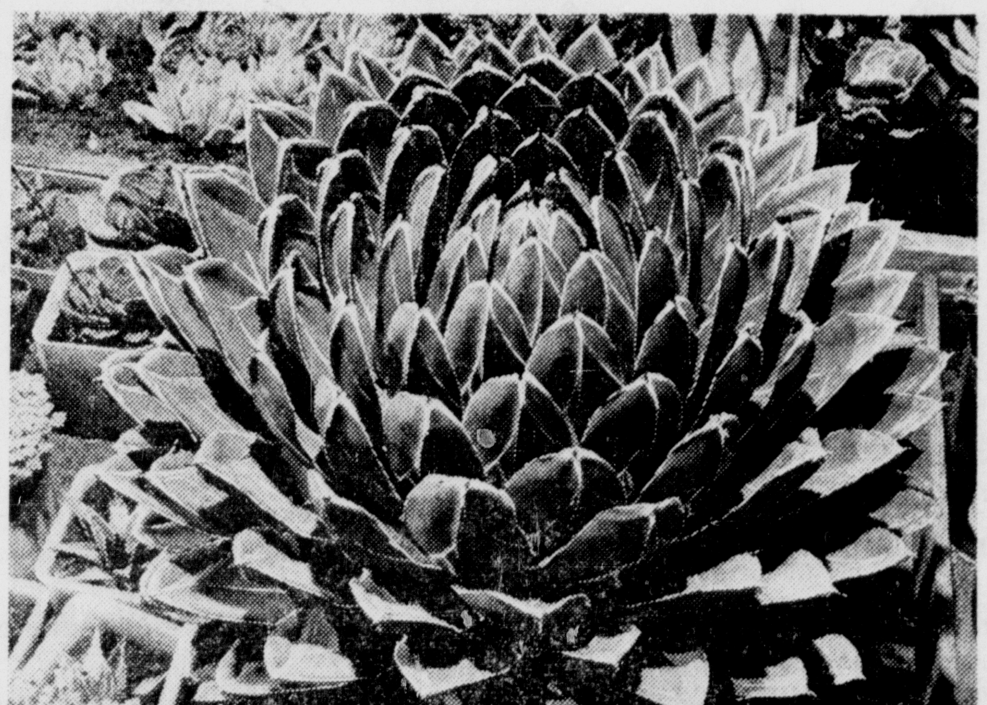
AGAVE STRICTA, a 12-year-old plant, is about 20 inches in diameter and is made up of rounded stems having extremely sharp pointed tips. This is a lighter colored species than the Victoria-Regina. All succulents retain moisture which accounts for 95 per cent of their total weight being of water, or a milky, sticky substance.



THE MARIN landscape forms the background for two of Lila's succulents, the Beaucarnia recurvata, left, 18 inches in height and the Aloe plicatillis, 2 feet tall. Both are about 10 years old and mature. Most, but not all, succulents live in desert or semi-desert regions where plants must absorb quickly the scant rainfall when it occurs. The plants have developed water storage tissue in their thickened and fleshy stems. They also have adapted to the extremes in temperature and have a high insulation quality. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)



AGAVE VICTORIA-Regina, one of the more colorful of all succulents is a prize plant in Lila's collection and was a popular camera subject at the Marin Art and Garden Fair this summer. It is 18 years old and about 24 inches in diameter. Each stem, 7 or 8 inches long, is marked with white line contrasts on a dark green background. After about 25 years it will send up a bloom stock 10-20 feet tall. "It literally gives its heart to future generations" is the way Lila describes the cycle. After flowering, the plant dies, sometimes producing off-sets around the base.

THE TEEN-AGER'S QUEST

'Black Youth The Pacesetters'

Third in a series on the symposium "Uses of Freedom: The Teen-Ager's Quest" held by the University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

The lack of power for both youth and blacks provide a similar impetus for today's protest movements. This view of Dr. Fredric Solomon, who has been studying the psychological development of youth in political protest activities since 1960, differs from that of Dr. Kenneth Keniston of Yale who attributed it to privileged upbringing in families where children had the chance to question and make judgments, and from Dr. Edward E. Sampson's theory of two separate revolutionary movements for white elite youth and black "have nots."

"The real pacesetters have been black youth," asserted Dr. Solomon, who is assistant professor of neurology and psychiatry at Howard University College of Medicine, a predominately black institution.

He said that the trend toward draft resistance began with the early civil rights protestors and has been influenced by them.

"Long before the Vietnam escalation the civil rights sit-ins began to open the log jam of protest for human rights," Dr. Solomon said.

The blacks have led the way in many areas, he stated, citing the fact that the white protestors have no heroes just as the black civil rights leaders had said back in 1960, "We look to ourselves, to each other." He added that blacks first tested the militant non-violence versus violent methods, began working with the less fortunate first; began the anti-administration and curriculum protest at Howard first which then spread to Columbia.

Dr. Solomon disputed Dr. Keniston's theory about protest growing from the white elite in permissive homes. "Permissiveness can be a factor," he conceded, "but it doesn't help to understand black youth, the real pacesetters of protest. In black homes the child is expected to be seen and not heard. They are not affluent. Boys are expected to carry out what their parents want them to. Yet it is actually black youth in the forefront of protest."

In studying the protest movements, Dr. Solomon found that abuse of power is the central issue of protest "from the high school principal to the Pentagon, and most prevalent in the attitude of police," he said.

Blacks in the North feel unprotected by the police, and now white youths' views closely resemble the views of young Negroes, he pointed out. In confrontations at Columbia University and in Chicago the whites experienced the raw brutality of the police and drew farther from the sources of protection and closer to the blacks, Dr. Solomon said.

The blacks recognized the whites' kinship, saying "they've been through it too now," he remarked, adding that there may be a trend toward more brotherhood and community in the demonstrations. And in the Chicago demonstrations, the candlelight parade the day after the confrontation with police saw some of the "establishment" delegates joining the outside fringe groups in a common cause as well.

"Much of the ferment and protest combined in this demonstration and adults realized that the youth had been doing a lot of pro-social acting-out — doing society's work for it," Dr. Solomon stated.

Generally youth has little more than "nuisance power" and is still awaiting adults, who have the power, to take responsibility, he said.

He ended with a quote from the Chicago confrontation:

" 'Is there anything I can do to help?' a delegate asked a girl McCarthy supporter as the violence was underway.

" 'Change things,' she said."

DR. WILLIAM H. GRIER, assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine and co-author with Dr. Price Cobbs of the widely acclaimed book, "Black Rage," agreed that youngsters and minorities who are not a part of the main society can therefore see the underside of it.

"This may be why the white kids, too, 'drop out'," Dr. Grier said. "Surely they must see something if so many feel this way," he commented noting the tendency by black youngsters toward delinquency and an anti-intellectual posture as their way of dropping out.

He said that blacks have the conviction that the policeman is the enemy and is corruptible — a "hired gun" who functions in the employ of that person powerful enough to employ him, a view that carries over the idea of old that the sheriff was enlisted by the powerful baron to protect his property from the serfs.

"They see that the policemen is there essentially to protect the property of the powerful. The black kid early perceives that society views him as an outlaw and as stupid (inferior). This predetermined role may cause him easily to develop strong anti-intellectual feelings.

"And there are similarities between black people and young people today because the establishment views them as posing the same kind of threat," Dr. Grier said.

Drop-Outs Give Views On School, Authority

"Why do young intelligent people increasingly reject our most hallowed institutions?" moderator Alex P. Mercure, state program director of the House Education Livelihood Program in New Mexico, asked a panel of eight drop-outs and former drop-outs.

The colleges were protested against first and now it's spreading to the high school level, he said.

"It's something new to have organized protest in schools asking them to be better effective."

His question drew varying responses from the youngsters, who ranged in age from junior high school to university level:

—"The big problem is that 'there's no one there' for teenagers to talk to. I dropped out of school and would never go back. I take a correspondence course now. Otherwise you just go through 12 years of school when you're told what to do."

—"There's too much teaching out of a book and you can't think on your own. A U.S. history class I had was good because it was open end and the teacher urged us to go hear speakers. . . . If teachers would talk from their own experience it would be more in-class."

THE ATMOSPHERE of jail and youth guidance center increases hostility, several panelists said:

—"You hate being in there and maybe some of the things you do aren't worth it. They can crush you or lock you in jail the rest of your life. You just want to get out," said one older teen-age girl.

They agreed that there is need to develop alternatives to the rigidity of the Youth Authority and juvenile halls.

—"I think people drop out of sheer boredom. They want some kind of excitement and get into trouble. You should start doing things to keep busy until you know what you want."

—"Yeah, so you start on the drug scene and that gets you twice as messed up," remarked another.

—"In school the competition bothered me. . . . I had to worry about how I'd be graded. . . I couldn't just learn. A correspondence course eliminates all the running around to classes and all the rigamarole."

—"Parents think they know you and have great hopes and you can't live up to them. And communication breaks off when you can't. You're afraid of what they think. But you're not as afraid of what another older person or a teacher would think. Kids and the parents have got to come together. They aren't yet or we wouldn't be in juvenile hall."

Young people have to compromise with the adult world. They have to get together with adults so that youngsters can have some say in the authority over them. Young people need the courage to stand up and say they need help. It's up to youth to make the move to bridge the gap, he said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Overall Response To Letters Catalogued For Public By Helen

DEAR HELEN:

You mentioned which letters brought the greatest teen reaction. Please tell us which brought the biggest overall response from your readers, in recent months. — CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS:

Three letters, written over the summer months, were standouts for response. And—surprise, surprise—not one of them had anything to do with sex!

The working wife-Social Security benefits controversy brought the biggest reaction. Representative Edward Patten writes me that he has received many thousands of letters in support of his H.R. Bill 17532, and they are still coming. (The bill would update Social Security to recognize married women, and provide the payment of benefits to a married couple based on their combined earnings, if this would produce a higher benefit. It would not raise taxes appreciably.)

Next on the reaction tally came answers to the question, "Why shouldn't 18-year-olds get the vote?" More than nine-tenths of adults as well as teens insisted they should, and gave excellent reasons why.

Third? Poltergeists. You'd be shook at how many people believe in those pesky ghosts. Here's another example:

DEAR HELEN:

I have read the different opinions on poltergeists. Want to add I once owned a poltergeist-infested house in Hanford, Calif.

These ghosts would announce their intention of roaming through the house by light tapping on the back bedroom door. Then there would be footsteps. Their favorite trick was to jump hard on your feet after you were asleep. Even guests experienced this.

I never saw these "things," but our small daughter reported one morning that she'd seen company in the front room the night before—a woman in a rocking chair, and two men walking around. I let her think they were friends, so she wouldn't be frightened.

I was glad to move out. I guess the poltergeists stayed, as we were never bothered again.

— L.P.

. . . . . Anyone for E.S.P.?

— H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Animal Lover" mentioned how sad it is that animals are born to be destroyed, and urged people to have their pets spayed. You said some towns are offering this service very cheap, as a preventive measure.

May I suggest that anyone who wants to know more about this service may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Friends Of Animals, Inc., 17 West 60th Street, New York, N.Y. This organization will refer him to a representative in his area. I am a representative in my town and we help many people, who otherwise could not afford it, to get their animals spayed. — D.M.D.

Vanessa Redgrave Jumps On The Rag Trade Bandwagon

By NADEANE WALKER

LONDON (AP) — Actress Vanessa Redgrave is the latest star to jump on the rag trade bandwagon. She's backing a new boutique, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop.

As might be expected from the unconventional Miss Redgrave, who still leads peace demonstrations on occasion, the boutique she's backing is something quite out of the ordinary — in fact, the only conventional thing about it is it's name.

Along with pure Forties-era clothes, the Fulham Road Clothes Shop is selling eight-foot-long foam rubber bananas, antique trimmings and highly futuristic furniture. The shop is drawing nightly crowds just to look at the window, which features an ever-changing pattern of rainbow-hued neon. Every customer who steps over the threshold trips off a new sequence of lighting effects. They say an American has already tried, unsuccessfully, to buy the window.

INSIDE THE shop on three floor levels, colored slides of the clothes are projected continuously onto the white walls. It comes as no surprise that one of the directors, Adrian Hughes, 26, is an ex-movie producer, who wants to run the shop like a film.

The other three directors are an pretty blonde photographer, Annette Green, 27, and two girl designers from the Royal College of Art, Zandra Rhodes, 29, and Sylvia Ayton, 30.

The quartet got together with the star during the filming of the Redgrave movie, "Isadora." Hughes was assistant director of the film, and Annette was sent to make pictures of the star. She was wearing an outfit designed by Zandra and Sylvia. Vanessa expressed admiration, and the boutique idea blossomed.

Fulham Road used to be anything but a chic address, but the premises found for the shop is only a few blocks off the King's Road, Chelsea, where the swinging scene flourishes.

"WE DIDN'T have much money," Adrian Hughes explains, "but Vanessa bought some shares and guaranteed our lease. Best of all, she wears our clothes, and used some of them in the film, 'A Quiet Place in the Country.' "

The boutique team reciprocated by designing lipstick-scrawl prints that proclaim, "We Love You, Vanessa," and by naming their star suit "Jolie," after Miss Redgrave's youngest daughter.

Those giant bananas, incidentally, are not as you might think, children's toys or pure freak decor. "They're original works of art, in a limited edition of 100, by Neville Green," says Hughes. They cost 65 pounds (156 dollars) and the shop has so far sold two: one to a fashion photographer and the other to a television producer.

THE CLOTHES come cheaper — from about five pounds ($12) for a blouse, up to 30 pounds ($72) for a leather suit with hand-painted puffed sleeves. Nearly all the dresses and trousers are in floppy satin, crepe or chiffon, with the ruffles, pin-tucks, peplums and off-shoulder effects dear to the Forties.

Zandra's and Sylvia's most original garment is something they call dungarees — A sort of fancy dress version of workmen's overalls, made up in satin or crepe, with ruffles, yet. Their decollete see-through blouses are said to sell to male pop stars as well as dolly girls.

A friend of Adrian Hughes supplies Victorian and Edwardian buckles, buttons, belts and bags on a commission basis. "They go great with the clothes," Hughes comments.

Foreign tourists make up an important part of the Fulham Road Clothes Shop's clientele, according to Hughes. "Particularly Americans," he says. "They're much more ready to accept something new. They're really knocked out when they come in here."

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

'Alice' Prompts Phone Call

By MOLLY MARIN

Would you believe two stoves named Alice? After the story about the Dutch Flat enterprises of Mrs. John Wiley and Mrs. William Brooke appeared in the Women's Section of the I-J Monday, Connie Wiley received a number of phone calls. The most unusual was from a man who also had a stove named Alice in his summer home in Santa Cruz. His Alice had disappeared and he asked Connie, who stocks the antique store in Dutch Flat, to watch for it in her treasure hunting excursions. The Wileys, who acquired their wood stove from the old Dutch Flat Hotel, use it in their Belvedere patio.

A BUFFET supper on Saturday celebrated the 16th birthday of Crickett Waldeck. The party for 25 of Crickett's friends was given at the family home in Mill Valley by the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Waldeck.

MR. AND Mrs. Fred Hurvich, who recently moved from New York to Mill Valley, have a baby daughter, Elizabeth Rose, born Sept. 26 at French Hospital in San Francisco, is the couple's first child.

THE THOMAS M. Murphys of Ross have invited friends for cocktails Saturday evening at their new home in Ross. Cohosts will be the Murphy's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Parsons of San Francisco, and the Murphy's son, C. Jay Murphy, a student at the University of Santa Clara Law School.

MARIN CATHOLIC High School alumni are invited to the school's homecoming dance Saturday evening from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The dance will be held in the gymnasium, and bids are available at the door.

THE STANLEY KOSTAS of San Rafael are home from a six week's tour of Europe, where they visited friends in Paris. Mr. Kosta enjoyed returning to Germany, where he served in World War II.

The couple went on to Yugoslavia, which they found in a state of tension with young men being mobilized and sent to the borders, and then to Italy, which the Kostas said was "like going from a funeral to a wedding." After tours through Spain and Portugal, they ended their continental trip.

MR. AND Mrs. James H. McCreedy of Larkspur celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They spent the day together at the Center Medical Hospital in Ross, where Mrs. McCreedy is convalescing.

The McCreedys, now both 84 years old, were married in Nelson, Neb., on Oct. 1, 1908 and spent many years farming there. They moved to Denver, prior to moving to California in 1940 and had a delicatessen and restaurant there for 12 years.

During the war he worked for shipyards, including Marinship in Sausalito. In 1943 they moved to Larkspur and, until he retired when he was in his 70's, he was a vacuum cleaner salesman.

They have three children, Mrs. Donald Ward of Novato, Willis B. McCreedy of San Francisco and James J. McCreedy of Pacifica, and six grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The McCreedys are avid gardeners. Mr. McCreedy enjoys working in his greenhouse, starting all his own plants for the vegetable garden, and until Mrs. McCreedy was hospitalized she baked all her own bread and canned fruit and jelly.

They have attended the Christian Church in San Rafael since coming to Marin.

Indian Styles

American Indian styles are, of course, a "natural" for the leather look, but there also are Argentine gaucho outfits with boleros and gaucho pants made of or trimmed with sleek leather or suede.

Should Baby Wear Shoes?

Children usually start to walk at 12 to 16 months.

Until the baby is actually walking, both indoors and outdoors, there is no need for him to wear shoes.

Once the child is on his feet, he should do some of his walking in shoes and, if it can be done with safety, some of it barefoot. He should wear good sturdy shoes when he walks on hard, flat surfaces.

On the other hand, he can strengthen the muscles and ligaments of his feet by barefoot activity.

With the onset of walking, minor deviations which are observed in the appearance of the legs of many babies tend to disappear. These slight abnormalities, often a cause of great concern to mothers, are most commonly caused by an irregular twisting of the shin bone — called tibial torsion. If there is excessive twist to this bone, the baby's toes will turn in. If there is not enough twist, the foot will turn out. Frequently one foot will turn inward and its mate will turn outward.

It should be kept in mind that these visible distortions in the leg are not inevitably outgrown, and they should be checked by the baby's doctor.

Many plants are adaptable to bonsia work including the crassulas. The Exheveria Coccinea is shaped by "talking to them with my hands," says Lila explaining the plants will grow into different shapes just by being worked with, bending the limbs or stems in the direction they are to grow.

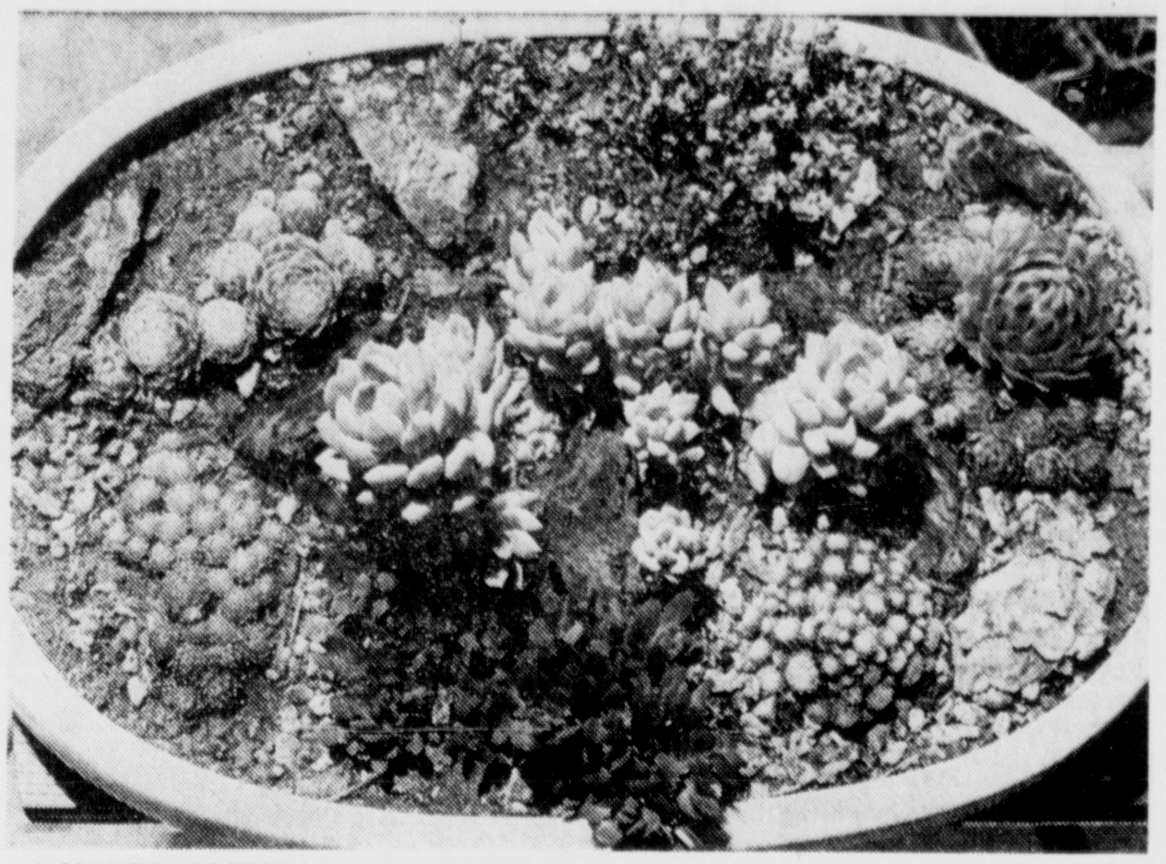
One of the newest hybrids, Eeonium Arboreum, Zwartskop, will be available next spring and is expected to measure 12 inches across when mature.

Lila is a member of the California Horticulture Society, the Cactus and Succulent Society of America and is past president of the Marin County branch of the American Fuchsia Society. She shows annually at the Marin Art and Garden Center and the California Spring Garden Show in Oakland.

This summer she received the top prize, for the second consecutive year, as Best in the Show at the Marin venture. She also received the new Sylvia Award given by commercial florists for design in plant material. This is the first year this award was offered.

Lila and Oliver have lived on Altena Street 21 years and she received her nursery license in 1956. Her commercial activities are accompanied by helping her husband with the bookkeeping for their trucking business. She also lectures before clubs and meetings.

The Lillies have a daughter, Mrs. Lila Marie Sandage, in Florida and have four grandchildren who Lila says would be taught about succulents and nursery work if they were closer to her.



A NOVELTY ITEM in the succulent garden of Lila Lillie is the 10x18 inch dish garden which may be taken indoors for use as decoration or kept outside. All plants are selected for their proportion to the size of the dish for a miniature garden, and a variety of design and texture is included. The word, succulent, comes from the Latin noun, usccus, meaning juice or sap and refers to a morphological condition which was developed in some plants in response to situations.

Beauty Parlor Business Grows In Soviet Union

MINSK (AP) — The one building in Minsk where you will not see Lenin's picture staring down at you is the Parlor of Beauty. The Soviet hero would probably feel a little ill-at-ease beside pictures of the latest Russian coiffures.

This new building, which is typical of large beauty parlors now being constructed throughout the Soviet Union, was built as a result of a special statement by the Byelorrussian government two years ago that more parlors of beauty should be built.

If the Byelorrussian women, who pride themselves on being the fairest in all the Soviet Union, were offended by the hint, it does not show. They flock to the parlor to have their traditionally long hair bobbed.

It is not unusual for the parlor, which requires no advance appointment, to produce 200 manicures and more than 300 new hairdos in a day.

In a country where 75 per cent of the doctors are women, it is only fitting that the director of this parlor and numerous others is a man.

"After all, men are the best judges of a woman's beauty," says Joseph Korpelin, himself a former hairdresser.

What he judges to be an attractive woman is a "blonde with nice features of the face, slender with black eyes and eye makeup if it suits her. The best beauty is natural beauty," he says, "but there are some things which if they are not up to the mark, it is our job to improve upon."

A quick look around the beauty parlor reveals that a number of Soviet women agree with him that blondes are most attractive. The women are having their hair dyed blonde or red.

The hair-teasing craze that came to America six years ago and stayed has also arrived in the Soviet Union. Most of the women who visit the beauty parlor come out with teased hair.

Most of the equipment seems to be up to Western standards, although in many of the older and smaller parlors hair dryers and apparatus for giving permanents is more old-fashioned.

The Parlor of Beauty, in addition to employing hairdressers and manicurists, has two doctors who specialize in pedicures. The Russian women who suffer from poorly fitting shoes can have their badly calloused and swollen feet worked on by the pedicurist for from 90 cents to $2, depending on the amount of work required.

Prices for a hairdo vary from 80 cents for an everyday hair style and about $1.25 for an evening hair design. The most popular hairdo for evening is an upsweep of clustered curls. The Greek Shepherd, displaying a short bob in back and bangs in front, is the latest rage in short hairdos.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Many a buff of old-time movies has especially vivid memories of the World War I aviation pictures in which Neuports, Sopwiths, Fokkers and the other aircraft filled the skies and performed acrobatics that left the audience gasping. The daredevils who piloted those planes that performed the stunts were a special breed. Many did not survive. But one who did is a Marin County resident today, and in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine he recalls that colorful era in filmmaking.

In this computerized age, some of the old handicrafts still retain their appeal. And in some cases, that popularity is growing. One such field, a Fairfax woman believes, is sewing. And as a result, she has started an unusual school for this day and age — a sewing school. One of the feature stories in tomorrow's issue of the I-J weekend supplement reports on that school. And why today's women still take up needle and thread.

Golfer Seeks $225,000 After Tiff

A Foster City man filed a $225,000 damage suit yesterday against a San Rafael man and the San Geronimo National Golf Course in the aftermath of a scuffle at the golf course Sept. 26.

Vincent Rovetti, 35, is asking $150,000 damages from Mike C. O'Donnell, 59, of 135 H Street, and $75,000 from the golf club.

Rovetti charged that O'Donnell attacked him at the 10th tee "with his fists and instruments of a deadly nature," causing permanent injury and breaking his glasses.

He charged the golf club should have protected him from O'Donnell, who he said is a club member, and charged the club was negligent in failing to help Rovetti call a doctor or lawmen.

According to a report from the sheriff's office, Rovetti was playing the 18th hole at 4 p.m. when he asked O'Donnell, on the 10th tee, if he could shoot across the tee. He reportedly made a poor shot, words were exchanged, and a scuffle followed. Rovetti told deputies O'Donnell hit him in the eye. O'Donnell told deputies Rovetti swung and he beat him to the punch.

Sukarno's Wife Under Arrest

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The second wife of former President Sukarno has been arrested on charges of playing a key role in the ex-dictator's alleged clandestine political activity, reliable sources said today.

They said the wife, Hartini, was picked up last week by security officers from her mansion in Bogor, 40 miles south of here.

She is now being detained in "a house in the capital, tightly guarded by plainclothes security officers, and undergoing continuous questioning by a team of intelligence men," they added.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Detroit Revitalizes The Fans' Interest

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers showed in yesterday's NBC-TV telecast of the World Series how to revitalize fan interest in baseball.

In contrast to the season-long diet of low-scoring punchless games, the American League champions walloped baseballs all over the lot. They can hit, as everybody knew, and their three home runs — which helped square the series with St. Louis at a game apiece—were a big kick to the impartial viewer, not to mention Detroit fans.

The 1968 baseball classic is shaping up as a fine video attraction. Bob Gibson, the spirit of St. Louis, turned in a corking pitching performance in the opener. And Detroit showed plenty of spunk in bouncing back in Thursday's contest.

What was really remarkable about yesterday's game was that Detroit succeeded in doing to the polished, classy St. Louis team—the world champions—what few teams have been able to do: they made them look bad. And that is the one thing baseball aficionados don't expect of St. Louis.

As awkward, clumsy and heavyhanded Detroit looked in Wednesday's opener, that is how St. Louis appeared yesterday. Now the series moves to Detroit, with day games scheduled there for tomorrow, Sunday and Monday.

As often happens in the World Series, an unsung hero earns the spotlight. And for televiewers yesterday, there was no doubt that the sleeper of the baseball showdown was the Tiger pitcher, Mickey Lolich, a well-regarded, cherub-faced athlete who not only hurled exceptionally, but also hit the first home run of his career.

All of the Tigers seemed to be at the top of their game, but to longtime baseball fans there was a particular satisfaction in watching the veteran outfield great, Al Kaline, go about his work beautifully and effortlessly. It is his first series, and to watch on television as he gracefully made a difficult catch and then picked up his share of hits was, alone, worth tuning in for.

Strike Man-Hour Losses Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strikes so far this year have cost 32.1 million man-days of lost production, highest figure in nine years, the Labor Department reports.

Working time lost in strikes the first eight months of this year amounted to a little more than one-fourth of one per cent of the nation's total estimated working time, also the highest figure since 1959.

However, the number of workers involved in strikes, a total of 1,880,000, was less than the number involved the first eight months of last year, when the figure was 2,040,000.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Great White Hope' Is Powerful Theater

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Great White Hope" is great theater.

It opened last night at the Alvin Theater and anyone with the slightest shred of interest in seeing what Broadway can do at its very best, is advised to put this one on the must-see list.

The play reduced to bare outline mightn't seem to possess wide potential appeal. But as written by Howard Sackler and performed by an absolutely electrifying cast, this story of the first Negro heavyweight fight champion of the world bursts with emotional ferocity and dramatic substance.

The action transpires before and during World War I, when the ring rise of Jack Jefferson —in real life, Jack Johnson—unleashed a relentless drive to find a white man to win back the golden belt and restore the era's concept of racial propriety.

Crudities and cruelties are not minced, but 1968 contemporary relevance is muted in a manner that intensifies the theatrical achievement.

The list of specific credits must begin with James Earl Jones, a champion who comes on swaggering and with a rigid grin of masking benevolence, goes through years of brutal harassment at home and abroad, and goes down to blood-spattered defeat in his finest hour.

At his side in a crescendo of scenes that start sweet and end with crushing poignancy is Jane Alexander, as the white girl whose romance with Jefferson brought down the cumulative connivance of the sporting world and government.

Among others in the outsized cast that has been paced by director Edwin Sherin with precision and fire, are George Mathews, a brutal promoter; Antonio Fargas, a forerunner of Black Panther extremism; Marlene Warfield, a baleful black nemesis, and Max Wright, an epitome of prejudice on the other side of the ocean.

"The Great White Hope" is great.

What other critics said:

Clive Barnes, the New York Times: "The play has an epic scope and range to it .. It is still too long, and sprawlingly constructed. But this hardly matters at all in the face of (its) tempestuous merits."

Richard Watts Jr., the New York Post: ". . . a drama of considerable power, and I suspect it's actually a better play than it seemed in a production that is much too loud . . . A little restraint and less noise would have helped . . . immensely."

James Davis, the New York Daily News: ". . . a big, robust drama boasting a bravura performance by James Earl Jones . . . All in all, we thought it a highly theatrical and hugely rewarding evening."

Star Still Sought For Valley Players

The San Geronimo Valley Players announced today that casting is complete except for the role of Cora, the leading lady, in the players' production of William Inge's "Dark at the Top of the Stairs."

Tryouts for the part will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the Woodacre Improvement Club, Woodacre. The play is to be presented in November, date and times to be determined.

Sonoma State Buys Books On Buddhism

A. S. Pickett, Sonoma State College librarian, announced today the purchase of 50 books on Oriental thought.

Purchased from the private collection of E. Gardner Rust, music instructor, of 8 Keller Avenue, Petaluma, the acquisition includes books on Buddhism and translations of ancient texts.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from California and National PTA magazines and the "Film Report" of the Film Estimate board. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael or Mill Valley libraries.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bandolero" — Well made, well cast, violent westetrn has background of fne desert scenery.

"Hombre" — Eastern Arizona 1880, young man reared by Apaches . . . succeeds in leading group that fights off robbers and bandits . . . story of greed and prejudice . . . characters well chosen . . . strong script.

"A Matter of Innocence" — A drab young woman accompanies her wealthy aunt on a trip to Singapore. When the aunt dies suddenly, the niece stays on for a few days and "lives it up." The film starts out on a high note but soon lapses into tasteless, unethical junk. A long funeral sequence treated as comedy is offensive.

"Odd Couple" — Beautifully acted and directed humorous character study of two divorced men sharing an apartment.

"With Six You Get Eggroll" — Doris Day again plays the role of widow with children. This time her family consists of three boys and an enormous sheep dog. She marries a widower who has a daughter and a poodle. The plot situations are amusing but the ethics are confused.

BORDERLINE
(Some say adults only)

"The Graduate" — This satirical comedy is subject to various interpretations. Young man from college becomes involved in a torrid affair . . . scenes of night club entertainer distasteful.

"Kona Coast" — Fishing-boat skipper Richard Boone searches for the murderer of his half-caste daughter. The girl was a drug addict, and her father's prime suspect is a playboy dope smuggler. Father's boat is burned, his best friend dies trying to help him, he himself is nearly killed, but justice is finally served. The tough hard-hitting melodrama varies its wild parties and violence with a rekindled romance and scenes of local customs and relaxation.

"Pretty Poison" — Released on probation from reformatory, a young man finds a job in a small New England town where he meets and falls in love with an innocent looking girl. Murder and intrigue are prominent throughout the story. Anthony Perkins as the young man with psychological problems, treated as a criminal and punished for murders he did not commit, and Tuesday Weld as the girl, sweet and innocent-looking, who is a psychopathic killer, are both believable. Color photography of Winslow, Mass., is good.

"Scalphunters" — Western adventure-comedy based on bounty-hunting for Indian scalps. Sometimes telling development of racial theme marred by equating violence with manhood.

"Secret Life of an American Wife" — Satirical farce about sex life of 34 years old mother before and after marriage. Nudity, risque dialogue and adultery are casually presented.

Second Divorce Suit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Actress Gloria DeHaven filed suit yesterday for a second divorce from Dick Fincher, Miami car dealer and Democratic state senator. Miss DeHaven charged extreme cruelty.

Sculpture Display

An exhibit of sculpture and woodcarving by G. Bjork-Ohlson of Mill Valley is now on display at the Glad Hand Restaurant, Sausalito, through Nov. 3.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Fall Finds Changes Aplenty In Marin Restaurants Scene

Apparently things have been happening at Marin restaurants while I was away on vacation.

First of all, I find that Inn Marin, Strawberry Town and Country Village has Ron Henning, former co-owner at Di Pietro's in San Rafael, as general manager for owner Alan Johnstone. And Ron has brought in Don Caseldine as chef. Since both have been very successful in their respective fields, the portent for Inn Marin is good.

There are completely new lunch and dinner menus, with steak dinners running from $2.95 to $5.50; a la carte 50 cents less. Lunches feature Don's terrific sandwiches from 85 cents up to about $1.95. The dining room is closed Mondays, but the bar is open then.

Breakfast shows with dancing are held Saturday and Sunday in the wee hours from 2:30 to 5:30 a.m. Complete breakfast with dancing is $3. Dinner dancing on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights will begin Oct. 17, with the Eastman Trio offering the kind of music that appeals to all age groups. Ron had this group at Di Peitro's and it always was enthusiastically received.

Fashion shows will be coming back and a piano or organ bar is planned for the lounge.

AS I ANTICIPATED, the Executive Lounge in the Kaehler-Farrar Building at Fourth and C streets, San Rafael opened while I was gone. Friday the 13th was the day significantly picked last month by Don Bernard for this event. From all indications it was not ill advised.

Lunches are served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, but the way they have taken hold you will do well to arrive before noon, or wait until after 1 to be sure of a table without a wait.

Dinners are served from 6 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. Broiler items, steaks and such are featured. Salads and other items also are available on the lunch. Don has encouraged me to add that for a limited time if you mention that you saw it on this page, wine will be included with the regular dinner.

Paul Jurvig is chef. He was chef for 15 years at Marin General Hospital.

FRED CHERRY, of course, opened his Cafe Bon Vin in San Anselmo early in September. Now he has made each course in his regular 10 course banquets available a la carte. Apparently, going the full route overwhelms some Marin appetites. There is also a "petite dinner" at $5.50.

His menu is being changed monthly. For October the official banquet is something a French chateau owner might serve after the grape harvest is finished. It is called La Vendange. For November a "French Thanksgiving" is planned.

Besides all this, classes in wine appreciation have started; a "jug of the month club" is in operation, and game gastronomy is being offered. Hunters may bring in venison, elk and ducks, and fishermen their catches to be prepared by chef Benny Veideland with all the extras.

Wines are the thing here and Fred's forte. Only a devoted enophile could corral all the splendid vintages he has available — some of them at modest cost. Stocks are changed as new selections are discovered.

SABELLA'S has finished remodeling its Captain's Room with an antique crystal chandelier of a ship and Australian red shades to go with the red fleur-de-lis wallpaper. New decor makes it an interesting place for bridal showers, ladies' luncheons and other groups of up to 30 persons.

I FIND that Franchini's Chateau is still serving its sumptuous chuckwagon or family-style Sunday breakfast — whichever designation appeals to you. Eggs any style, are combined lavishly with ham, bacon or sausage and all the trimmings for $2.25; youngsters $1.25. There are other menu selections, of course.

MY OWN PEREGRINATIONS in the last few weeks have been mostly north of Marin. I have been fortunate in discovering and rediscovering some delightful food locations in Sonoma and Mendocino counties.

For example, it has been years since I last visited Occidental, and while here last month it was my pleasure to take in the old Panizzera family-owned Union Hotel. Various family members are active in this operation and one of them, Dan Mahoney, appears to be the manager.

Italian restaurants at Occidental and that general area seem to have changed their menus slightly since the old days, and the three regular entrees at the Union are chicken, duck and steak. But the large homemade ravioli and extras are generously applied .The odds are that you'll just have to give in and settle for taking some of your entree home with you.

The Union's dining room is open seven days a week from 1 to 9 p.m. Dinners are from $2.90 to $4.50.

ONE OF MY FAVORITES still, is the Mark West Lodge on the road from Santa Rosa to Calistoga. Take the Fulton turnoff from Highway 101 above Santa Rosa and travel on Mark West Road for about seven miles.

This venerable old landmark has been standing for something like 135 years. It has been luring many visitors for the last five or six years with its French cuisine and beautiful dining room. Proprietor Rene Pavel, is Czechoslovakian and trained in the old European ways.

You don't hurry here, but linger comfortably over a menu beautifully prepared by the chef. Karl, by the way, has been a Santa Venetia resident for several years. He used to be at the World Trade Club and has spent some time at Marin restaurants, including, I believe, Sally's in Sausalito.

Mark West Lodge is well worth the hour's ride from Marin and will be open daily except Wednesdays, from 5 to 10 p.m., before closing down for December, January and February.

THE NORTH COUNTIES above Marin are at their best this time of the year — particularly if you get over to the coast. October is comparatively free of fog and there's the tang and briskness of fall in the air.

You may not know it, but Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert, who own Gregory's in Corte Madera, have 13 acres on the Mendocino coast near a little hamlet called Albion. This is about seven miles south of the town of Mendocino.

They have built a lovely home here and eventually intend to construct another restaurant on the bluff overlooking the ocean, huge rocks and cavorting sea lions. We visited them, and I must say that after their success in Corte Madera, they should do equally well at Albion.

But until another Gregory's appears in that area, you might stop off at Little River Inn, four or five miles to the north. It's a picturesque old structure built in 1853 and is said to have been serving the public continuously since then. Present proprietors are Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hervilla — she is the granddaughter of the inn's founder Silas Coombs.

This is abalone country and we did well by ordering accordingly. I have never tasted finer specimens — nor served any better.

THERE ARE other north county places I'd like to talk about — but space doesn't permit today. More about them next week.

INCIDENTALLY, Paul Galas, former chef at Mark West, now has his own place in Santa Rosa in partnership with Tony Serva. It is called the Hilltopper, located at 3901 Montgomery Drive.

I was unable to visit there this trip, but fully intend to take it in at a future date. If you are in the Montgomery Village area, be sure to call, as I understand it has become very popular.

Plumbers' Union Helps Scholars

Scholarships totaling $3,750 have been awarded to boys in Marin and Sonoma counties by the United Association of Plumbing and Piping Journeymen, Union Local 38.

Marin winners were Douglas Sederberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sederberg of Ross, and Bruce D. Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Lamb of Novato.

In Sonoma the award went to Daniel R. Springer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Springer of Rohnert Park.

Fire Disaster Film Set In Corte Madera

"Design for Disaster," a 45-minute film of a fire that destroyed 400 southern California homes, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. today at the community meeting room at the Marin Co-op, 71 Tamal Vista Avenue, Corte Madera.

The film will be shown by Capt. Edward J. Parnell of the Tiburon Fire Department as part of Fire Prevention Week.

Candidates Differ On Kappas Solution

Widely differing solutions to the county's long-standing dispute with Kappas Yacht Harbor in Richardson Bay were offered last night by the two runoff candidates for Marin County supervisor in the Third District.

The candidates, Donald J. O'Leary and Michael Wornum, made their suggestions in response to questions during a candidates' night sponsored at Tamalpais Valley School by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club.

It was their second joint appearance in the day, having appeared in the morning on KTIM's "Sounding Board" program.

"There's got to be room for compromise," insisted O'Leary, suggesting that Saucalito Canal's alignment perhaps should be shifted further into the middle of the bay.

O'Leary, asserting the alignment was shifted shoreward in 1964 by "political pressure" on the supervisors, said "as a result Kappas has not been able to build the kind of marina he's capable of."

Wornum, commenting that "all the words that have been talked to Kappas would stretch half way around the world," insisted that the only continued legal action by the county would solve the problem. He added that the county had been "deficient" for not having pressed legal action earlier.

"For 10 years, Kappas cynically filled county rights-of-way in the bay," declared Wornum, adding "he's making a lot of money on this, too."

Wornum also objected to O'Leary's comment that "political pressure" had realigned the canal. The alignment was changed to reduce pressure to fill the bay, he said.

In his opening statement, Wornum called for passage of a county-wide master plan. "Without such a plan, conservation of our irreplaceable environment is jeopardized, as conservation is too late when the bulldozers are gouging the hills or the dump trucks have commenced filling."

O'Leary suggested addition of a monorail on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to link Marin commuters to the Bay Area Rapid Transit District system in Richmond. "No one will complain about beauty," he said of the effect of a monorail on the bridge.

Unless Marin develops its own employment base, O'Leary predicted, the high-income property taxpayers essential to the county's tax base will move to the East Bay where they will be able to use BARTD to get to San Francisco.

New development in Marin "doesn't have to change Southern Marin a bit," said O'Leary, adding he was convinced that Hamilton Air Force Base someday will replace San Francisco International Airport as the major Bay Area airport.

He and Wornum also differed on how to get some commercial development into Marin City, with Wornum arguing it must be initiated by the community, and O'Leary stating the county must help decide what should be done to get such development started.

Hearings Set On Water Hikes For Inverness

A request by the Inverness Water Co. for almost double present rates will be the subject of a public hearing by the California Public Utilities Commission at 10 a.m. Oct. 28 at the Inverness Yacht Club.

The Citizens Utilities Co. of Stamford, Conn., a holding company operating the Inverness company, applied for the rate increases last year. PUC action was delayed until the firm furnished its records to the commission staff for study.

Examiner Carol T. Coffey will preside at the hearings which are scheduled to continue on subsequent days until testimony is completed.

The firm is asking a boost from $4.65 to $8.90 for the first 200 cubic feet, from 60 cents to $1.15 for each additional 100 cubic feet up to 600, and from 50 to 95 cents for each additional 100 cubic feet up to 1,000, all in the monthly rate schedule.

New Shooting Flares In Korea Truce Zone

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean army troops shot and killed one of an unknown number of North Korean infiltrators in a brief predawn engagement today south of the demilitarized zone, the counterespionage command reported.

The South Koreans suffered no casualties, the command said.

Auto Theft Denied

William Carl Smith, 19, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a car Sept. 20 in San Rafael. Preliminary hearing was set for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 27.

Wine Fumes Kill Three In Big Vat

A 63-year-old Tomales man was asphyxiated yesterday along with his two would-be rescuers in an 8,400-gallon empty wine vat near Sebastopol.

John C. Nelson had climbed down inside the 13-foot-deep, 13-foot-wide vat to clean out residue, according to Sonoma County Coroner Andrew Johansen, who said that the ventilator fans had apparently not been turned on.

A second worker, Jose Lopez, saw Nelson fall, scrambled back the ladder and yelled for help. Everett Stafford, 34, of Graton, Sonoma County, jumped down into the vat to try to rescue Nelson and quickly lost consciousness.

Then William Martini, 26, son of Elmo Martini, one of the winery owners, leaped into the vat to help, and he, too, lost consciousness.

Winery manager Frank Vanuuci turned on fans to drive out the fumes, but Nelson, Stafford and Martini were dead before they could be rescued.

The accident occurred at the Martini-Prati Winery, five miles north of Sebastopol.

The cornoer said that this was Nelson's fourth season working at the winery.

Nelson, whose home was on Dillon's Beach Road, was a native of Illinois.

He is survived by his wife, Eathel; three sons, Christopher Nelson of Valley Ford; John and Philip Nelson of Tomales; four daughters, Sandra Welch of Sebastopol, Mary Nelson of Tomales, Sue Powell of Georgia and Mildred Huntley of Illinois; a brother, Jess Nelson of Santa Rosa and several brothers in Illinois.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. at the O'Leary Funeral Home in Sebastopol.

Immunization Clinic Slated For Cotati

A family immunization clinic for the Cotati-Rohnert Park-Penngrove area is scheduled for today from 4 to 7 p.m. and again on Dec. 6 at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

Provided by the Sonoma Public Health Service, immunizations will be given against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, poliomyelitis and measles. Tuberculin skin tests will also be available.

Cleaver's 10 Lectures Get Faculty Nod

BERKELEY (AP) — A resolution criticizing the University of California regents and asking that Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver be allowed to lecture on the Berkeley campus has won overwhelming support of the U.C. Academic Senate.

By a 668 to 114 vote, with 21 abstentions, the senate adopted last night a six-part resolution in favor of proceeding with plans to hold the Social Analysis 139X course "on or off campus" with Cleaver giving his proposed 10 lectures on racism.

The resolution directs "the committee on courses to take all steps to encourage course and credit status for that program."

The regents voted to limit the militant Negro, an ex-convict, to one lecture in a class for credit.

After the resolution was introduced, U.C. President Charles Hitch warned the faculty group that confrontation with the regents might "destroy the university as we have known it."

Chancellor Roger Heyns of the Berkeley campus said he had reserved a room for a "student - sponsored noncredit program of instruction" that under present rules could permit Cleaver to lecture as many times as he wishes.

Meanwhile, the state Court of Appeal ruled that Cleaver, 33, must stand trial Dec. 2 on a charge of assault with intent to kill, stemming from an April shootout between Black Panthers and Oakland police.

The court ruled in a brief order without expressing an opinion.

Earlier yesterday, Cleaver addressed a rally of 5,000 from the Sproul Hall steps and shouted four-letter obscenities.

"I'm going to have to come here and deliver 30 to 40 lectures and tell them," Cleaver said. "There are more people in this country than there are pigs."

He applied the term "pigs" to police, Gov. Ronald Reagan and U.S. Senate candidate Max Rafferty.

Proposition 3 Passage Urged

Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., president of Sonoma State College, has called for passage proposition 3 on the Nov. 5 ballot, asserting that $3 million in construction at the college hangs in the balance.

Dr. Ambrose said funds for an art building and a speech and drama building are provided in the statewide $100 million construction program funded by bonds authorized in the proposition.

The college president said his institution's present enrollment of 2,954 students was not anticipated until the fall of 1969. "We just can't handle a large student load with present facilities," he said.

The National Audubon Society's Richardson Bay Sanctuary will be closed to the public Oct. 12 due to fall flights of migratory waterfowl, the society reported.

It will reopen next spring when most of the waterfowl have moved out, a society spokesman said.

During the closing, the sanctuary will be patrolled as usual by Fred Ross, Audubon warden and resident manager of the sanctuary.

Manager Helps In Capture Of Bank Robbery Suspect

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A bank robber disappeared into a Market Street theater yesterday with bank manager Raymond A. Marks in hot pursuit.

When the lights were turned on, Marks and police found only the robber's slacks, red plaid shirt and what they called a "crazy wig."

They were in an empty seat next to a young woman who had $1,500 in her purse, police said.

That was the amount taken about noon yesterday from the Market-Jones office of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank, Marks said.

Police said the girl, Jene Nolasco, 19, San Francisco, told them the clothing belonged to her husband, Percy, 24.

Minutes later her husband was arrested by FBI agents about two blocks from the bank and both were booked on suspicion of robbery.

Marks says robberies make him mad.

"It's not just the money," he said. "It's the time . . . The employees' time.

"The time they have to spend going down to the Hall of Justice for showups, the time they spend answering questions.

"That's why I get mad, and that's why I chase them, even though I know it's crazy."

Mass Starvation Seen In Africa

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Millions will starve to death, a missionary surgeon warns, unless worldwide public pressure can end the 14-month war between Nigeria and Biafra, its breakway province.

Dr. Sherman A. Nagel Jr., 53, a Seventh-day Adventist who operated a 60-bed hospital in Biafra until Sept. 17, told reporters yesterday:

"My appeal is that some way, somehow, public pressure will be so strong on both sides that a cease fire will come, because without that, millions more will starve to death."

BONES BENEATH THE PHONE LINES

Scientists Race To Dig Camp Site

Archaeologists working in Novato have two weeks to find life patterns of a local Indian civilization estimated to be 2,000 years old.

The archaeologists, professionals and students from San Francisco State College, are racing construction crews at the site of expansion of a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. substation at the edge of the Ignacio Shopping Center.

Robert E. Schenck, curator of the anthropology museum at San Francisco State, said concrete will be poured in the area in which they are digging in two weeks.

Schenck said he hoped this would be enough time to uncover sufficient evidence of the life characteristics of the Miwok Indians, who inhabited much of Marin County centuries ago.

Human and animal bones, arrowheads and ceremonial stones have been uncovered thus far, Schenck said, but isolated discoveries mean little unless relationships can be established.

"We want more than just artifacts," he said. "We want to find out how they lived, where they came from and what they hunted.

"We want to find out what kinds of birds and animals were here 2,000 years ago. From samples of shellfish, we can find out what kind they liked. We want to dig it all up and find out what it means."

Schenck said discovery of the presence of Indian mounds at the substation was made about 10 days ago.

The archaeology crew, now consisting of five diggers, attempted to halt construction by invoking the county ordinance prohibiting destruction of Indian mounds, but discovered the site was 50 feet inside the city limits, Schenck said, and Novato offers no such protection to historic or archeologically important finds.

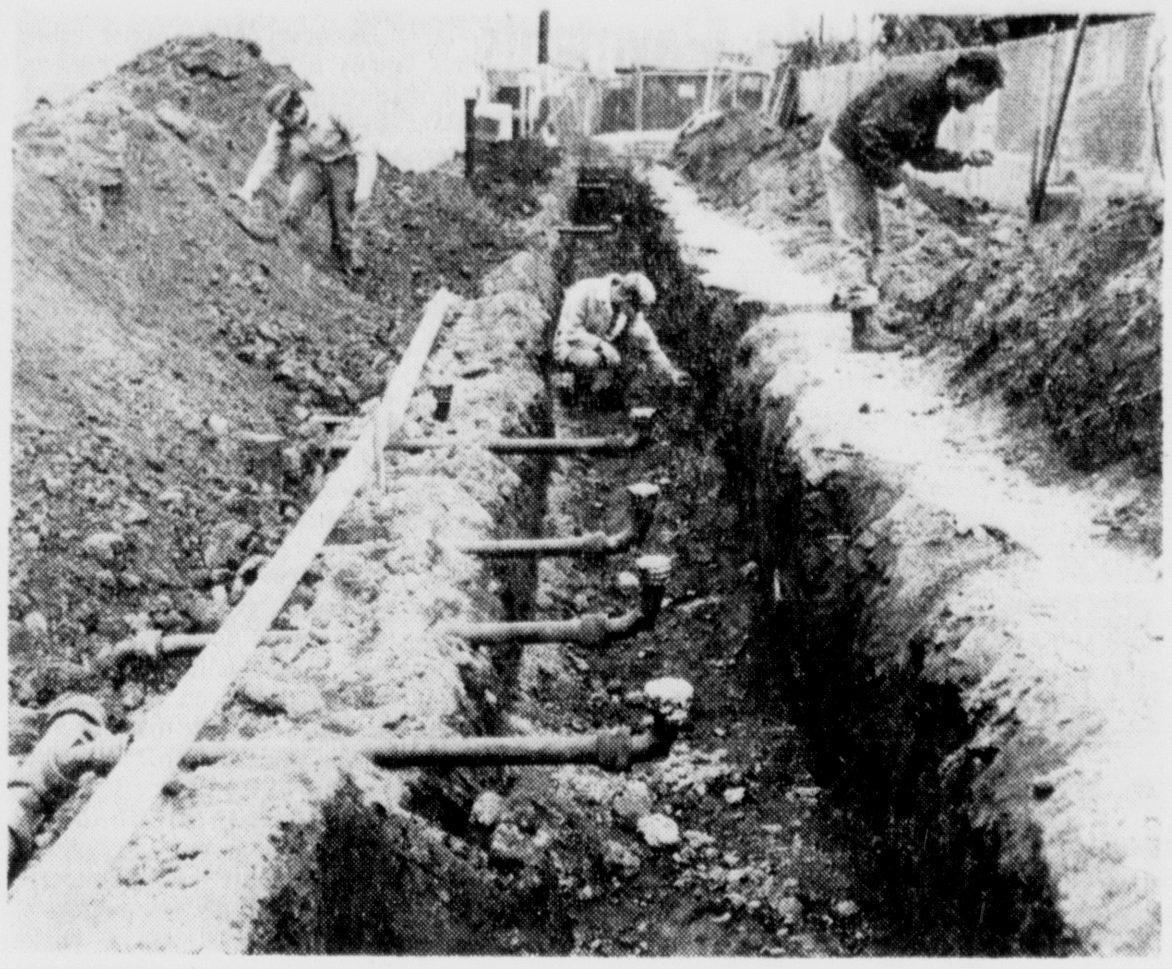
The telephone company later agreed to permit digging on the site away from construction crews.

"It was a moral victory for ourselves," Schenck said. He expressed disappointment, however, that discovery of the artifacts had not been made before large areas had been excavated by construction workers.

Schenck said telephone officials had agreed to notify San Francisco State in advance of future work of this type in the Bay Area.

He reported that three systematic test diggings would be conducted behind the test station in search of clues to the life of Miwoks.

Work would continue through the weekend, Schenck said, "if we can scare up enough people." He said some students had cut classes to help and he hoped for aid from the Northwestern California Archaeological Society and the Novato High School Archaeology Club.



DEADLINE — Amateur and professional archaeologists from San Francisco State College examine trench soil at the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. substation in Novato for Indian artifacts. They seek clues to life patterns of the ancient colony, but have only two weeks to explore the area. From left are Bob Oliphant, Robert E. Schenck and Ron Melander.

DISCOVERY — Pieces of human mammal bone were found by the diggers in a clump of dirt. Arrowheads and ceremonial stones also have been discovered.

BONE FRAGMENTS — Ron Melander, a member of the San Francisco State College team, holds bone fragments uncovered at the substation. (Independent-Journal photos)

COUNSEL'S VIEWS

A Fair Trial For Newton Not Possible

By ROSS DAVIS

So said Charles R. Garry, attorney for the Black Panther leader, at the first Controversy '68 lecture at College of Marin yesterday.

Garry told the largely sympathetic group of some 250 students including about 20 Negroes that a fair trial for Newton wasn't possible because 66.6 per cent of the panel from which the jury was selected was prejudiced against the black man.

He said it wouldn't have mattered if the trial had been held elsewhere, because that percentage exists throughout the state, and throughout the nation.

He said he chose the percentage figure because that was how many people voted against fair housing for Negroes in 1964, and that is the bias estimate in the Kerner report, returned by a president-appointed committee last spring in the wake of racial rioting on a national scale.

Newton was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the Oct. 28, 1967 death of an Oakland policeman.

Garry, a 59-year-old San Franciscan, said a fair trial in Oakland also didn't and couldn't result because the jury panel was "not a cross-section of Alameda County, certainly not a cross-section of the peers of Huey P. Newton."

He said this was because the panel was chosen in "haphazard" manner from registered voters in that county, rather than at random by a computer system. Also, because many Negroes are unregistered, the resulting jury was "not a representative body" of the community, he said.

Garry defined "Peers," people who should have tried Newton, as people who come from Newton's community, or at least understand his cultural background and community.

He said only four of a jury panel of 159 had heard of the Kerner report, and none had purchased a copy or read it through. Garry also called the trial a "political situation." He asked, "Can a black man get a fair trial in a political situation like this? Can a white man get a fair trial in a political situation?"

"The answers I'm going to leave to you," he concluded. Garry declared that only the nation's youth can correct the unfairness in trial of the black man. "My generation has goofed," said he. "They're not carrying the ball."

Garry, who received a standing ovation at close of his talk, said he appealed the conviction to the district court of appeals in San Francisco Friday, and will also seek a reversal of the court's denial of bail for Newton while the appeal is pending.

He described Newton, who received a two to 15-year sentence and currently is in state prison, as "dedicated to a national liberalization movement . . . a true born revolutionary."

He added, "He is probably one of the finest, sweetest . . . persons I've ever known."

Coup Had To Come, Says Peruvian Leader's Nephew

The nephew of the military leader of the new Peruvian government said today that the bloodless coup "had to come about."

George Velasco, 28, of 43 Meadow Drive, San Rafael, whose uncle is Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, said that yesterday's coup had been "rumored for a long time" because of the "need for social changes" and a crisis which erupted after the government signed a new contract with a petroleum company.

General Alvarado, president of the joint chiefs, led forces which seized the government and sent President Fernando Belaunde into political exile in Buenos Aires.

"I spoke with my uncle last night by telephone," said Velasco, employee of an auto garage in San Francisco. "He said the new government will definitely be pro-Western."

Velasco, who had been in America about eight years and received his citizenship last year, said Alvarado reported he was "completely in power now."

The Associated Press said today, however, that resistance to the new government, spawned by street battles between students and police, was stiffening.

Students swirled through the streets of Lima, breaking windows. In one encounter last night, police fired into a crowd of students and apparently killed one. Five photographers taking pictures of the incident were arrested.

At least 10 cars were burned. Police also used tear gas in an attempt ot control the outbreaks.

Pipe Stolen

A three-foot-tall souvenir German smoking pipe was stolen Tuesday from the home of Charles Gilardi, 1004 I Street, Petaluma, he reported to police yesterday. The brich pipe was valued at $50.

Fountain Studied In Rohnert Park

The possibility of constructing a fountain in front of the new community center building in Rohnert Park was discussed last night at the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission meeting.

Members felt a fountain would add beauty to the building now under construction and requested Commissioner George Verly to prepare cost estimates for the Nov. 7 meeting.

New projects discussed included formation of a threater group, children's puppet theatre and an art club.

Also planned is the development of a city policy for naming public property such as streets, parks and buildings.

Charles Roberts, representing Las Casitas mobile home park residents, was asked to have his group consider building a kiosk for the shopping center mall. Members felt a kiosk would eliminate signs and posters cluttering store windows.

Fire Board Seeks Land In Tiburon

The Tiburon Fire District board last night agreed to begin negotiations with Northwestern Pacific Railroad for purchase of 4,600 square feet of land adjacent to the Tiburon firehouse, secretary Wellman H. Topham reported.

The board wants to purchase the land, Topham said, to square out the triangular parcel upon which the fire house stands.

The board also agreed to write a letter to the Coast Guard thanking its units for assistance in the Main Street fire Sunday.

An application from Frank A. Neer II to be a volunteer fireman was accepted.

Bolinas Harbor District Takeover Ballot Urged; Debt Issue Raised

Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission last night adopted a resolution calling for an election to decide whether the Bolinas Harbor District should be dissolved.

Still somewhat unclear after the commission vote was exactly what district debts Marin County would assume and which would be left for payment solely by residents of the district.

Commissioners last night agreed the county should assume district liabilities totaling approximately $125,300, to pay off contracts to which the district is already committed.

But disssolution of the district would not become effective until June 30 nor until hhe state grants the Bolinas Lagogon to the county for administration.

Thomas Barfield, a harbor district director, complained the district has several condemnation suits now pending and may have to enter more contracts before the district is dissolved.

Commissioners decided that the question of assuming further liabilities of the district should be decided by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

All liabilities assumed would be paid for by all Marin taxpayers. Those not assumed by the county would be paid by residents of the district.

John F. Barrows, assistant county administrator, said he will ask the supervisors Tuesday to set a public hearing on the question of calling the election of dissolution. The election could be called in about four months, he said.

The commission also voted last night to allow residents of Corte Madera Sanitary District to vote on whether the district should be merged with the Town of Corte Madera.

The question goes next to county supervisors, who will reject the decision or set an election.

The Local Agency Formation Commission also approved four small annexations not requiring elections. They are:

Annexation of 3.5 acres of Fred Zelinsky's land along Tiburon Boulevard to the Tiburon fire protection district.

Annexation of three-fourths of an acre owned by Richard Dawson and other family members at the intersection of Mar East Street and Linda Vista Avenue to the City of Tubron.

Elbow Injured In Collision

Duane Allen Brown, 24, of 623 F Street, Petaluma, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for an elbow injury after his soft drink van and a car collided on South San Pedro Road, Country Club the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Brown's van hit a car driven by Bernice Georgie Pelkey, 66, of 306 South San Pedro Road, at 9:50 a.m. when the Pelkey car turned across the road in front of the truck.

A passenger in the Pelkey car, Ermina MacKenney, 85, also of 306 South San Pedro Road, was to see her own doctor for pain in the right shoulder and right leg.

Site Looted

Earl Gregg, owner of Empire Plumbing Co., 3992 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, reported to police the theft of $200 worth of oxygen pipes from the construction site at Hillcrest Hospital. He noted $100 worth of piping was stolen there three weeks ago.

Parking Proposed By Hub Chamber

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday agreed to ask the San Anselmo City Council at Tuesday's council meeting to study the possibility of improving a parking lot situation.

William Franchini, board president, said the city-owned lot, located behind Kaufman's department store at 540 San Anselmo Avenue, provides free parking. With additional paving, it could hold about 75 cars, he said, and a parking fee might be feasible.

The council meets at 8 p.m. at city hall. Next chamber meeting will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the San Francisco Theological Seminary on Kensington Court.

Welfare Panel Backs Boost In Payments

A Marin County welfare study committee has resolved to seek state legislation to bring Aid to Families with Dependent Children in line with the cost of living.

The group, a task force established by Marin supervisors, also agreed at Wednesday's meeting that county supplemental aid to AFDC recipents should be continued, according to Frances Miller of the department of public social services.

Mrs. Winifred Frederick of Lagunitas, a member of the task force, said she proposed a successful motion encouraging award of extra aid to heads of households in AFDC families who take work training and obtain jobs. Continuance of the aid would depend on satisfactory grades and good attendance at classes and good work habits once on the job.

The 30-member task force was created last summer to study the AFDC program to find ways of helping AFDC mothers become self-supporting and to present a report to the supervisors Dec. 1.

The group also discussed child care facilities and Mrs. Miller noted that there are currently 126 licensed foster day care homes with a capacity for 578 children.

However, Mrs. Miller said, there is a serious shortage in Sausalito, Marin City and West Marin and of homes that will take children under two years.

Joseph H. Denhart, director of the Marin County Children's Center and Pre-School Program, outlined an application for a third day care center to serve central Marin.

Mrs. Miller said there are several problems that would have to be worked out. The chief concern is transportation—in Fairfax, San Anselmo and San Rafael, the areas to be served.

The next meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. Oct. 16 at the Civic Center, will focus on employment opportunities and needs with emphasis on training and education to help mothers "out of the welfare trap," she said.

Civic Luncheon Set

Mill Valley city councilmen and chamber of commerce directors will discuss matters of mutual interest at a public luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Palate restaurant in Mill Valley.

Drath Gets Endorsement By McCarthy

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy today endorsed Phillip Drath of San Rafael, Democratic nominee in the Sixth Congressional District.

The Minnesota senator, in a letter addressed to the voters of the district, said Drath "has consistently shared our concern for proper allocation of priorities in our national life — an immediate end to the war in Vietnam, the elimination of racism and poverty in America, and the determination to solve the urban crisis."

McCarthy, according to the press release from Drath for Congress headquarters in San Rafael, said "the nation, the Congress of the United States and the Democratic Party need men of deep moral commitment to these issues. Philip Drath is such a man," declared McCarthy.

Drath is a long-time supporter of McCarthy, and was a member of the McCarthy slate of delegates in the June primary.

The Sixth District includes most of Marin and western San Francisco.

THE POLITICAL SCENE

Heckling Chico State Collegians Force Reagan To Lose His 'Cool'

CHICO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, the target of profane language by black militant critics lately, used a little himself in a bristling reply to heckling from white college students.

The governor arrived in Chico yesterday afternoon to a greeting by about 700 persons at the municipal airport. Among them were more than 100 students from Chico State College, and they carried signs supporting Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and his current appearances on college campuses, which Reagan opposes.

One sign urged "Cleaver for governor in 1970," and another —bringing in Republican U.S. Senate candidate Max Rafferty —contended "Reagan and Rafferty equal racism."

Reagan said there are rules established to run the state university and colleges, and "those of you who are unwilling to teach or unwilling to learn within our education framework can damn well get your education somewhere else."

He quickly apologized for using profanity, but explained he wanted to get the discussion "down to a cultural level some people can understand."

The governor related the incident later to an overflow crowd attending a Republican fund-raising dinner and admitted, "we should all keep our cool and maybe I didn't."

Reagan visited Chico as part of a four-day campaign tour on behalf of Republican candidates for Congress and the state Legislature.

He was to go to Fresno and Bakersfield today and Los Angeles Saturday.

He was the target of much stronger — and far more frequent — four-letter words at about the same time when Cleaver spoke on the University of California Berkeley campus. Cleaver led students in chanting a four - letter insult directed at the governor by name.

In Lakeport, earlier in his day's campaigning Reagan told about 3,000 persons at a barbecue that: "We, the people who built these universities, should set down the rules for education, and if they (students) don't want to abide by the rules, they can go some place else."

HUMPHREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says his campaign "turned the corner" during a 15-day push that carried him through wide sectors of the country.

Rallies in Portland and Seattle, Ore., were disrupted by hecklers. He admits Republican Richard M. Nixon is out in front.

Yet Humphrey and his staff were buoyed by the size and enthusiasm of crowds that turned out in San Francisco and Charlotte, N.C. Presidential lieutenants George Ball and Douglass Cater joined the vice president's entourage. The nation's largest union—the Teamsters—gave him formal endorsement.

Democratic polls claimed he's ahead at least in eight states holding 136 of the 270 electoral votes needed for election. And in the wake of his Salt Lake City, Utah, speech advocating a qualified bombing halt, Democratic senators rose in debate to defend Humphrey at nearly the same time 10 House Democrats who had backed war critic Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy announced they now support the vice president.

Humphrey made his "turning the corner" assessment yesterday during a wet motorcade through West Virginia, where John F. Kennedy's primary victory ended Humphrey's run for the presidential nomination in 1960.

NIXON

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has declared, for all the South to hear, that Alabama's George C. Wallace is not fit to be president of the United States.

But the Republican nominee for the White House acknowledged that the third party candidate could in the end prove to be his major rival in the Nov. 5 election.

Nixon chose a campaign television appearance broadcast across a dozen Southern states last night to level his most direct assault against Wallace.

Nixon also said for the first time that he would be willing to meet Wallace in two-man, televised campaign debate. But he later added that is not going to Nixon was to campaign today in Greenville and Spartanburg, S. C.

WALLACE

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A new and widely known running mate at his side, behind him a fatiguing, five-state courtship of the industrial Midwest labor vote, George C. Wallace relaxed his presidential campaign today apparently satisfied with the response to both.

Retired Gen. Curtis E. LaMay listened stoically to prolonged applause in two cities yesterday as Wallace introduced him as the vice presidential candidate of the American Independent Party.

Wallace said he was "pleased and gratified" at the receptions given LeMay.

In both Indianapolis and Toledo, telegrams from around the country greeted Wallace, complimenting him on his choice of LeMay.

Many of the messages strengthened the belief among Wallace strategists that LeMay would add stature and legitimacy to Wallace's third party race for the presidency.

MUSKIE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie again has invited hecklers to share his platform and extended the offer to future campaign appearances.

"If time allows, and under ground rules acceptable to both, I'd give anybody time to speak," the Democratic candidate for vice president said yesterday at Boulder, Colo.

There were no acceptances from the crowd estimated by police at 3,000 to 4,000, although some shouted, "End the war!" as Muskie spoke and then answered questions. One heckler did speak from Muskie's platform last week at Washington, Pa.

Muskie was to campaign today in Watts, Los Angeles' predominantly Negro district, and at a rally of students at the University of Southern California before moving to San Diego.

AGNEW

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew interrupted his speech last night to agree with hecklers who were chanting, "We need peace!" But, he said, peace comes from the work of those making sacrifices for it.

The audience applauded.

His talk at a suburban Portland high school was on the theme of providing a better urban environment for the people, standardizing welfare payments to check the flow of rural poor to the cities, and building well-planned satellite communities for "a decent, exciting existence" that would take some of the excess population from cities.

NOFZIGER

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The sudden departure of Lyn Nofziger, Gov. Ronald Reagan's top assistant, to the U.S. Senate race of Republican Max Rafferty appears to mean that Reagan and other top GOP leaders are moving to beef up Rafferty' campaign.

It was no secret in Sacramento that Nofziger's announced plans of leaving the administration at an unspecified time did not include joining anybody's political organization.

Nofziger, who was a Washington correspondent for Copley newspapers before he joined Reagan as press secretary in the 1966 gubernatorial campaign, had said last week he intended to get back into newspapering.

MURPHY

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The United States should pull out of the Paris peace talks with North Vietnam because "we are being used to create propaganda for the enemy," according to Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

He told a $100-a-plate Republican dinner last night there is little hope of a settlement in Paris and "if we had any sense" we would call it off.

"Next time, Henry, you better believe it!"

TIBURON

DEAR ?

YES ?

WOULD YOU MIND IF I CALL THE REAL ESTATE PEOPLE TO FIND OUT ABOUT A HOUSE?

YOU BET YOUR SWEET LIFE I WOULD! YOU'LL HAVE A PACK OF HUNGRY . . .

BUT DEAR, ALL I WANT TO DO IS ASK WHY THEY'RE SO CHEAP COMPARED TO . . .

OK, BUT IT SEEMS LIKE TIBURON IS ALWAYS SO HIGH BUT HERE'S A CLAIM THAT WE CAN BUILD A 4 BEDRM., 2 STORY COLONIAL ON ⅔ ACRE FOR . . .

LOOK HONEY, IT'S A TRICK, EITHER IT'S A CLIFF-HANGER WHERE YOU LOSE YOUR LAUNDRY TO THE NEIGHBORS BELOW OR IT'S EAST OF THE NET DEPOT.

DEAR, IT SAYS IT'S LEVEL, ON A CORNER AND BEFORE YOU GET TO THE OLD TRESTLE FOR $55,000 AND BUILT BY . . .

FLY BY NIGHT BUILDERS, I'LL BET . . .

JOHNNY RIBEIRO, DEAR.

WELL LOOK, CALL IF YOU WANT — BUT DON'T BLAME ME WHEN IT'S NEXT TO THE SEWER PLANT, AND YOU'LL HAVE A SALESMAN ON YOUR NECK FOR 3 MONTHS, YOU'LL SEE!

Dear Mrs. Housewife: This will be started next week at the corner of Paseo Mirasol and Via San Fernando. The new streets off Blackfield Drive. The sewer plant is miles away. It's a beautiful site. Go see it.

And so far as bothering you if you call us, your husband's wrong on that. We would love to talk to you (and to him) if you wish, but at your request.

The fact of the matter is that sales in Tiburon Hills are coming faster than we expected — no time for "hounding."

We have maps and plans in all our offices. Prices range from $49,000 to over $100,000. So far, most orders are between $55,000 and $60,000.

Frank Howard Allen owns the land. This is our 58th year in business here and we've alway been fair and honest. After all, we're trying to get established in Marin County.

LOTS OF GOODIES

It isn't often used car buyers are offered such an array of good cars. And, it's particularly appealing, 'cause not one carries a premium price. Lou Concilio's Marin Dodge is after momentum, and there's no better way to start it than with bargains like these.

'65 Dart $995

Every car maker envies Dodge its popular Dart, and people will envy you if you're sharp enough to grab this economy-plus 4-door 6. Gas easy 3-speed transmission, radio and heater, trained very carefully for you for only 35,000 miles. #9062

'67 Plymouth $2295

'65 Corsa $1095

Chevy's proud of this Corvair Convertible, and you will be, too. Mauve, 4-speed, bucket seats, radio and heater, will make you a real sport on a budget. #1523A

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Behavior can be traced to personality characteristics. Adults with personality disorders usually act in ways that were appropriate in childhood. The majority are egocentric as are children; they are incapable of concern for others. Altering this basic personality pattern is just as difficult as changing stature or physique.

Dr. William B. McGrath of Phoenix, Ariz., believes that such individuals simply have not learned or been taught to conduct themselves as adults. Those with an inadequate personality behave like children who have not learned to accept responsibility.

THEY WASTE energy on trivial matters, lolligag in the morning and are always late for appointments. They invite stressful situations, then become ineffectual and go to pieces.

The paranoid is like an overly sensitive child who so resents censure that he lies to avoid it. Their accomplishments may be ordinary but they cannot bear to be assessed as ordinary.

THEY ALWAYS blame someone else and therefore become very dishonest. The emotionally unstable overreact to everything and cannot take "no" for an answer. They must have what they want, right now. Any frustration leads to door slamming, temper tantrums, or wailing. The rest of us are tolerated so long as we comply with their demands.

The passive-aggressive is the type that most of us would hate to encounter in a labor dispute. He is ready to do anything for you that he wants to do and he expects you, too, to be willing to do anything that he wants. Rather than correct their gripes, they talk about them. They act like martyrs but always get revenge.

THE SOCIOPATHIC type includes criminals engaged in endless contest with authorities. They defy the rules of society unless the long arm of the law is nearby. They gloat over their triumphs and feel no remorse for their transgressions unless, of course, they get caught in the act.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

ATHLETE'S FOOT

R. E. writes: How can an oldster have athlete's foot when he is not athletic?

REPLY

Ringworm of the foot occurs at all ages, although younger persons are most susceptible. Being an athlete is not a prerequisite. It was given this name because at one time the condition was associated with shower rooms. In oldsters, poor circulation affects the skin, making it more prone to infection.

Extreme care must be used in treating the eruption because strong medications burn the affected tissues.

TEARFUL OVER NOTHING

A reader writes: I burst into tears upon the slightest provocation. This is causing much unhappiness in my home and social life. Would a tranquilizer help?

REPLY

Yes. Meanwhile, stop feeling sorry for yourself and practice self-discipline. A change in attitude will bring more permanent results.

WETS BED AT 79

A reader writes: A 79-year-old man wets the bed every night. How does a person manage such a habit?

REPLY

Take this man to your family physician, who will determine whether there is something wrong with his plumbing or his mind.

RUNNING CYST

D. N. writes: Does a running cyst at the end of the spine indicate cancer?

REPLY

No, as pilonidal cysts never become malignant. Surgery will rid you of the lesion once and for all.

EGG YOLK

E. E. writes: Is it true that coronary disease can be due to eating too many egg yolks?

REPLY

This concept is partly true in that 80 per cent of victims of heart attacks have more than the normal amount of chlosterol in the blood. cholesterol is a fatty molecule that is present in many foods, including egg yolk.

Enchanted Knolls Board Test Asked

Dissident directors Wednesday called for the election of a new governing board for the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association, Dr. Willard H. Pennell, board president reported.

Directors G. C. Bennett and Fred W. Heide, in a written request submitted to the board, asked that a special general meeting of the association membership be set for Nov. 6 to remove the present board and elect new directors.

Bennett said today the move came after the majority of the board refused to change its stand approving a higher density for the 73 undeveloped acres in Enchanted Knolls.

Developers Eugene Harder and Warner R. Odenthal have requested a change in the density from five to eight dwelling units per acre. The matter will come before the Mill Valley City Council Monday night for a vote.

Bennett said that in three separate votes the majority of Enchanted Knolls residents indicated opposition to a higher overall density for the ridge lands.

The most recent vote is still being tabulated, Pennell said, but preliminary returns are running four to one in opposition to the higher density.

Bennett said that Pennell and the other directors last night refused to change their stand even after seeing the preliminary tabulation.

Pennell has told the city council and planning commission that the board favors the higher density by a 3-1 vote with Bennett as the only dissenter.

28-Campus State College University System Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A private consulting firm suggests that the University of California and the state colleges be merged into a 28-campus system.

The Academy for Educational Development prepared the report, which was made public yesterday, for presentation Monday to the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

Councilmen, who have advisory powers to both the university and colleges, hired the firm while seeking means of reducing the competition for state money and prestige.

As an alternative, the academy suggests keeping the university and the colleges separate under the council but giving the council statutory power to carry out its recommendations.

Under its favored plan, the academy recommends combining the university's regents and the colleges' trustees into one board which would have eight ex-officio and nonvoting members, including the governor and the state superintendent of public instruction.

Richardson Bay Plans On Agenda

Development plans for Richardson Bay will be discussed at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Mill Valley Library meeting room.

Speakers will include Joseph Bodovitz, executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, Paul C. Zucker, Marin County planning director, and Harvey Bragdon, Mill Valley planning director.

Clifford Hanssen, chairman of the meeting for the sponsoring organization, the Mill Valley Unit of the Marin Conservation League, said the meeting is designed to help clarify bay plans so citizens can speak for or against them.

Items such as houseboats, dry docks, the BCDC plan, a Mill Valley marina and others will be discussed.

Flea Mart Limited; No Commercial Sales

The flea market sponsored by Co-op of Marin from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 71 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera, will be limited to sales by individuals or non-profit charitable groups.

Merchants and others dealing commercially in personal and household items, contrary to previous announcement, will not be permitted to exhibit, the sponsors said yesterday.

State's Realty Dealers Elect

D. Ray Grable, San Diego, was named honorary president of the CREA, which represents 46,000 real estate dealers in the state.

The convention passed a resolution condemning the attempt by labor groups to boycott California table grapes. It urged state and federal officials "to correct the coercive action of the boycott."

Reports Theft

Hollis Tissier of 418 Upham Street, Petaluma, reported a record player valued at $30 was stolen from his home around 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Policeman In Shooting Suspended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police Chief Thomas Cahill has suspended a patrolman who shot a Negro truck driver to death during an off-duty melee in an alley near the Hall of Justice.

The suspension of officer Michael O'Brien, 27, was announced yesterday by Cahill. He also said information would be "gladly furnished" to the FBI for its investigation of the matter.

The Justice Department, in its first probe of the San Francisco Police Department, said it asked for an inquiry into the fatal shooting of George Baskett, 28, to find out if his civil rights had been violated.

Baskett was shot by O'Brien Sunday night in a dispute that started when a car scraped a trailer which O'Brien and another off-duty officer were putting in a garage.

The police tactical squad was rushed into the area when authorities said about 60 persons became involved in the row and shots were fired by both police and residents of the largely Negro area.

Earlier this week, attorney Marvin Lewis said he would file claims against the city totaling $4 million in connection with the incident. He claimed O'Brien had "a past history as a racist" and shot Baskett in cold blood.

Chief Cahill said yesterday his investigation of the shooting was still open, and he has not ruled out the possibility that O'Brien might face a criminal charge.

Court Delays In Call For Girl's Testimony

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Susan Bartolomei, crippled and voiceless as the result of a brutal beating more than a year ago, has become the focal point in the murder trial of two Washington state youths.

The question centered on whether the 18-year-old Ukiah girl should testify before the jury trying the youths accused of slaying her boy friend, Timothy Luce.

Miss Bartolomei is partially paralyzed and can communicate only by nodding her head and giving painfully slow hand signals after being raped and repeatedly shot and left for dead beside a mountain road near Ukiah Aug. 23, 1967.

Superior Judge Joseph Kelly yesterday postponed the latest arguments on the matter of her testimony until Monday in order to give attorneys on both sides more time to prepare.

Prosecutor Arthur Broaddus, who wants the jury to go to Ukiah, to take the girl's testimony, asked for the delay, saying the matter was "a very serious legal problem."

Merle Orchard, who is representing Thomas Braun, 19, one of the defendants, asked the judge to have Miss Bartolomei's testimony taken by deposition and read in court.

Braun and Leonard E. Maine, also 19, are on trial for killing Luce and attacking Miss Bartolomei. Both defendants are from Ritzville, Wash.

The trial was moved to San Jose after the state Supreme Court ruled the accused could not get a fair trial at Ukiah.

Prep Grid Rivalry

There are probably better ways to start a season, but off hand, a genuine rivalry is not too bad.

That's what Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools have, just by sheer proximity. And that's what it's going to be tonight at San Rafael when a pack of Trojans and Bulldogs and assorted pom-pon girls pile into the stadium for the 1968 Marin County Athletic League football opener at 8 o'clock.

"They'll be higher than a kite," says Terra Linda coach Don Lucas of the San Rafael Bulldogs.

"They're an outstanding ball club with great execution," says San Rafael coach Bob Muster of the Trojans.

The Bulldogs have been executed twice by Terra Linda in the past two years, and in that time span, have not managed to find their way into the end zone against the traditionally tough Terra Linda defenses.

Muster figures things might change.

"We have a little more to throw at them," Muster said. "I think we can score on them."

The Bulldogs will be running two quarterbacks (Jay Widmer, a junior, and Bruce Nave, a sophomore) at the Trojans. Widmer is a rollout specialist while Nave can, and will, throw long.

The Trojans have the same kind of quarterback situation — short-throwing, play-smart Jerry Goodrick and long-throwing, talented sophomore Tom Jackson, plus two first rate runners in Dan McInnis and Steve McClain.

The Bulldogs dipped from a free-wheeling 33-25 victory over Marin Catholic to a 19-13 setback to Montgomery last week.

"I think we may have been looking ahead a little," Muster said. "But that's not making ex-

Novato To Host Tamalpais

They should bring adding machines to the Novato-Tamalpais Marin County Athletic League football clash at Novato High tomorrow afternoon.

The 2 o'clock game brings together the only remaining unbeaten and untied teams in the league, sporting the top two quarterbacks and the two most explosive offenses in the league. They could stomp the end zone into a desert because of overuse.

But it may not be that way because Novato also has the best defense, to date, going for them.

Still, the situation has potential fireworks going for it. One need only look back two seasons when Novato lost, 45-28, in a game that amassed upwards of more than 1,200 yards in total offense by both teams.

That was the game Don Mackin missed and his understudy threw for over 500 yards. Mackin is not going to miss this one but neither is Russ Dillon.

Mackin, a Tamalpais three-year veteran who passed for 1,200 yards last year, is bigger and better, if that's possible. He will run with the ball, and at 6-2, 190, he's difficult to bring down. His receivers are all fast, beginning with halfback Luther Brown, a 9.9 dashman who is the top receiver in the league and is averaging 17 yards per carry in the running department.

"We'll score," Tamalpais coach Willie Hector said. "If they concentrate on Donnie, Luther will get away. If they concentrate on Luther, Donnie will hit on a long one."

"It's going to be a tough ball game," Novato coach Al Scott said. "They have tremendous speed, and a really fine quarterback. But we've got to win that first one. And we have the defense. I think that will make the difference."

The defense has given up 70 yards per game in 33-6 and 45-6 wins over Montgomery and Petaluma, respectively.

"As far as Brown is concerned," Scott said. "Well, I guess we'll pray a lot."

Scott does feel that the Hornets are more balanced, something they haven't been the past two years. In his first year, it was all offense. Last year, great defense, no punch. This

Raiders Boosters Club Right Here In Marin

TIMELY TOPIC:

That Shaun Wiltshire is quite a wheeler-dealer.

Intent on importing a bit of his native merry old England to Wiltshire Towers in San Rafael, big Shaun first bought one of those double-decker London buses to transport Towers patrons to various functions like sporting events, indoors or outdoors.

Then he had a brainstorm to buy the London Bridge and reconstruct it in his backyard, but was stymied when a Southern California firm beat him to the punch and purchased the famed span to be used as a tourist attraction.

Undaunted, Wiltshire then came up with another gray matter tornado. "Why, I'll get Big Ben," he told awed friends. And, true to his word, Wiltshire brought Big Ben to his Towers Tuesday night.

This Ben Wears Mustache

Hmmm? Oh, no, this Big Ben doesn't go tick tock. I don't even know if he can tell time. Besides, the Queen wouldn't part with England's answer to Timex.

This Big Ben wears a handlebar mustache, stands 6 feet 8 inches, weighs 280 pounds and plays defensive end for the Oakland Raiders. Yes, Big Ben Davidson was special guest of Wiltshire Tuesday for the organization and election of officers of the Marin County Oakland Raiders Boosters Club.

As Big Ben was speaker of the evening, Wiltshire merely wound him up and he made an inspiring tock. He got a nice hand — big and little.

Wiltshire, incidentally, was elected president of the Boosters Club simply because he owns the joint and is bigger than any of the members. Gordon Tovani was elected president of vice — I mean vice president — while Harry Del Grande was named treasurer and Myrl Montsinger secretary.

Tallest Member Of Them All

Among the new members was San Rafael city councilman Bud Baar, a skyscraper and the only one present who could look Davidson in the eye without aid of stilts.

THE MARCH OF TIME——

Boy, am I getting old. Where's the rockin' chair? Get me a membership card to the Senior Citizens. And don't forget my Medicare credentials.

Thumbing through some yellowed clippings the other day I came across the story of a football game I had covered between San Rafael and El Cerrito high schools in 1947. Prominently mentioned in the yarn were San Rafael players named McGrath and Nave.

Just Like Their Dads

And now, 21 autumns later, I see where San Rafael High still has a couple of bright lights named McGrath (Tommy), and Nave (Bruce). Um-hmm, they are the young 'uns of the 1947 vintage Tom McGrath and Rich Nave.

I'm looking forward to the next generation when Tom McGrath III and Bruce Nave Jr. probably will star at San Rafael. They'll have to wheel me out to those games.

SMOG NOTE: Tom McHugh, former head pro at the San Geronimo National golf club now running the golfing show at the Pomona National course in Walnut, returned to Marin on a brief business trip yesterday and was telling friends about the eye-stinging atmospheric conditions in southern Cal.

But The View Is Hidden

"We have a beautiful view of Mt. Baldie," he said, "and can see it about once or twice a year. Some of our members don't even know there's a mountain down there."

The Pomona club is about seven miles south of West Covina on the Pomona Freeway. McHugh returned south today to begin preparations for the annual Comedians' Classic Tournament next month at Pomona National that will feature the likes of Bob Hope, Rowan and Martin, Don Adams, Joey Bishop, Buddy Hackett, Bob Newhart, Don Rickles, etc. (Oops, there I go name-dropping again.)

Oiler Pete Beathard Undergoes Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Quarterback Pete Beathard of Houston Oilers underwent surgery last night for acute gangrenous appendicitis and will be out of action for five weeks.

An Oiler spokesman said Beathard had been bothered off and on since the exhibition season with stomach pains.

Murphy In Narrow Golf Lead

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Bob Murphy, 25-year-old slugger from Nichols, Fla., shot a one-under-par 35 on the first nine of Royal Birkdale today and eased into a one-shot lead after 45 holes of the $200,000 Alcan Golf Tournament.

Murphy's co-leader at 141 after 36 holes, Bobby Cole of South Africa, posted a 37 and slipped two shots off the pace.

EIGHT UNDER

For the distance, Murphy was eight shots under Birkdale's par 74.

Bert Yancey of Tallahasee, Fla., took advantage with a six-under-par 68, a record for the specially enlarged layout. This put him at 220 for 54 holes, two under par.

U.S. Gals Tie Aussies For Lead

MELBOURNE (AP) — The United States, Australia and France were locked in a tight struggle for the Espirito Santo Trophy today after the third round of the women's World Amateur Team Golf Championships.

The United States, defending the trophy it won in Mexico two years ago, moved into a tie with Australia with an aggregate 463, with France just one stroke behind.

None of the other 14 competing countries appears to have any chance of catching the leaders in the final round at the Victoria Club, par 73, course tomorrow.

Three players hit off for each country and the two best scores count.

U.S. star Anne Quast Welts of Mt. Vernon, Wash., thrilled several thousand spectators with the best nine-hole round so far —a two-under-par 35 for the back nine, which enabled her team to catch Australia.

"I was ready to crawl into a hole when I took four over par 40 on the way out," she said. "Then putts started to drop and I had only 14 putts on the second nine."

She did have one bogey in that second nine, when she hit three woods against the wind to the 530-yard 17th.

Both her teammates, Shelley Hamlin of Fresno, and Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, had 76s.

Miss Hamlin looked set for a better round when she went out in par 36 but three-putted two greens on the way home. "I just could not get a putt into the hole," she said.

Catherine Lacoste of France looked like she would have another bad round, as she did yesterday, when she went out in 39. Then she changed her woolly beanie cap with the red pompon for a red sun visor and she started to score.

She came home in one-under-par 36 and at the 445-yard 18th put her second wood on the edge of the green and just missed her putt for an eagle.

There was only slight rain today and a light wind, but the best scores were only 75s by Mrs. Welts, Miss Lacoste and Marea Hickey of Australia.

Miss Lacoste and Miss Hickey remained tied as individual score leaders.

GAMES WILL GO ON

Mexico City's Olympiad Like Tale Of Two Cities

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The 19th Olympiad is like a tale of two cities, one of friendly athletic youth of the world and the other of riot-blooded Mexican college students.

And yesterday an amazing 81-year-old man, President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee, apparently prevented the first cancellation of the Games because of a youth rebellion.

NINE DAYS

With the start of the Olympics only nine days off, Brundage took the word of reassuring Mexican authorities and proclaimed the Games would start as scheduled despite the most recent bloody gun battle between military and militant students Wednesday night.

Brundage, who next week may be elected to serve four more years in the IOC presidency he has held since 1952, ostensibly scored another in a long series of difficult administrative victories in squashing rampant rumors the Mexico Games would be called off.

After leading an IOC Executive Committee conference with Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, chairman of the Mexican Organizing Committee, Brundage issued a brief but straight-forward statement for which several hundred members of the world press clamored for hours yesterday.

'AS SCHEDULED'

"The Games of the 19th Olympiad, a friendly gathering of the youth of the world in amicable competition, will proceed as scheduled," said Brundage's statement issued in English, French and Spanish.

"We have conferred with the Mexican authorities and we have been assured that nothing will interfere with the peaceful entrance of the Olympic flame into the stadium on Oct. 12, nor with the competitions which follow."

Asked what measures could prevent still a third major outbreak of bloody violence in the drawn-out, bitter student strike, Brundage said:

"We must rely on the prevailing of proper authority against disorder, or we no longer have authority," said Brundage, still alert dispite a minimum of sleep since his arrival here Sunday.

'WHO CAN SAY?'

"Who can say what are proper safeguards against violence when despite all possible precaution we had the tragic assassination of President Kennedy, to name one violent instance of our troubled times."

Brundage, in giving a green light to the Games which will draw a record 7,000 athletes from more than 200 nations, also scored a behind-the-scenes triumph.

Earlier yesterday, Brundage was confronted with an ultimatum from Guilio Onesti, president of the Italian Olympic Committee and head of a newly formed assembly of national Olympic committees.

Onesti demanded that Brundage apply for formal assurance from Mexican officials that the Games could be conducted without incident, or that he (Onesti) would have the national Olympic committees make such a request.

HIS RIGHT

"Mr. Onesti has the right to do any thing he pleases," said Brundage, adding: "The IOC will do what it regards necessary for the best interest and welfare of the Olympic movement."

Onesti and Count Jean de Beaumont, 63, millionaire banker who is president of the French Olympic Committee, are regarded possible presidential rivals to Brundage in next week's balloting for the office in the full IOC meeting.

It's Day Of Rest In World Series

DETROIT (AP) — A sandy-haired youngster, no more than 10 and waving a piece of paper, dashed up to a weary sheriff's deputy at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport last night and screamed, "I got Bill Freehan's autograph."

The lad was one of thousands who got around protective police barricades just after a jet carrying the Detroit Tigers landed.

PUSHING THRONG

"Once they're in, you'll never get them out," said the deputy of the screaming, pushing throng pressed against the plane's exit ramp as the 131 people in the Tiger party tried to disembark.

One of the first Tigers to exit was Willie Horton, whose second-inning solo homer hours earlier sent the Tigers on the way to a Series-evening 8-1 victory.

"We just felt good," Horton told newsmen in the forefront of the crush. "We knew we had to go out there and do it and we did it."

Earl Wilson, who starts the third game for the Tigers tomorrow was close behind Horton.

"What do you think of those Cardinals?" someone asked.

'FEROCIOUS'

"Ferocious," said Wilson before he was nearly swept away by the crowd.

When yesterday's winner Mickey Lolich, Manager Mayo Smith and Denny McLain appeared on the ramp in quick succession, it was bedlam around the plane as the fans flashed the victory sign en masse and began chanting "Go-Go Tigers" in unison.

Tiger players fought their way to buses waiting to whisk them downtown and still the fans pressed with their signs and Tiger pennants.

Two youths blocked the lead bus to make sure the players would see their lettered offering: Tigers, Slip 'Em Two Mickeys—Lolich and Stanley.

PREP BAND

Meanwhile, over by the fence which had long since given way before the enthusiastic fans, the 80-member Cooley High School band in deep red uniforms made its musical contribution to the festivities.

The big bass drum depicted a big red cardinal-ironically the school's nickname.

The appearance of that particular band was provoked by a story the day before in a Detroit paper which observed the Tigers' first game performance was in general "like the Cooley High Marching Band."

"As long as the Tigers have been placed in our category," said band director Richard Yorke, "we'd like to show them that we're good, too."

KIDS' IDEA

"It was all the kids' idea," said Yorke. "When they saw that story, they practiced all afternoon before coming out here." He added that a call to the offending newspaper resulted in a free bus ride to the airport.

About half an hour after the Tigers landed, the St. Louis Cardinals arrived at another hanger, apparently unknown to the Tiger fans.

St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst was among the first off the plane in the Cardinal delegation and when asked what he thought of the Detroit club, replied with a smile: "They're Tigers."

REAFFIRMS

Schoendienst reaffirmed an earlier prediction that the Series would go "six or seven games, depending on the pitching on one side or the other. It's pitching that's going to decide it."

Opening game winner Bob Gibson, wearing a kelly-green Nehru jacket and a gold medallion from a chain around his neck, commenting on McLain's performance said simply, "He just looked like a pitcher who got beat."

The Real Reason Why Raiders Dumped Clem

OAKLAND — Hate to annoy you with another piece of sporting gossip, but on the chance you're interested in why the Oakland Raiders calmly surrendered Clem Daniels to the San Francisco 49ers I'll pass along the poop.

Much has been made of the fact that the all-time American Football League rushing champion had a bad ankle and, at 31, was too old and with guys — young fellows — like Larry Todd, Pete Banaszak and Charlie Smith in the backfield was highly expendable.

DON'T BELIEVE these trifling alibis. None is true. All are cover stories for the practical reason the Raiders disposed of their marvelous halfback, the town's favorite ever since the Raiders moved from drawing flies to selling tickets over here.

The answer, folks, is the answer to everything that happens in the professional sports world these days: Bread.

I'M PLUMB astounded that the big city sporting press fellers overlooked the cause of Al Davis waving bye-bye to Clem Daniels. Not that some of them don't know it, particularly the metropolitan journalists who toil in this town. But the Oakland scribes, you see, are more dedicated to waving pom pons for brother Davis and his champions then reporting grisly, materialistic facts.

Only a few days before Clem was "retired" by the Raiders, we were confronted with glowing news stories raving about a new contract for the great quarterback and prince of men, Daryle Lamonica.

THIS NEW contract meant many dollars for the AFL's top-rated signal caller. Many more dollars than rested in the Raiders' player personnel budget.

This overage had to be made up, as any good bookkeeper can tell you.

And it was made up out of whole halfback cloth by cutting Clem Daniels and his rather large stipend.

INTERESTINGLY, Davis had balked a year earlier about picking up Lamonica from Buffalo. He'd been talked into that deal by coach John Rauch and then general manager Scotty Stirling, a fine fellow who later paid the penalty of coming up with a bright idea and found his job usurped by good old managing general partner Davis.

So here was Big Al stuck with a genius quarterback he didn't want in the first place and forced to ditch a favorite halfback. There was no choice, really, because Lamonica gave Oakland a title.

NOW WHAT was Davis to do? He couldn't peddle Clem to anybody else in the AFL and have the back return to haunt Oakland and stir fan wrath. What he could do was ask Clem to retire and offer the guy a few bucks to do public relations chores in the community. Which is what I'm told Davis did — and which is what Clem turned down.

Davis' next step was to suggest to other AFL teams that they not pick up Clem on waivers — or he'd pull Daniels off the waiver list. Which is what the other clubs did, being that they might want a favor from Al someday.

SO HERE came the Niners and three other NFL clubs bidding for Daniels' services. Clem has a liquor store here, wanted to stay in the Bay Area, chose San Francisco.

He won't lead the Niners to a title but, after the system's learned, will perform admirably. You can't blame a man for wanting to continue at a game in which he's always excelled. Public relations is for guys who can't gain yardage between tackles.

49ers Trying To Toughen Up Defense

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Francisco's 49ers, who got their offense in gear as they trimmed Atlanta, are giving thought to the defense for their next game, against the Los Angeles Rams.

Line Coach Paul Wiggin thinks the biggest problem his 49ers will face Sunday at Los Angeles will be 6-foot-4, 225-pound quarterback Roman Gabriel.

"Tackling him is just like tackling a tree — a redwood tree," the coach said. "It just doesn't come down."

The 49ers dumped Atlanta 28-13 as quarterback John Brodie displayed his passing talents, completing 17 of 20 thrown for 191 yards.

But he will be up against a more stingy defense when he meets the Rams, who held the Cleveland Browns to a total of 129 yards and won by 24-6 last Sunday.

Los Angeles has a 3-0 record in the National Football League and San Francisco is 2-1.

year, the two seem to have come together.

Dillon, in his second year at quarterback, is a smooth passer who throws little but effectively. He hit a marvelous five for six against Petaluma, scored a touchdown and threw for two more. The Hornets also have Pat Greene, top scorer in the loop with 30 points on four touchdown and six extra points.

"I don't see any problem with our offense," Hector said. "We just have to keep them from scoring."

Which, after all, is the name of the game.

San Diego, S.F. Win Twin Bill

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Rockets whipped Seattle 113-101 and San Francisco handed previously unbeaten Los Angeles a 106-103 setback last night in a National Basketball Association exhibition doubleheader.

Rookie Elvin Hayes scored 17 points and John Block poured in 22 in San Diego's victory over the SuperSonics. The losers were led by Bob Rule with 22.

The Lakers built up a 13-point lead midway through the final period before taking out Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain. Chamberlain led all scorers with 25 points.

Tougher Task Ahead For Stanford Indians

STANFORD (AP) — Penetrating a rugged defense and stopping a record-setting field goal kicker will be Stanford's task tomorrow when it puts its 2-0 record on the line against the Air Force Academy in Stanford Stadium at 1:30.

Stanford Coach John Ralston sent assistant Dutch Fehring to scout the Falcons last week when they beat Wyoming 10-3. Ralston commented: "Dutch said it was the best Air Force team he's ever seen."

After losing a heart-breaker to nationally ranked Florida 23-20 in its first game, the Falcons from Colorado stopped Wyoming, last year's Sugar Bowl team, without a touchdown for the first time in 27 games.

Junior Dennis Leuthauser kicked a 57-yard field goal which, according to the men who tend the record books, is the longest ever made in modern college football.

The Indians, with amazing sophomore quarterback Jim Plunkett, will be out to extend their unbeaten string to three straight going into next week's important Pacific-8 Conference game with powerful Southern California.

Plunkett is ranked fourth in total offense among major-college football players, accounting for 519 yards in two games, 504 of them passing.

Rough-Tough Cal To Host San Jose

BERKELEY (AP)—San Jose State's injured Spartans, who gave up 68 points to the offense-minded Stanford Indians, move into Memorial Stadium tomorrow to play the defense-minded California Bears. Kickoff is at 1:30.

The Bears, who gave up just seven points in beating Michigan and Colorado, will be working against a Spartan club that lost its No. 1 ground gainer, Walt Shockley, to a knee operation.

Cal Coach Ray Willsey has been spending considerable time trying to get his team in the proper frame of mind to resist any upset ideas the Spartans may entertain.

Lucas sees the Bulldogs as a young team with potential, and the last part worries him somewhat.

"I think once they jell, they'll be a fine team," he said. "I just hope they don't jell against us."

The Trojans have looked like the same hard-hitting, powerful Trojans of the co-champion years for the past two seasons. They ripped Santa Rosa, 33-0, then came back twice to tie a strong South San Francisco team, 21-21, getting the deadlock in the final minute of play.

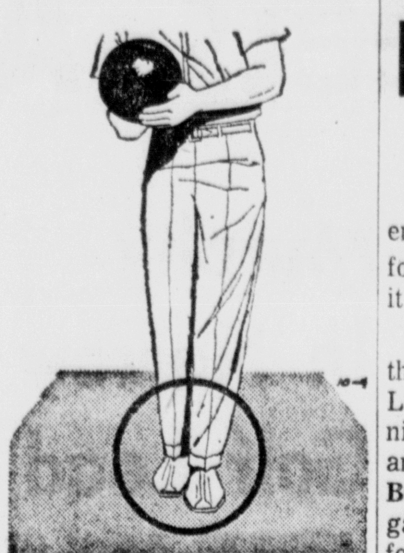
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Your feet should be touching each other as you get set, with the left foot pointing down the lane. This stance will make it easier for your to move forward without wavering, but there is an added advantage: If you are using your left shoe as a guide for finding your proper starting point, this point will actually vary unless the right shoe is always in the same relative position.

HOMECOMING

It's Marin Catholic Vs. Piner

It's homecoming after two weeks of no play for the Marin Catholic Wildcats for the third game of what could be their banner year.

They didn't lug in a patsy for homecoming fodder for this one. What's more the 'Cats may be without one of their best weapons.

Marin Catholic entertains Piner, 25-0 conqueror of Santa Rosa, tonight at 8 o'clock at College of Marin with breezy Jim O'Brien, the country's leading rusher, still slowed by a bout with the flu.

Coach Joel Kiff is optimistic, sort of.

"They (Piner) are a good football team," he said. "They've got good size, good speed. But we'll be doing a lot of passing, and if things work well, we can take them."

If O'brien is healthy, it might be a better bet.

Marin Catholic holds a 13-6 victory over Albany and has lost to San Rafael, 33-25 in previous games.

Rare Triplicate By Four Bowlers

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A triplicate series is hard enough to get, but when you get four bowlers to join forces to do it, that's something else!

The Novato Roofing team of the Hawaiian League at Nave Lanes did just that the other night. The mixed team — Bill and Kay Howey and Les and Betty Taylor — rolled three games of 560, a very unusual feat.

THIS AND THAT — Walt Smith is a bowling sponsor in the 840 Scratch League at Nave Lanes who carries a 160 blue book average, but don't let that fool you. He rolled games of 215, 214 and 199 for a 628 series, leading all scores at the Ignacio lanes . . . Also in the 840 Scratch, Jack Vallee picked up the 4-7-10 split . . . Don Lane had high single game at Nave Lanes, 266 . . . Mike Curry, manager at Country Club Bowl, showed the Week-Enders League how it's done when he converted the 4-7-10 . . . In the Friday Nite Leftovers League at Nave Lanes, Christine Guerrero missed a triplicate by a pin, 117-117-118, and San Schnieter picked up the 6-7-10 leave.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Lee Brown of the Traveling Comics League at Nave Lanes rolled eight straight strikes and wound up with a 256 game . . . Catherine McGrath missed a triplicate by one pin, two 119 games followed by a 120 in the Classy Lassies League at Nave Lanes . . . Dee Green picked up a very difficult 2-4-10 split in the Monday Washday League at Nave's . . . Ron Baccei, high-bowler of the week at Country Club Bowl, had his 637 series topped by a 241 game . . . Fran Ruys is in some kind of a rut in the Magic Fours League at Country Club, as she's started off the night with a 103 game for three straight weeks.

DOWN THE LANES — Barbara Fraus rolled a 120 triplicate to win headlines in the Lutheran Early League at Country Club Bowl, and Jean Larsen, 128 average, went all the way up to a 219 game . . . Ron Gottheimer was top junior at Greenbrae Lanes, 205-556 . . . Neal Hurley, 166 avg., had a 609 in the Splinters at Country Club . . . Rosey Corbin of the Ladies' 620 Classic was a little too good her last game, 167-167-175 . . . Delores Ray was awfully consistent in the Two of Each Kind League at Greenbrae Lanes, 199-197-196 for her 592. That big 592 was only second best for the gals at Greenbrae, since Marilyn Epidendio led 'em all with a 604 . . . In the Marin County Mixed Travel League at Nave Lanes, Johnny De Luca converted the 6-7 split and Jackie Malinoff, 130 avg., bowled 202 game.

Raiders, Pats Both Hurting With Injuries

OAKLAND (AP) — The Raiders and Boston Patriots will both be bothered by injuries when they meet Sunday in Oakland's American Football League home opener.

Boston fullback Jim Nance, the league's leading rusher, is out with a twisted ankle. End Art Graham is also sidelined.

Definitely out for the Raiders are halfback Larry Todd and linebacker Dave Ogas. And halfback Pete Banaszak will be playing despite two cracked ribs.

The Raiders, 3-0 and tied with the San Diego Chargers for the lead in the AFL's Western Division, will be aiming for their 14th straight regular season victory.

The FISHIN' FOOL

STEVENS

There are very few streams along the coast that can offer such a variety of game fish as the Russian River—grilse, salmon, striped bass and black bass.

From the King News and Tackle Shop at Guerneville comes the report that the fishing for grilse (immature male salmon) has slowed down to a walk, but already some silver salmon have been taken, striped bass are being landed off Duncan Mills and black bass are real active. According to Mrs. King, it's no trick to land a mess of blackies from shore at Brown's Pool and Odd Fellows Pool, or, dozens of places upstream from Guerneville. Most productive bait has been the lowly night crawler. You can pick up a quantity of night crawlers for black bass fishing or anchovies for salmon at the King Shop.

SPEAKING OF salmon, Rocky Point along the coast has been furnishing some very good results. Talking with Tony Caruso, of Caruso's boat and tackle spot in Sausalito, I learned that the Salmon Queen boated 10 limits of salmon to 20 pounds, the Hurricane had 30 salmon to 22 pounds, and the Jennie C landed 22 to 25 pounds.

Caruso also reported several small craft have had good fishing for striped bass drift fishing live bait in the Raccoon Strait and off California City.

CARL BENNETT of the Rodeo Marina reported a good week of trolling, sans sinker, on the Hercules Flats. It is hard to top sinkerless fishing in shallow water. If you have never angled for stripers with no sinker and while using ultra light tackle, you've a real treat awaiting you.

Bennett reported angler Guy Bentice of Pittsburg hooking, playing and finally landing a husky striper weighing an even 35 pounds. Fifteen-year-old Kevin Ray of Vallejo caught a lunker bass, I believe 25 pound. I not the boat Sturgeon bucked the wild waters of the Carquinez Strait and the upper San Pablo Bays with fish to 25 pounds.

A NUMBER of sturgeon were landed as were quite a few flounders. A private boat took two limits of bass near the Radar Screen, and Carl Bennett mentioned a few stripers were landed on bullhead baits. It looks as if the fall run of stripes has begun. Here's hoping it has.

Non-League Games For Prep Teams

It's back to business as usual for Drake and Redwood, two Marin County Athletic League grid teams that ran into juggernauts last week.

Names like Crestmoor and Washington don't quite ring the same kind of awesome bell that Vallejo and Riordan did. Neither, it is hoped, should they come up with the same kind of results.

Drake, 12-8 loser to Vallejo and a 34-7 winner over Petaluma, takes on San Francisco AAA entry Washington tomorrow at 8 p.m. at College of Marin. Redwood, 47-13 loser to Riordan and an 18-6 winner over Palo Alto, travels to Crestmoor in South San Francisco for a 3 p.m. game today in hopes of bouncing back.

Barry Scores 52, Oaks Lose

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rick Barry will try tonight to help even the Oakland Oaks' exhibition series with the Indiana Pacers.

Barry's explosive try last night in the series opener and his first American Basketball Association game resulted in the game's high scoring honors with 52 points. But the Pacers won 141-131.

LOLICH'S TOUGH PROBLEM

Hard To Keep Eyes Open

By MIKE RATHET

DETROIT (AP) — Mickey Lolich had two major problems before he went out to get the Tigers even in the second game of the World Series—keeping his mouth shut and his eyes open.

He managed to do the second, but not the first, and that's how the motorcycle-riding Detroit pitcher became the hero of yesterday's game as he scattered six hits and hit the first homer of his career in an 8-1 victory over St. Louis that tied the series at one victory apiece.

INFECTION

Lolich's problems stemmed from a groin infection he first noticed Wednesday night. And, as soon as he got to the ball park yesterday, he reported to the team doctor.

For the next couple of hours, whenever Lolich opened his mouth someone either shoved in a thermometer or some pills. The pills, in turn, were beginning to put him to sleep.

"I was quite groggy from the pills," Lolich explained. "The doctor said my eyes looked like they were going to sleep. He said I might run out of gas in the middle of the game and that I might get a headache at any time.

WOOZY

However, Lolich claimed the situation only served to make him a more effective pitcher.

"What happened because of that was I was so concerned about the infection I had no chance to be nervous and with all those pills making me groggy and the energy out of my body, I was completely relaxed.

"Another thing was that I didn't have enough energy to throw as hard as I usually do and as a result my fastball was sinking more."

MICKEY LOLICH
Motorcycle buff

Conscious of keeping from feeling any more tired, Lolich proceeded to the mound, where he completely lulled the Cardinals into submission.

DIFFICULT

A motorcycle enthusiast now with a stable of five bikes and a 1½-mile track on a plot of land near his home, Lolich was just a kid when he first became acquainted with motorcycles.

"I drove my tricycle off a curve and hit the kickstand of a parked motorcycle," Lolich explained. "The bike came down on top of me and I was pinned with it on my chest. I survived with only a broken collarbone."

BECAME SOUTHPAW

Lolich survived with only a broken collarbone, but he no longer was a right-hander. With the left collarbone broken and his arm getting little use, he was told to continually exercise his left arm to strengthen it. That turned him into a southpaw pitcher.

Eight years ago, Lolich returned to motorcycles, but decided to get on them, rather than under them. He not only rides them on the track he's had built, but can be seen any day there's a baseball game in Detroit, speeding to the park on one of the bikes.

He's also a part-time archer, gun collector, skin diver, pilot and banjo player, and for the last two summers has been a part-time pitcher while serving in the Air National Guard.

DISTURBING

"That's disturbed him both years," said Tiger pitching coach Johnny Sain in explaining Lolich's past two seasons—in both of which he's started well, then sagged, and finally come on strong. "You just can't get organized leaving for two weeks and several weekends and then being asked to pitch."

Even so, Lolich again came close to entering the 20-victory circle for the first time this year as he posted a 17-9 record. But while he still never has won 20, he now has hit his first homer.

The homer came in the third inning and not only startled the crowd of 54,692 but Lolich as well. As the ball sailed into the left field stands, Lolich passed first base. But he had to make a return trip because he had failed to touch the bag.

JUST SHOOK HEADS

"When I got to the bench," Lolich said with a smile, "everyone shook my hand, but no one said anything. They just sat down shaking their heads. I guess I'm so much of a Punch-and-Judy hitter it seemed sort of ridiculous to them.

"I don't hit homers. As a matter of fact, I don't hit."

But he does pitch. Even when he's falling asleep.

Cain's Tires Clinch Softball Crown

Cain's Tires clinched the second half title in the San Rafael Recreation Department's Class B Adult Softball League last night with a 17-2 victory over Antonelli Construction at Albert Park.

Joe Tosches, Terry Horner and Denny Coleman hit home runs for Cain's. In another game, Terra Linda downed the Bulls, 5-2.

Marin Tars Vs. Sierra In Rocklin

A lion den looms in the College of Marin Tars' future. It's set to snap close around 2 p.m. tomorrow in Rocklin.

The Tars, unbeaten since their opening 1967 game, travel there to take on the Sierra Junior College and Ivan Lippie.

Lippie is the quarterback who was injured against the Tars last year and the Wolverines are the team that blew a 34-6 lead over the Tars enroute to a 42-41 loss.

The Tars have been up to their same old ways, beating San Jose City College by a point in the last second and whipping Napa, 52-41 last week.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct 4, the 278th day of 1968 with 88 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1890, Mormons in Utah renounced the practice of polygamy.

In 1927, Al Jolson starred in "The Jazz Singer," the first full-length talking movie.

In 1938, Dr. Duard Benes resigned as president of Czechoslovakia under pressure of a German ultimatum.

In 1955, 66 persons died when a United Air Lines DC-4 hit Medicine Bow Peak in southern Wyoming.

A thought for the day—American diplomat Walter Hines Page once said: "There is one thing better than good government, and that is government in which all the people have a part."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Unlucky Finesses In North America Alone Cost $1 Billion In 1967

According to the latest figures, unlucky finesses in North America alone cost bridge players over a billion dollars in 1967. (These statistics don't include bridge games played to see who pays for the drinks. We have to draw the line somewhere.) Leading economists have asked me to point out that some of those finesses were not only unlucky but also unnecessary.

Opening lead — ♠ A

West opened the ace of trumps and then led another trump. South took the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart in dummy, discarded a club on the ace of diamonds and got to his hand by ruffing a diamond.

South then drew the last trump, took his high hearts and finally tried the club finesse. East had the queen of clubs, and South was down one.

South broke even since he had honors to offset the penalty of 100 points. Still, he should have made the slam and the rubber, for a score of 1,730 points. You can see how that sort of thing would mount up in the course of a whole year.

WRONG PLAYS

South went down because he took the wrong discard and the wrong ruff. He also took the wrong finesse because he shouldn't have finessed at all.

After winning the second trick with the ten of spades, South should take both of dummy's top clubs, discard a heart on the ace of diamonds, get to his hand with the ace of hearts and ruff a club in dummy, after discarding dummy's clubs on the other top hearts.

LAST ONE GOOD

Since the clubs break normally (three in one hand and two in the other), South's last club is now good. Declarer gets to his hand by ruffing a diamond, draws the last trump and claims the rest of the tricks.

This line of play is correct because the odds are better than 2 to 1 that the five missing clubs will be divided 3-2. The club finesse, adopted by the actual declarer, is only an even money chance.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠—A 6
♥—J 9 8 6
♦—K 10 9 7 5
♣—10 7

What do you say?

Answer: Bid one no trump.

The hand is not quite strong enough for a response of two diamonds. If partner had opened with one heart, you could just barely afford to respond two diamonds, with the intention of showing the heart support at your next turn.

Martens have a great dislike for water and will travel several miles to find a log or bridge to avoid swimming even a small stream.

Kaiser Subsidiary Buys Large Orchard

Westward Properties, Inc., the wholly owned real estate subsidiary of Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., has completed negotiations to purchase Butte Farms, an 860-acre orchard development in the Sacramento Valley near Gridley.

Butte Farms currently produces walnut, peach, prune and almond crops but only about 25 per cent of the orchards is now in full production.

This is the sixth major land development undertaking for the Kaiser subsidiary. Others are located in Oregon, near Fresno, near Livermore and in Southern California.

USLIFE HOLDING CORP. has reached a preliminary agreement to acquire Great National Life Insurance Co. of Dallas, Tex. If this and other acquisitions in process are completed, affiliates of the holding company will have some $4.5 billion of life insurance in force, assets of $350 million, and stockholders' equity of more than $61 illion.

CHRYSLER CORP. has entered into an agreement to become the exclusive distribution agent in the Western Hemisphere for Nissan diesel engines manufactured by Nissan Diesel Motor Co., Tokyo, Japan. The new lines will be marketed under the name of Chrysler-Nissan Diesel.

PACIFIC LIGHTING CORP. directors have elected Paul A. Miller president and chief executive officer to succeed Robert A. Hornby, who is scheduled to retire next month. Joseph R. Rensch was elected to fill Miller's post of executive vice president. Pacific Lighting is the parent company of Southern California Gas Co., Southern Counties Gas Co. of California and Pacific Lighting Service and Supply Co., which together form the world's largest gas distribution system.

AMERICAN PRESIDENT LINES has signed a $65.7 million contract with Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. for construction of three new Pacific Pacesetter containerships. Delivery of the first ship will be late in 1971 with the other two following at short intervals. They will operate in APL's service between West Coast ports and destinations in the Orient and southeast Asia.

CONSOLIDATED LEASING CORP. OF AMERICA has signed to acquire Wisconsin Barge Line, Inc., Cassville, Wis., and its subsidiaries. The company, previously privately owned, is a bulk transporter on the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, operates eight towboats and more than 180 barges.

MOTOROLA, INC. plans to build a factory in Taiwan as a subassembly facility for its consumer electronics production operations, all located in the United States. No finished products are planned for the Taiwanese operation; it will export its total output to domestic Motorola assembly plants in Illinois. It represents an expansion of the Motorola "feeder" plant pattern.

SKYMARK AIRLINES, INC., Sacramento, and Golden West Airlines of Van Nuys have terminated their merger discussions started in August.

NATIONAL AIRLINES and Pan American World Airways have proposed an agreement to lease Boeing 747 Jumbo jet aircraft to each other during seasonal periods. During such periods each aircraft would bear the markings of its owner unless one airline or the other wishes to repaint them at its own expense. National has agreed to configure and equip its 747s according to Pan Am specifications.

Blue Chips Stocks In Closing Gains

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the blue chips enjoyed another winning performance, the balance of the list generally moved in uncertain fashion today, with declines taking a slim lead over advances for the first time in about two weeks.

Shortly before the final bell, the UPI Stock Market Indicator, measuring all stocks traded, was up 0.05 per cent on 1,574 issues crossing the tape. Declines edged advances, 678 to 650.

Great American Holding, number one on the active list Thursday, continued to be among the heavily traded issues dipped into the minus column after gaining considerable ground in the previous session.

Steels moved in small fractions, generally higher. Motors backed off.

Du Pont was a good gainer in the mixed chemicals, while Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair Oil were winners in the irregular oil group.

Airline and Aerospace issues were mixed, as were rails.

Banks Are High In The 'Fringes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Banks lead all other major forms of business in the percentage of payroll allocated to fringe beneifts, according to a U.S. Chamber of Commerce survey.

As a group, banks reported 32.5 per cent of their 1967 payroll went for pensions, vacations, health insurance and other non-wage benefits.

Among manufacturing firms the average was 25.6 per cent, ranging up to 30 per cent for the biggest companies.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Sulfur Discovery Has Excellent Potential

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Last spring my shares of United Corp. were exchanged for $4 preference of the newly merged Pennzoil United. A dividend increase to $1 a share on the new common split shares makes me wonder if I should convert my preference shares to get the better yield. Can I convert? — F. W.

A. Your shares are convertible into 1.44 common shares for six years from the effective date of the merger. However, there is some misunderstanding on the new dividend rate which is 20 cents a quarter or 80 cents a year, making the yield on the preference shares still slightly higher than on the common. Since the preference shares are convertible, they tend to move in line with the common, plus offering additional safety. I see no advantage in conversion at this time.

Pennzoil United moved up sharply, partially in response to the spring rally but primarily on its own momentum, triggered by excellent earnings and a mammoth sulfur discovery by 98 per cent-owned Duval Corp. Although this mineral deposit is not expected to contribute to earnings much before 1970, it does provide a good long-term potential.

Perhaps the best testimony to Pennzoil's excellent outlook is tendered by the 30 institutional investors who hold 17 per cent of the company's stock.

Q. Is Zurn Industries worth holding despite its sharp drop from our purchase price of 45? If it has a future we can afford to hold it. — M. W.

A. There's good growth ahead for Zurn, I believe, and I'd hold the shares which you bought at the year's trading peak.

Sales are in an uptrend from an aggressive acquisition policy, but heavier-then-normal expenses resulted from moving one plant, and profit margins narrowed unexpectedly on the output of another. The company's president is predicting a 30 per cent increase in share net for fiscal 1969 (March) on possibly 70 per cent higher sales.

A major growth factor is Zurn's leading position in the design, manufacture and installation of pollution control systems — both air and water.

CRANSTON: Onetime Athlete Still Running Hard

(This is the last in a series of five articles on Alan Cranston, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, written for the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram and reprinted by permission.)

By FRANK ANDERSON

Democratic senatorial nominee Alan Cranston opens an 18-hour campaign day with some wind sprints and a mile run as he trains for the final heat with Republican Max Rafferty.

The man who once ran a 49-second quarter mile for Stanford is determined not to pull up lame as he did in his last two tries for public office.

The Cranston campaign suite at 3259 Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles is as spare and lean as the candidate who seeks the senatorial office now held by Thomas H. Kuchel, a primary casualty of the hard-driving Rafferty.

THE OFFICE contains a steel desk, one swivel chair and a half dozen metal folding chairs. The one ash tray is for visitors. Cranston doesn't smoke.

Cranston says he sees a parallel between the world he covered as an International News Service foreign correspondent in 1936-38 and the world of today.

"We had violence and racism then, and we have it with us today," he says. "Today, as then, one can get involved in trying to heal and correct, or one can sit on the sidelines and do nothing.

"I chose to get involved. Writing about such things wasn't enough for me."

The method of involvement, of course, is always open to interpretation by a politician's opponents. And Cranston has seen his work in behalf of such organizations as the California Democratic Council and the United World Federalists translated as "ultraleftist," "pinko" and "radical."

VEN O. FAHRNEY, Long Beach attorney who served as a CDC director the first two years of Cranston's CDC presidency, scoffs at efforts to picture Cranston as a flaming liberal.

"He (Cranston) is more middle of the road than given credit for," Fahrney says, fixing the questioner with the piercing blue eyes that have caused trial witnesses to squirm.

"I've dealt with facts, as an attorney and as a policeman," Fahrney says, "and I tell you this: Cranston kept the CDC in line. The radical stands taken by the CDC were taken after he resigned as president. He was a moderating force."

Cranston has his pluses and minuses as a candidate, and

Waste At The Root Of Distress Over Taxes

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., calling for a shakeup of federal bureaucracy, called attention recently to some of the wasteful overlap of government agencies.

Eight cabinet departments and 12 agencies are involved in health, he reported. Eighteen agencies are conducting programs "to improve the natural environment." Eight departments and four agencies operate major federal loan programs. Ten agencies in three departments direct manpower projects. Ten cabinet departments and more than 15 other agencies are involved in education.

THE LIST could go on and on. It need not stop with the federal government. The same mushrooming bureaucracy, with the same kind of overlaps, has worked its way down into state governments, and even to those of counties and major cities. Marin County has a current example: the Richardson Bay pollution situation, which finds county planning, building, public works and health departments and the county counsel all involved in attempted enforcement of laws, while the two officials elected to enforce the laws, the district attorney and sheriff, watch from the sidelines.

Very little is ever done about the proliferation of overlapping agencies. But it is one of the biggest reasons for ever-increasing tax loads.

How little is done was well demonstrated by the federal administration this year. Congress, as the price of passing President Johnson's income tax hike, insisted on a $6 billion cut in federal expenses.

Did the administration go searching for dead wood to cut out? Did it eliminate surplus agencies or functions of one agency that overlapped those of another? It did no such thing. It put the squeeze where it hurt worst and could be dramatized to the public most easily: on mail deliveries, on Forest Service fire lookout protection, etc. The result was what the administration wanted: Congress put part of the $6 billion back.

THERE IS NO question that any tax-eating jurisdiction, from the local school board to the gigantic bureaucracy centered in Washington, tends naturally and inevitably to expand. At the local level, the waste of overlapping jurisdictions is more readily noticeable and so is held somewhat in check. But the bigger the government, the more overlap and the more waste.

This, rather than any basic inequity in the tax structure, is what makes taxes excessive.

It is futile to revamp the tax structure while doing nothing about cutting the costs of government. We need go only a little way back in history — to the first federal income tax and the first state sales tax — to see that such revamping almost invariably puts the tightest squeeze where it hurts the most: on the little fellow.

UNFORTUNATELY, neither of the proposed constitutional amendments before California voters next month does anything about the cause for tax distress.

Proposition 9 would merely sweep away property tax support for some essential services, leaving it up to the state to impose new taxes to replace it. Proposition 1A, while offering temporary relief for one year, after that merely continues the "temporary" sales tax increase while at the same time reducing the assessed valuation on which property taxes can be levied, through adding exemptions. There is an old standard practice that covers this: When the valuation goes down, the rate goes up. The dollars paid out do not decrease.

First-Year Flop Needn't Mean Death Of Cal-Expo Dreams

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Events of the past few days have indicated that the state's new California Exposition is in serious financial trouble, but the potential for an outstanding show continues to exist.

The upheaval which saw the concept of semi-private operation of the exposition wiped out, and the resignation of its manager, E. R. (Doc) Lemmon, appears to be only a part of the shakedown period of changing over a traditional state fair into a major, modern exposition.

IT'S RELATIVELY easy to place the blame for a "flopperoo" as the exposition turned out to be this year, both exhibit-wise and financially; but it's not quite so simple to figure out solutions to the problem which involves California taxpayers to the tune of some $34 million. Trying to find the answers is up to the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan, and so far, none has been forthcoming.

The problem is, in fact, monumental. The state is stuck with a huge, unfinished plant. Funds for completing this plant are not in sight, the exposition will be out of money Jan. 1.

Even before the state decided to proceed with the project, it was estimated it would take a minimum of five years after its completion to put it on a self-supporting basis. The old state fair, after a century and more of operation, never was self-supporting, so there was no reason to believe that merely transferring the activities of the old fair to a new site would be any different.

THE PROBLEM appears to be whether the administration will decide to seek continuance of the development of the new California Exposition, or whether it will allow the multi-million dollar facility the state has erected to revert to the old state fair.

Admittedly, it is difficult to effect changes and wipe out traditions which have been in effect for many years, but many observers contend this has to be done before the people can hope to realize anything on the investment made at the California Exposition.

The potential for an outstanding exposition center, which would be self-supporting, still exists. Also, the state has discovered that a multiplicity of policy-making and executive-sharing responsibility contributed to the first year flop of the exposition.

It will not be surprising if a new chain of command, with an authorative executive head, is sought to rescue the exposition from disaster.

Max In Trouble Even Over English

I should like to quote Max Rafferty's recently published response to the articles about him that have appeared in the I-J. "I'm not a Johnny-come-lately in my religion, as your articles infer." Infer! What Mr. Rafferty means is "imply." I suggest that our state superintendent of schools get a dictionary and study the meaning of "infer," or else avoid the word until he learns more about basic grammar. The misuse of the word is a common error among those who are unschooled in the language, but one would not expect it from a man who professes to be a great educator.

Dissident Democrats 'Spoiled Children'

The Council of Democratic Clubs should change its name to the Committee to Elect Nixon (or Wallace) President. The Marin County Democratic Committee is not much better. Instead of futilely writing in the name of a defeated candidate who is not interested in the write-in, these party leaders ought to be out working for the finest liberal this country has known in my lifetime, Hubert H. Humphrey. The sorehead Democrats are going to see to it that their party loses the presidency (if they can). . . .

I believe that I speak for many besides myself, non-demonstrating, non-noisy, voters who are tired of the sick thinking of the California Democrats who are trying to destroy their own party. They are Nixon's not-so-secret weapon. I suggest that they spend time studying Humphrey's record in the United States Senate instead of behaving like spoiled children.

In this year of 1968 you are either a Republican or you are not. You are either for ousting the present administration or you are not.

Wallace voters would happily toss the election back to the House and Hubert. Cranston voters would cheerfully send Dick Nixon to the White House with a Democrat Senate.

If you are going to turn your coat, why not do it with one fool sweep and vote a Wallace-Cranston ticket?

Nothing Wrong At Kappas Harbor

Recent concern about conditions in Kappas Harbor, voiced emphatically by a number of supervisors, is without foundation. the incidence of infectious disease is no higher than in any other area of the community. References being made to the undesirability of raw sewage being emptied into the bay, laudable in their intent, border on hysteria rather than reason. It should be noted that numberous small communities throughout the U. S. are using basins at the water's edge for holding raw sewage . . .

It whould be noted too, that building codes have long been responsible for limiting a creative approach to the use of new materials for construction of single and multiple complex dwellings. . . .

Admittedly one's aesthetic concern might be offended by the lack of green belt in the waterfront area. This is not an insurmountable problem. Through a cooperatibe effort of landholder, owners of houseboats, and municipal entities it would be possible to transofrm some of the objectionalbe areas into pleasant parks.

Instead of wasting, energy and resources on fighting each other, we have before us a classic example for self-help and mutual cooperation. It remains to be seen whether good judgment will prevail.

All Is Marigolds For Dirksen As Illinois Democrats Feud

CHICAGO — A message came to Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen's modest campaign headquarters the other day. The telephone caller said that Mayor Richard J. Daley wanted Dirksen's people to see some interesting poll figures.

A lunch was arranged and while the poll results were not turned over to a strategist representing the senator, he was allowed to see them. They showed Dirksen running an extraordinary 78.8 per cent ahead of his Democratic opponent in Ford City, a populous area in the southwest corner of Chicago. What made this more remarkable is that Ford City is roughly one-third Negro, one-third Polish-American, and one-third white workers of mixed background.

The polls favoring Dirksen have from the start been so lopsided that his staffers find them incredible. But, cautious as all politicians are at this critical stage of a campaign, they are saying, "We don't believe we could kick it over now even if we tried." Dirksen at 72 will campaign throughout the state in the last five weeks before the election.

HIS DEMOCRATIC opponent, State Atty. Gen. William G. Clark, is running a campaign that seems at times to be aimed more at Daley and President Johnson than at Dirksen. He accuses the senator and the President of working a joint power axis — Practicing "back-room politics." He cites Dirksen's early support for confirmation of Abe Fortas to be chief justice in return, according to Clark, for Johnson backing to keep the Subversive Activities Control Board alive, an objective dear to Dirksen's heart.

As this shows, the Democrats in Illinois today are not so much a party as a collection of warring tribes. Extermination day is Nov. 5 and even Daley's overlordship of Cook County, his power base, is threatened if one can believe the private word of both Democrats and Republicans.

When Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was in the state recently he tried his hand at pacification at a closed meeting of party leaders called by Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro. State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson II, the only Democrat elected to statewide office in 1966, came in only at the end of the meeting. Before his arrival a Daley loyalist got up and denounced Stevenson for refusing to follow the Daley line at the Democratic convention and for his later criticism of the Daley organization as "feudal."

Humphrey responded immediately. He said he admired Stevenson's independence and considered that at times he himself should have taken a more independent stand. According to those present, this was received with something less than enthusiasm by the chieftains who know one principle, and that is Daley must be right.

AS FOR DALEY, he continues to give out roars of pain and rage over the television coverage of the disorders during the Democratic convention. He says that of 155,000 letters that have come from all over the country only 10,000 criticized the mayor and the police for brutality against the demonstrators. One of the first to come to Daley's defense was Dirksen, which understandably strengthened the bond already existing between them.

Moving about the state as a sonorous public institution, Dirksen has to do hardly more than touch up the crime issue and blow hard on the Supreme Court. For Ev everything is coming up marigolds, and if the election turns out as now seems likely, with substantial Republican gains in the Senate, he may at last get his dearest wish, which is to have the marigold proclaimed the national flower.

Navy Brass Gets In Licks For Missile Conversion

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Navy, with active assistance from the Pentagon high command, is trying to head off a Senate-imposed slowdown on transition from the proven Polaris missile to the untried Poseidon for missile-firing submarines.

Navy spokesmen are looking to the House for action to overturn a recommendation of the Senate's powerful Appropriations Committee. The committee, wary of the Navy's previous missile failures, wants proof of Poseidon's admittedly high potential.

The controversy, aired in the committee's closed-door hearings, has already produced some of the sharpest criticism ever leveled against U.S. weapons development. Targets were the three "T's" of Navy air defense, the Talos, Tartar and Terrier anti-aircraft missiles.

NOW AT ISSUE is the Pentagon's $5.1 billion, eight-year program for converting 31 of the 41-ship Polaris submarine fleet to the Poseidon missile. The larger Poseidon would let the missile-firing subs take full advantage of MIRV — warheads which include several separately targeted nuclear weapons.

In its $72 billion money bili, now pending in Congress, the Pentagon included $1.4 billion for Poseidon, more than half a billion of it to finance conversion of six Polaris submarines in addition to two conversions funded a year ago.

The House approved that program, but the Senate Committee cut the conversion outlay by nearly $280 million, to convert only two submarines. In its official report, the committee candidly told the Senate:

"It is the view of the committee that the Navy should proceed with caution in this program until the flight test program of the Poseidon missile has clearly established its reliability."

THE BIG defense appropriations bill is one of the major items of unfinished congressional business. Under normal circumstances the bill, once passed by the House, would have been rushed to final passage.

The Navy got some lobbying time, however, when Senate leaders decided to push ahead instead with the controversial nomination of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to be chief justice. The Navy brass has taken full advantage of the delay.

The secret of success in life is known only to those who have not succeeded. — John Churton Collins.

ART BUCHWALD

Who'll Heckle The Hecklers At Their National Convention?

WASHINGTON — Heckling of speakers has become such a big thing on college campuses these days that it has been decided to hold an Intercollegiate Hecklers Conference in the near future.

The man behind it is Hiram Bullhorn, who came to Washington to arrange for speakers who could be heckled at the conference.

"We were hoping to get President Johnson," Hiram said, "but we may have to settle for Hubert Humphrey and General Hershey."

"WHAT DO YOU intend to do at the conference?"

"We want to exchange ideas on heckling, discuss new methods of jeering and hooting, and see if we can find ways of shedding more heat and less light on the basic issues of the day."

"It should be very constructive," I said.

"I've had a very good response. Almost every university in the country wants to send a delegation! That is, if they don't have any speakers to heckle on their campuses the week of the convention."

"HOW DO YOU intend to conduct the conference?"

"We'll break it down into seminars. One group will discuss 'heckling from the balcony,' another 'heckling from the floor,' and a third, for graduate students, will devote itself to 'what to do if you can grab the mike.'

"We will also hold a session on 'new jeers' and classes in 'dirty sign painting.' And we shall probably devote an entire afternoon to 'what to do about antiheckling'."

"What do you mean by 'antiheckling'?"

"Well, for some time hecklers were permitted to heckle without being interrupted. But lately the speakers have been heckling the hecklers. Muskie has been embarrassing students by giving them time to state their cases. Humphrey has been hooting at kids in the balcony. Wallace tells the TV men to turn their cameras on the hecklers to embarrass them, and even Nixon has been using hecklers to get sympathy for himself.

"This antiheckling behavior of the speaker has caused a great deal of resentment among activist students and is a violation of the First Amendment, which guarantees to all citizens the right to hoot and jeer without fear of having to listen to what someone has to say."

"BUT WHAT CAN you do about it?"

"We will probably call for legislation to make antiheckling illegal, and we shall train student leaders in anti-antiheckling techniques. This will include cutting off microphones, the use of larger hand megaphones, and the escalation of catcalling. If we can't stop someone from speaking without their answering back, then free speech in this country has come to a sorry pass."

"I couldn't agree with you more. Where will you hold your first hecklers' convention?"

"Everyone wants it. Berkeley has asked for it; Columbia has lobbied for it; Madison, Wis., says they'll host it; but we think the only place to have a convention in this country is Chicago. For one thing, they have the best facilities for hecklers, and for another, after all the unfortunate publicity Mayor Daley got after the Democratic convention, he deserves the business."

his campaign staff is well aware of them.

"He doesn't come across well on the platform," a key aide says. "Television is Rafferty's 'bag,' not Alan's. But just put him at a table with a few people popping questions at him and the warmth comes through.

"We're going to be using a lot of television, but it will be the person-to-person type of setting, informal and conversational."

RAFFERTY HAS sought to debate Cranston but has been rebuffed. The reason given by Cranston is he "cannot debate with a man who refuses to tell the truth." But conversation at Cranston headquarters indicates the real reason has to do with Rafferty's demonstrated forensic ability, his skill at phrase-making, and his instinct for the jugular.

The Cranston aides don't want their man bogged down in a defensive campaign, but if he has to be, they are preparing counter-fire.

Cranston thinks he has been given a fair shake by the news media.

"I can point to many endorsements," he says.

The bruises suffered in past campaigns and in dog-fights with fellow Deomocrats have healed, he claims.

"There's total unity in the state party," Cranston says, adding that California Democrats came out of the national convention in better shape than ever before.

THE CRANSTON stomach is flat, the face is tanned and the forehead is as high as that of his late hero, Adlai Stevenson. He approaches a chair like a sprinter edging up to the blocks.

He follows the Los Angeles Rams "as often as I can squeeze a game in," and he says he has "been fortunate to combine job (politics) with my hobby (politics)."

He says he swims, surfs, skin dives and runs a mile a day, "rain or shine."

"I don't jog, either," he emphasizes.

Cranston and his wife, Geneva, will celebrate their 28th wedding anniversary Nov. 6, the day after the election. He's picked out his present — a six-year term as junior senator from the state of California.

Cranston's two sons, Rob, 20, and Kim, 22, "have been helping in precinct work since they were old enough to walk," the candidate says.

Mrs. Cranston helps out, too, "mostly by being tolerant of the campaign's heavy demands on my time."

If Cranston loses to Rafferty, he'll continue to be vice president of Carlsberg Financial Corp., a Los Angeles land investment firm, and president of Homes for a Better America.

BUT HE makes clear he doesn't intend to lose. And he points to the backing of Kuchel and Rockefeller-type Republicans who, he says, "are appalled at the prospect of Max Rafferty representing California in the U.S. Senate."

"Republicans for Cranston" include Nicholas Trutanic Jr., former Southern California scheduling secretary for Kuchel, and Mrs. Lee Sherry, former vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

In sum, Alan Cranston has published two books and a public record, and he stands on them. But, as Cervantes wrote:

"He that publishes a book runs a very great hazard, since nothing can be more impossible than to compose one that may secure the approbation of every reader."

The reader is the voter.

Student Protests Unneeded With Parents Like These

As if to show that students are not entitled to all the fun these days, a group of Bolinas-Stinson Beach parents are also busy attacking the Establishment.

The school board for the tiny district has been holding a series of meetings this fall in an effort to develop a "philosophy of education" to be used in its two schools.

The fact that Bolinas-Stinson Beach is different from most districts (one might even hazard "unique") was evidenced by the results of a poll of parents about the controversial sex education films, "Time of Your Life."

ONE HUNDRED per cent of the parents answering a district query wanted their children to see the films.

This same liberal outlook on education has been shown by the parents who have attended the "philosophy" sessions, where suggestions have ranged from "making school more fun" to throwing out the three R's.

At a meeting last week an irate father was waving a copy of a school statement to the effect that American heritage and ideals are not controversial and are to be taught in the schools.

While many people might think this was pretty standard stuff, it's due for a challenge in Bolinas-Stinson, as the man said, "This is going to take a great deal of examination."

Board Chairman Jane Phillips hastily said that the statement was a matter of policy and was not under discussion at the moment.

The parent agreed to bring up the point at a later discussion — presumably after a philosophy for the school district is adopted. Since the parents who have attended the meetings have a great deal of trouble communicating just what it is they want to the board members, this looks like a year-long project.

What they don't want comes through clearly enough: education should not be job-oriented and restrictions on creativity should be eliminated. What these parents — pretty typical of the district, according to Supt. Clarence B. Larison — do want may be plain to them, but the board, composed of four middle-aged ladies and one man, has yet to understand.

SOURCES AT the College of Marin have described how the Black Students for Action recently brought pressure to bear on a committee charged with dispersing a $2,000 fund for Negro students to gain their immediate wishes.

Earlier this year an anonymous donor gave the money for "helping Negro students who, on completion of two years at the college, have given evidence of a commitment which is worthy of support in their work for a four-year degree."

Secondly, the donor said he wished to help support the Negro adult program at the school.

He was not interested, the benefactor wrote, "in supporting programs which are bent simply upon getting members of minority races into school, whether they are qualified or not."

The committee, composed of some faculty members, met and agreed to yield to demands of the BSA and disperse the money to black students for books and other immediate needs.

Now the black students are claiming, through the college newspaper, that "they have to go through a lot of red tape" to get the money for books and other needs.

The upshot seems to be that possibly some worthy black students planning on going on to four-year colleges have been deprived of aid, while students of debatable academic merit have been given the money for immediate needs.

It's More Confusin' Than Amusin' As One Reads Record On Transit

Fusselman

The final paragraph of this column last week had a traffic mix-up with a senatorial political story and had its tail gate knocked off. It was a query.

Why, when the voters of New York State passed a $2.5 billion bond issue in 1967 to build highways, airports and mass transit facilities, would a man come to Marin, where financing was so nebulous, for less salary than he had been receiving?

It was said that Seymour Kashin, the manager of the paper Marin Transit System, left a $27,000 job there to come here for $21,000 with a promise of a quick raise to $25,000. (And who made the promise?) In July they raised him to $22,580, still $4,420 less than he was allegedly getting. The answer to this question could be quite interesting.

TO DIGRESS from transit for a moment, I hope you all read the I-J editorial on the Fair-Marin debacle . . . right on the nose! Another case of Brasilia of Marin abdication.

Here is the second news story. The Sept. 19 issue of the San Francisco Chronicle had an article which went like this: "Spokesmen for six Bay Area counties described here yesterday their grandiose plans for transportation of the future but NONE COULD SAY WHO WOULD PAY THE BILL. (Caps are mine.) They gave their opinions and forecasts at a study-group session of the state-created Bay Area Transportation Study Commission."

San Mateo County: "We'll probably go into a county wide bus system and contract with BART for an extension of their system."

Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District: "We're having to provide $4.5 million per year from some source other than fares. One of our big problems, once BART get running, is that our profitable service is the transbay line — where BART will run." (In 1964 we, here, were getting glowing reports of the successful operations on all their lines. It was held up to us as an example of what we could do.)

Santa Clara County: "We don't have any financing problems because we don't have any rapid transit. We are waiting for the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission to tell us how to move BART down to our county — a free BART. We're planning an intra-county bus network, like A. C., and if we do that we will have financing problems."

San Francisco City and County: "We're organizing a non-profit corporation, about $50 million, to replace all our street vehicles except the cable cars, which are sacred. We must raise additional cash for maintenance and storage of those new Muni subway cars."

Marin County: "We're planning an interim or short-range system of buses and ferries, but the long-range mission is rail rapid transit," said Seymour Kashin.

THE SAN MATEO man drew a laugh, while discussing possible future plans, when he said, "Adding to the property tax in San Mateo County would be very coolly received."

As I said last week, these things certainly induce some serious thinking.

Now consider again the grand manner of operation a la Brasilia. Zucker (Paul C., the planning director) is supposed to be working on balanced transportation. As evidence of that, he has added another new man to his staff. Kashin ditto. Kashin says that Marin Transit (only) must develop the essential information. And you know Zucker and his crew have no jurisdiction in any of the cities.

You name this thing that is going on.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

As long as war is regarded as wicked, it will always have its fascination. When it is looked upon as vulgar, it will cease to be popular. — Oscar Wilde.

No race can prosper till it learns that there is as much dignity in tilling a field as in writing a poem. — Booker T. Washington.

The man who is anybody and who does anything is surely going to be criticized, vilified, and misunderstood. This is a part of the penalty for greatness, and every great man understands it; and understands, too, that it is no proof of greatness. The final proof of greatness lies in being able to endure contumely without resentment. — Elbert Hubbard.

No man is justified in doing evil on the grounds of expediency. — Theodore Roosevelt.

There has never been any country at every moment so virtuous and wise that it has not sometimes needed to be saved from itself. — Havelock Ellis.
